Americas Not To Seek Separation From Old World, Sec. Hull Asserts

Recognize Inter-Dependence of Nations, He Says Before Opening of Conference at Lima

Insists That Peace Must Be Maintained on the American Continents at All Costs

Lima, Dec. 8 (AP)—Secretary Cordell Hull declared tonight on the eve of the opening of the pan-American conference that the assembly would not seek to separate the American continents from the rest of the world.

"The American republics do not seek regional solution for economic problems confronting the world today," the United States secretary of state and head of his government's delegation to the conference said in a radio address.

"They recognize the inter-dependence of all nations of the world in these fundamental questions and are eager to see the principles to which they have adhered adopted by all nations of the world."

Hull, who spoke after the Peruvian minister of foreign affairs, Dr. Carlos Concha, was believed to be offering reassurance to Argentina who has declared she would refrain from turning her back on the old world through any plan such as President Roosevelt's continental defense proposal.

Explain Hull's Views

American delegates to the Pan-American conference said Secretary Hull's conception was not to turn back on Europe and Asia, but rther to turn faces toward them and to keep eyes open.

Hull also was throwing overboard theories advanced by some Washington New Dealers that the United States should direct all its foreign trade toward Latin America and abandon economic intercourse with Europe, Asia and Africa.

Hull said the American nations were "determined that peace shall be maintained on the American continents and we are in agreement that any menace to that peace is

German Jews Plan Appeal to F. D. R. And Chamberlain

Will Ask for at Least Temporary Sanctuary At Once

Berlin, Dec. 8 (AP)—Jewish leaders were understood to be framing a "last hour" appeal to President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Chamberlain for at least temporary sanctuary today as diplomatic quarters heard new Nazi anti-Jewish measures were planned.

It was said the next legislation would order the dissolution of marriages between Jews and non-Jews or the Gentile partner would be declared Jewish.

The offspring of such marriages now are classed as of "mixed breed." It was not learned what the status of these children would be under the reported pending decree.

It was also reported that a law unifying anti-Semitic measures and closing any loopholes was being planned for the end of December.

Such a law, it was said, would introduce three new phases in the anti-Jewish campaign:

1—A distinguishing mark for Jews, possibly a yellow armband.

2—A ban on the use by Jews of public vehicles, except by special police permit.

3—The erection of a number of compulsory labor camps for homeless and jobless Jews. These would be placed in various parts of the country, it was said, near quarries, brick-making plants and the like, where there is heavy work to be done.

Under the reported marriage decree, the non-Jewish wife of a Jew would become Jewish from the moment she declared herself unwilling to accept divorce and would not be allowed to attend christian church services, diplomatic sources heard.

Pastors and priests would not be permitted to conduct services in Jewish districts and property in the name of the non-Jewish partner would fall under economics ministry decrees virtually forbidding Jews to own real property.

McKesson & Robbins May Be Just Shell, Director Says

New York, Dec. 8. (AP)—The tangled affairs of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., described by a director as "so darned fantastic we still cannot believe them," were taken under New York Federal Court trusteesship today, with the Securities & Exchange Commission as a party to the proceedings.

An account of the "fantastic" circumstances which brought the $87,000,000 drug concern under the spotlight was given by two directors, W. L. Cummings and J. F. Thompson, in testimony before the New York Stock Exchange Committee on stock list.

Widespread Fraud Charged

Cummings and Thompson gave a minute account of the far flung operations of the company's crude drug department, in which falsification of books, mismanagement and waste were charged in a receivership action started at Hartford, Conn., last Saturday.

"It may be the whole thing (the drug trading department) is just a hollow balloon, just a shell," Cummings told the stock exchange authorities. "There may be nothing there. That is the worst of the picture. There is no involvement of any other part of the business."

The department's assets were carried in the balance sheet at $17,000,000.

Another bizarre touch was given the testimony of the directors in their description of "warehouses" which handled business of the crude drug department, which primarily was a trading organization.

"Warehouses" for Mailing

It was discovered, Thompson said, that some supposed "warehouses," from which were received monthly reports on outgoing and incoming inventory were "just plain mailing addresses."

On the possibility the department actually was a "hollow balloon," with false profit reports, Thompson said it might called for some revision of the earnings reported for

Two Senators Ask Defense Spending For Army or Navy

BIG ARMY AIR FORCE ADVOCATED BY LATTER

By JACK BELL

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8 (AP)—Two influential members of the senate appropriations committee—Chairman Glass (D-Va) and Senator Byrnes (D-SC)—agreed today that additional national defense spending was necessary. They differed, however, as to whether the bulk of the increase should go to the army or navy.

Byrnes, who is chairman of the sub-committee on naval appropriations, said he favored immediate expansion of the army air force, observing that the navy already was "making good progress" on a construction program authorized by the last congress.

Senator Glass said he thought there was little need of increasing army appropriations materially but that the nevy should be built up to a point where all danger of invasion would be eliminated.

Favors Stronger Navy

"They can't fight us if they can't get to us," the venerable Virginian declared. "If we have a navy that can stop them, there won't be any invasion."

Offering still another viewpoint, Senator Borah (R-Idaho) said he was not so much interested in whether the apropriations went to the army or the navy as in seeing that more funds were spent proportionately on airplanes and less on battleships.

"I'll leave it up to the technical experts to decide whether the navy or the army air force, or both, needs expansion for defense purposes," Borah said, "but these battleships are for offense, not defense."

While Byrnes held out some hope that appropriations in general could be decreased next year, Glass said he saw little chance of making reductions unless the budget bureau trimmed estimates drastically in reporting to the president.

Glass Still a Rebel

"I'm still an 'unreconstructed rebel' when it comes to spending other people's money," he said. (Glass, a critic of many administration policies, has been dubbed "an unreconstructed rebel" by the president.)

Byrnes said se thought improving business conditions would permit a reduction in relief expenditures for the next fiscal year, which begins July 1, 1939. He expressed the opinion that "any relief bill passed will carry some provision to prevent the political use of relief funds."

The South Carolina senator told the New York Southern society last night that there must be a curb on spending to prevent unwarranted expansion of the public debt. He declared the debt "can become dangerous if life continues to become just one emergency after another."

Washington, Dec. 8. (AP)—The United States, deeply concerned lest Japan close China's "open door" permanently, has ordered its ambassador to the latter country, Nelson T. Johnson, to return home for consultations with President Roosevelt and state department officials.

The anouncement today of this step came simultaneously with further clarification by Japan of her intentions in East Asia, and directly followed Great Britain's declaration that she couldn't possibly subscribe to creation of an economic-political bloc there dominated by Japan.

Ickes and Frankfurter Flayed As Members of Civil Liberties Union

Col. Lathan Reed Attacks Them as Favoring Atheism

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—Colonel Latham Reed, a former army officer, accused the American Civil Liberties Union today of defending Atheism and the right of an individual to advocate murder, assassination and revolution.

Testifying before the Dies committee, Reed named Secretary Ickes of the interior department and Felix Frankfurter, a prominent possibility for the present Supreme Court vacancy, as members of the union. He said Ickes made a radical speech before the union called "Nations in Nightshirts."

Student of Union

Reed, an intensely serious little man with a crisp way of speaking, told the committee he had spent many years studying the literature and activities of the Civil Liberties Union.

In addition to getting in another blow at Ickes, with whom it has long been in controversy, the committee also received from Reed a statement that the Civil Liberties Union, in its literature, had called Harry Bridges, West coast director for the CIO, a Communist.

Chairman Dies (D-Tex.) and other members of the committee have demanded the immediate resumption of deportation proceedings against Bridges.

Right To Advocate Murder

Reed quoted Roger N. Baldwin, director of the Civil Liberties Union, as having asserted that anyone, whether a citizen or an alien, had the right to advocate the overthrow of the government by force, or to advocate murder or assassination. He said Baldwin had termed this the policy of the organization.

Producing a quantity of pamphlets and other literature which he said had been disseminated by the union, he said they asserted:

That the American public schools were under a capitalistic political dictatorship.

That the national guard, as it is constituted and used, "stands as a constant menace to civil liberties."

That the postoffice department exercises a "sweeping censorship" of the mails through "vague laws" relating to obscenity and fraud.

Dead Man At Wheel of Careening Automobile

Erie, Pa., Dec. 8 (AP) — A careening automobile with a dead man at the wheel sent scores of Christmas shoppers scurrying for safety down town today.

The occupant, Frank V. Mehler, 53, had left his tailor shop, telling an employe he was going to the doctor because he couldn't breathe well.

"I don't know if I'll be back," he added.

Defendant in Orgy Slaying On Trial Today

Prince Frederick, Md., Dec. 8 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Abell, 18, is expected to go on trial for murder tomorrow in the "orgy" slaying of William Warren Gantt, 55-year-old tobacco farmer.

Walter Stinnett, 24, also charged with murder after a week-end at Gantt's farm, was sentenced to life imprisonment last Friday. Mrs. Evelyn Bajowski, also 18, and like the other two also estranged from her spouse, will be tried for the same murder in Frederick county.

Mrs. Abell, childhood sweetheart of Stinnett, was named by him in a confession as having fired the first shot at Gantt. Stinnett later repudiated his confession.

A former Baltimore tavern waitress, the dark haired and plump Mrs. Abell is the mother of a three-year-old daughter.

The slaying, which police charged was planned after Gantt displayed several $100 bills, occurred July 12. The trio then fled to Fairview Beach, Va., where they were arrested while trying to cash a check issued to Gantt for $135. The arrest occurred before Virginia police had been informed of the murder.

Testimony in the first trial indicated that Gantt had apparently hidden his money in a barn the night before he was shot five times. The money, $960 in notes of large denominations, was found by Mrs. Blanche Stinnett, 20, wife of Walter, while storing tobacco there, she told the court.

Police said she had been given no opportunity to converse with Walter after his arrest. She pleaded guilty to stealing money from Gantt's estate and was sentenced to eighteen months.

The case will be heard before Judge Walter J. Mitchell, Joseph C. Mattingly, and William M. Loker.

Manufacturers in Hot Session Vote Government Aid

KILL PROPOSALS TO REVISE WAGNER ACT

Ask for Committee to Study Whole Tax Problem

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—The national association of manufacturers late today unanimously approved a 1939 platform urging "co-operation with the government." Without argument on the floor, the convention approved a program drawn up after a bitter fight behind closed doors in the resolutions committee.

The faction which favored co-operation with the New Deal succeeded in:

(1) Preventing open criticism of the whole policy of the reciprocal trade agreements.

(2) Striking out a proposal to revise the Wagner act.

(3) Eliminating another proposal to abolish special federal regulatory commissions.

Call for Co-operation

The 11-point program called for co-operation of industry, commerce, agriculture and labor with government, and said "we in industry admit our share of mistakes."

For the future, while recognizing a need of continuous unemployment relief, the program called for restoration of 9,000,000 unemployed to industrial jobs in the following manner:

(1) Business to realize human responsibilities, accept economic and social responsibilities, be frank with the public, maintain high standards, lower prices as feasible, maintain sound employe relations, be a "desirable citizen" of the community.

(2) Business to recognize labor's right to bagain collectively without intimidation from any source, continued good working conditions, adjustment of complaints, fair wages and incentives for advancement and a cushioning of the efforts of technilogical unemployment.

(3) Government to adjust fiscal policy to attract investment, to create new machines, to create new jobs for the unemployed. (Provisions of the securities act of 1933, and the securities and exchange commission of 1934, were descriged as "unnecessarily severe," but no definite recommendation of modification was made.)

(4) Increase purchasing power by increasing production rather than by curtailment.

Recognize U. S. Regulation

(5) Business to recognize government "regulation" for the good of all, but to oppose government "control."

(6) Creation of a non-partisan committee to study the whole tax problem.

(7) Government to improve its efficiency, lower its costs.

(8) Government not to compete with private business.

(9) Foreign trade to be encouraged by "every legitimate means" after due consideration for the needs of the home economy and protection of the "standard of living of the American people."

(10) Industry to assume "the burden of producing the requirements for national defense."

(11) "Removal of existing obstacles is a job for government, labor, agriculture, commerce and industry, requiring the best efforts of all."

Ohio Patrolman Abducted by Two Unknown Couples

Corp. Parker W. Powell Manacled and Thrown Into Field

Lebannon, O., Dec. 8 (AP)—Two men and two women, armed to the teeth and slippery as eels, abducted a state highway patrolman near Waynesville tonight, manacled him with his own handcuffs, tossed him into a field, and fled before more than 250 state, county, and city police officers.

While Indiana state police blockaded the Ohio-Indiana line, all available manpower of the highway patrol, led personally by Col. Lynn Black, superintendent, converged on the little Miami River bottoms near South Lebanon a few hours later in hopes of flushing at least part of the quartet.

Two Women Arrested

Two women answering descriptions of the pair in the gang were arrested late tonight on the streets of Kings Mills, South of here, by Sergeant Harvey Kurth and Patrolman Paul Clark of the Middletown police. They said one was wearing slacks and had about $300 in her pocketbook.

The women refused to give their names and were taken to Lebanon for questioning.

City police from Dayton and Cincinnati joined deputies from surrounding counties in the determined search for the four, believed to have come here from Missouri.

The abducted patrolman, Corp. Parker W. Powell, 29, of the Wilmington Patrol Station, was sent to Waynesville early tonight to investigate an accident.

Witness To Abduction

Colonel Black said Powell, finding the car in the ditch, had hailed Joe Sheldon of Greenville, a passing motorist, for help. As the luggage was being transferred, he said, Powell noticed a sub-machine gun in the wrecked car. The two men of the quartet immediately pulled their guns, took Sheldon's car, forced Powell into it, and drove

"No Third Term" Theme Song Popular With Large Faction

All three booms have a common keynote, although it was sounded openly only at the Garner rally in Texas. That is their "no third term" theme song aimed at Roosevelt boomers like Senator Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania, who urges that the president run again in 1940.

European Crisis Seen in Clamor Over Possession Of French Tunisia

Fresh Demonstrations in Italy as Press Tells of New Violence Against Italian People

By The Associated Press

A new crisis hung over Europe yesterday (Thursday) as a result of growing "unofficial" Italian agitation for French-ruled Tunisa.

Tension became acute with fresh demonstrations in Italy and France and angry Italian and anti-Italian rioting in the French north African protectorate.

Reports from the French-Spanish border said 40,000 Italian troops were massed in Insurgen Spain, just across the Pyrenees from France, emphasizing French fears that Italy might be preparing for military action.

Heavy reinforcements of mobile guards moved into Tunisia to cope with the disorders. Italians there were said to be getting ready to defend themselves.

Thousands of French students demonstrated against Italy in Paris, battling police who sought to halt them.

Fresh demonstrations were spurred in Italy by press charges of "new violence" against Italian residents in Tunisia.. Arabs joined the Italian demonstrators in Libya, Italy's North African colony and Tunisia's neighbor.

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

Paris, Dec. 8 (AP)—Something like a European crisis has arisen over Italy's "unofficial" clamor for French-protected Tunisia.

Italian and anti-Italian demonstrations and disorders in the French North African protectorate, heavy reinforcement of the mobile guard there and reports that Italians in Tunisia were planning to defend themselves were the newest factors of the near-crisis today.

Reports from the French-Spanish border that Italian troops were massed in Insurgent Spain just across the Pyrenees from France emphasized fears that Italy might

19 Reported Dead As Typhoon Hits Philippine Isles

Thousands Homeless, Much Property Damage In Storm's Wake

Manila, Dec. 8 (AP)—A typhoon raced across 15 provinces of the central Philippines today, killed at least 19 persons, made thousands homeless, and was believed to have caused much property damage.

Fallen wires in those areas blocked reports of casualties and damage as the hurricane passed 100 miles south of Manila, and out over the China Sea.

Samar Island reported 18 dead, and Camarines Sur Province one killed by the 75-mile storm that whirled in from the Pacific Ocean, after threatening the island since Monday.

Heavy property and crop damage was reported in Sorsogon, Albay and Camarines Sur Provinces which felt the full fury of the storm. Two dredge boats valued at $100,000 were sunk in the harbor of Legaspi, Albay province, as that city of 53,000 reported the strongest typhoon in years.

Other provinces hit hard were Masbate, Romblow, Marinduque, Leyte, Samar and South Tayabas.

Authorities prepared to send relief expeditions to the hardest hit areas.

Manila, at the edge of the storm, felt heavy winds that caused the big waves to batter the German Condor plane which lay near Manila Bay shore.

Six men who narrowly escaped disaster when the plane was forced down Tuesday after flying 1862 miles from Tokyo temporarily abandoned plans to raise the machine in preparation for a return flight to Berlin.

A former Baltimore tavern waitress, the dark haired and plump Mrs. Abell is the mother of a three-year-old daughter.

The slaying, which police charged was planned after Gantt displayed several $100 bills, occurred July 12. The trio then fled to Fairview Beach, Va., where they were arrested while trying to cash a check issued to Gantt for $135. The arrest occurred before Virginia police had been informed of the murder.

Testimony in the first trial indicated that Gantt had apparently hidden his money in a barn the night before he was shot five times. The money, $960 in notes of large denominations, was found by Mrs. Blanche Stinnett, 20, wife of Walter, while storing tobacco there, she told the court.

Police said she had been given no opportunity to converse with Walter after his arrest. She pleaded guilty to stealing money from Gantt's estate and was sentenced to eighteen months.

The case will be heard before Judge Walter J. Mitchell, Joseph C. Mattingly, and William M. Loker.

KILL PROPOSALS TO REVISE WAGNER ACT

Ask for Committee to Study Whole Tax Problem

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—The national association of manufacturers late today unanimously approved a 1939 platform urging "co-operation with the government." Without argument on the floor, the convention approved a program drawn up after a bitter fight behind closed doors in the resolutions committee.

The faction which favored co-operation with the New Deal succeeded in:

(1) Preventing open criticism of the whole policy of the reciprocal trade agreements.

(2) Striking out a proposal to revise the Wagner act.

(3) Eliminating another proposal to abolish special federal regulatory commissions.

Call for Co-operation

The 11-point program called for co-operation of industry, commerce, agriculture and labor with government, and said "we in industry admit our share of mistakes."

For the future, while recognizing a need of continuous unemployment relief, the program called for restoration of 9,000,000 unemployed to industrial jobs in the following manner:

(1) Business to realize human responsibilities, accept economic and social responsibilities, be frank with the public, maintain high standards, lower prices as feasible, maintain sound employe relations, be a "desirable citizen" of the community.

(2) Business to recognize labor's right to bagain collectively without intimidation from any source, continued good working conditions, adjustment of complaints, fair wages and incentives for advancement and a cushioning of the efforts of technilogical unemployment.

(3) Government to adjust fiscal policy to attract investment, to create new machines, to create new jobs for the unemployed. (Provisions of the securities act of 1933, and the securities and exchange commission of 1934, were descriged as "unnecessarily severe," but no definite recommendation of modification was made.)

(4) Increase purchasing power by increasing production rather than by curtailment.

Recognize U. S. Regulation

(5) Business to recognize government "regulation" for the good of all, but to oppose government "control."

(6) Creation of a non-partisan committee to study the whole tax problem.

(7) Government to improve its efficiency, lower its costs.

(8) Government not to compete with private business.

(9) Foreign trade to be encouraged by "every legitimate means" after due consideration for the needs of the home economy and protection of the "standard of living of the American people."

(10) Industry to assume "the burden of producing the requirements for national defense."

(11) "Removal of existing obstacles is a job for government, labor, agriculture, commerce and industry, requiring the best efforts of all."

Killed for 73 Cents!

Rex Bush
A 19-year-old Chicago youth, identified as Rex Bush, alias Robert Brown, faces a murder charge at Clyde, O., following the slaying of a town marshal who sought to arrest him for a 73-cent robbery. The slain man is Neal Fowler, 48, a widower and father of three children.

Ohio Patrolman Abducted by Two Unknown Couples

Corp. Parker W. Powell Manacled and Thrown Into Field

Lebannon, O., Dec. 8 (AP)—Two men and two women, armed to the teeth and slippery as eels, abducted a state highway patrolman near Waynesville tonight, manacled him with his own handcuffs, tossed him into a field, and fled before more than 250 state, county, and city police officers.

While Indiana state police blockaded the Ohio-Indiana line, all available manpower of the highway patrol, led personally by Col. Lynn Black, superintendent, converged on the little Miami River bottoms near South Lebanon a few hours later in hopes of flushing at least part of the quartet.

Two Women Arrested

Two women answering descriptions of the pair in the gang were arrested late tonight on the streets of Kings Mills, South of here, by Sergeant Harvey Kurth and Patrolman Paul Clark of the Middletown police. They said one was wearing slacks and had about $300 in her pocketbook.

The women refused to give their names and were taken to Lebanon for questioning.

City police from Dayton and Cincinnati joined deputies from surrounding counties in the determined search for the four, believed to have come here from Missouri.

The abducted patrolman, Corp. Parker W. Powell, 29, of the Wilmington Patrol Station, was sent to Waynesville early tonight to investigate an accident.

Witness To Abduction

Colonel Black said Powell, finding the car in the ditch, had hailed Joe Sheldon of Greenville, a passing motorist, for help. As the luggage was being transferred, he said, Powell noticed a sub-machine gun in the wrecked car. The two men of the quartet immediately pulled their guns, took Sheldon's car, forced Powell into it, and drove

European Crisis Seen in Clamor Over Possession Of French Tunisia

By The Associated Press

A new crisis hung over Europe yesterday (Thursday) as a result of growing "unofficial" Italian agitation for French-ruled Tunisa.

Tension became acute with fresh demonstrations in Italy and France and angry Italian and anti-Italian rioting in the French north African protectorate.

Reports from the French-Spanish border said 40,000 Italian troops were massed in Insurgen Spain, just across the Pyrenees from France, emphasizing French fears that Italy might be preparing for military action.

Heavy reinforcements of mobile guards moved into Tunisia to cope with the disorders. Italians there were said to be getting ready to defend themselves.

Thousands of French students demonstrated against Italy in Paris, battling police who sought to halt them.

Fresh demonstrations were spurred in Italy by press charges of "new violence" against Italian residents in Tunisia. Arabs joined the Italian demonstrators in Libya, Italy's North African colony and Tunisia's neighbor.

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

Paris, Dec. 8 (AP)—Something like a European crisis has arisen over Italy's "unofficial" clamor for French-protected Tunisia.

Italian and anti-Italian demonstrations and disorders in the French North African protectorate, heavy reinforcement of the mobile guard there and reports that Italians in Tunisia were planning to defend themselves were the newest factors of the near-crisis today.

Reports from the French-Spanish border that Italian troops were massed in Insurgent Spain just across the Pyrenees from France emphasized fears that Italy might

19 Reported Dead As Typhoon Hits Philippine Isles

Thousands Homeless, Much Property Damage In Storm's Wake

Manila, Dec. 8 (AP)—A typhoon raced across 15 provinces of the central Philippines today, killed at least 19 persons, made thousands homeless, and was believed to have caused much property damage.

Fallen wires in those areas blocked reports of casualties and damage as the hurricane passed 100 miles south of Manila, and out over the China Sea.

Samar Island reported 18 dead, and Camarines Sur Province one killed by the 75-mile storm that whirled in from the Pacific Ocean, after threatening the island since Monday.

Heavy property and crop damage was reported in Sorsogon, Albay and Camarines Sur Provinces which felt the full fury of the storm. Two dredge boats valued at $100,000 were sunk in the harbor of Legaspi, Albay province, as that city of 53,000 reported the strongest typhoon in years.

Other provinces hit hard were Masbate, Romblow, Marinduque, Leyte, Samar and South Tayabas.

Authorities prepared to send relief expeditions to the hardest hit areas.

Manila, at the edge of the storm, felt heavy winds that caused the big waves to batter the German Condor plane which lay near Manila Bay shore.

Six men who narrowly escaped disaster when the plane was forced down Tuesday after flying 1863 miles from Tokyo temporarily abandoned plans to raise the machine in preparation for a return flight to Berlin.

U. S. Ambassador to China Ordered To Return Home For Consultations

Nelson T. Johnson Due In Washington in Mid-January

Washington, Dec. 8. (AP)—The United States, deeply concerned lest Japan close China's "open door" permanently, has ordered its ambassador to the latter country, Nelson T. Johnson, to return home for consultations with President Roosevelt and state department officials.

The anouncement today of this step came simultaneously with further clarification by Japan of her intentions in East Asia, and directly followed Great Britain's declaration that she couldn't possibly subscribe to creation of an economic-political bloc there dominated by Japan.

Garner - for - President Boom Draws Attention of Leading Politicians

"No Third Term" Theme Song Popular With Large Faction

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP) — The Garner - for - president boom in Texas, rivaling in political trappings the movement started a year ago by Indiana Democrats for Former Governor Paul V. McNutt and the "corned-beef-and-cabbage" dinner boom for Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri, is significant to politicians here.

All three booms have a common keynote, although it was sounded openly only at the Garner rally in Texas. That is their "no third term" theme song aimed at Roosevelt boomers like Senator Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania, who urges that the president run again in 1940.

Denhart Did Not Kill Mrs. Taylor, Dr. E. S. Garr Says

But Brother of Slain Woman Says General Helped Slayer

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 8 (AP)—Dr. E. S. Carr, was quoted by the Louisville Times today as saying in an interview that his sister, Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor, was not killed by Brig. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt.

The paper quoted Dr. Garr, one of three brothers who admitted they shot General Denhardt to death after their sister was killed, as saying, however, that the general was "in cahoots" with Mrs. Taylor's slayer.

The Times said the La Grange, Ky., veterinarian reported he had advised Attorney General Hubert Meredith he now had "material evidence" to that effect.

Meredith said at Frankfort, the state capital, that he had talked with Dr. Carr "and am considering what he said and will determine whether what he said warrants any further and more minute investigation of the matter."

Knows Actual Slayer

The veterinarian was quoted by the newspaper as saying he was convinced he knew who killed his sister and that "at least one other person besides Denhardt and the man I believe did the shoting is involved."

"I'll see that the truth about Verna's death is known if I die for it. And when the real story breaks it will blow the top off the court house," the Times quoted Dr. Garr.

General Denhardt, 61, former lieutenant governor and adjutant general of Kentucky, was tried for murder after the body of the attractive 41-year-old widow, his fiancee, was found in a roadside ditch two years ago in Henry county. Denahrdt and the woman had made a motor trip from Le Grange to Louisville earlier in the day.

The jury failed to agree after a sensational trial lasting 21 days.

Four months later—on the eve of his second trial scheduled Sept. 21, 1837—the general was shot down on the main street of Shelbyville, Ky.

Dr. Garr and his two brothers surrendered to police and later were freed of charges of killing the general.

be preparing to translate agitation into military action.

Thousands Demonstrate

In the style of street demonstrations in Italy which followed Foreign Minister Ciano's November 30 speech on Italian "aspirations," thousands of French students demonstrated today against Italy and battled police in Paris.

Where Italian students and young Fascists had shouted, "Tunisia for us!" the French demonstrators cried, "Venice for France! . . . Ethiopia for the Negus!" similar manifestations occurred late yesterday in several cities of France.

There were fresh demonstrations in Italy as the Italian press told of "new violence" against the Italian population of Tunisia.

In the midst of this resurgent colonial rivalry between France and Italy, French Premier Daladier went before parliament in an attempt to strengthen his government's position at home the better to meet Italy's clamor.

Chamber Votes Saturday

The Chamber of Deputies and the Senate started general debate leading up to a vote Saturday on Daladier's domestic and foreign policy.

Daladier was confronted by a long list of demands for explanation of his decree laws for "economic mobilization," his smashing of protest strikes, his post-Munich good neighbor accord with Germany and his efforts toward a similar understanding with Italy.

Despite the open hostility of his Socialist and Communist former allies, Daladier appeared assured of a vote of confidence from a new conservative majority in the chamber.

Chateau Deplores Situation

An independent Radical-Socialist, Rene Chateau, "deplored" the situation that had reached a point where "the Italians had taken it upon themselves to claim Corsica and Tunis."

(Corsica, France's insular Mediterranean department, and Djibouti, Red Sea port of French Somaliland, have been mentioned in the Italian manifestations.)

Meanwhile, German foreign minister Joachin Von Ribbentrop left for home after signing the good neighbor pact for Reichsfuehrer Hitler and consulting with French foreign minister Georges Bonnet ostensibly on means of assuring European peace.

Several French observers reported Hitler would call an Italian-German conference at Munich as the result of a reported demand by Premier Mussolini that Germany support her partner in the Rome-Berlin axis in the clamor for Tunisia.

Fiery Demonstrations In Streets of Tunis

Tunis, Tunisia, Dec. 8 (AP)—Throngs of Italians, French and Arabs seethed through the streets of Tunis tonight in demonstrations fired by the fascists clamor over Tunisia.

The French government strengthened the police with armed patrols from the interior and ordered heavy reinforcements to Tunis from the neighboring French Algeria.

The Italian-counsul general, M. Silimbani, protested against the anti-Italian outbreaks and was understood to have been assured the French police had been commanded to restore strict order.

Italian residents were reported to have warned that they would draw up a self-defense corps if the anti-Italian disorders continued.

Many demonstrators — Italians, French and natives—were arrested today, but demonstrations continued tonight with roving bands colliding intermittently with the police.

The strains of rival songs, the French "Marseillaise" and the Fascist "Giovinezza," sounded through Tunis' streets.

The fresh wave of demonstrations was unloosed by the march of 1,000 French and Arab railroad workers last night on the Italian consulate-general, a white building which they splashed with red and blue ink to represent the French colors.

This protest against the Italian agitation over Tunisia, launched Nov. 30 in the Chamber of Deputies in Rome when deputies cried "Tunisia! Tunisia!" after an address in which Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano referred to Italy's "aspirations," brought a reply this morning from Italian students in Tunis brought a reply this morning from Italian students in Tunis.

Linking their arms, a crowd of youths paraded through the Tunisian capital, singing and chanting.

All Italian business houses as well as the consulate-general were placed under heavy day and night guard.

Almost as fast as the police quelled one demonstration, another would break out, but despite their number officials said all were broken up with comparatively few arrests.

William E. Dodd Is Charged With Injuring Child

Hanover Courthouse, Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—William E. Dodd, Sr., former ambassador to Germany, was charged with hit-and-run-driving in a warrant sworn out today by State Trooper Carlisle Johnstone.

Trooper Johnstone left immediately for Dodd's home at Round Hill, Va., to execute the warrant which charged that Dodd failed to stop after his car struck and injured Gloria Grimes, 4-year old negro, near here today.

Dodd, speaking by telephone form his home in Northern Virginia, said he continued on his way because he thought the child had escaped injury. He said the girl ran directly into the path of his automobile as he was traveling about 45 miles an hour, and that he applied the brakes and swerved the car.

"It was not my fault," Dodd said.

Hospital attaches said the child's condition was critical, and that she was suffering from cerebral concussion, a fracture of the skull and lacerations.

Dodd served as ambassador to Germany from 1933 to 1937.

Claim TVA Operates At 15 Per Cent Profit

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—Congressional investigators heard today that private utility experts had used a faulty basis of computation in estimating that the TVA's power development would cost the government millions of dollars annually.

Instead, a TVA official testified, sales of energy at present rates would ultimately net an annual balance of 15 percent after deduction of all costs.

Father To Decide Fate of Daughter After Christmas

BY ROGER GRENE

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—When the last Christmas carol fades away and 7-year old Dorothy Lewis has left her toys for bed, then and only then will the little cripple's father decide her fate—a sentence of almost certain doom or an operation, with death a 10-1 probability.

Surgeons have told him the decision is his alone.

Amputation of the child's right leg, afflicted with sarcoma, or cancer of the thigh bone, would give her a meager chance to live.

Without an operation, they said, death would be virtually certain in from eight to 10 months.

And he must decide soon . . . .

"But I can't decide yet," said the anguished father, William Lewis, a Queens Park department employe.

"I could not bear to watch her on Christmas Day if I knew I had decided on her life, one way or another.

"God knows, it is a terrible decision to make."

His wife died a few months ago after an operation, Lewis recalled as he spoke in shaken terms of his ordeal—alone to resolve what may be a life-or-death sentence for the little daughter with blonde curls and blue laughing eyes.

On Saturday, Dorothy will celegrate her eighth birthday, with a party planned by neighborhood children who have vowed to hide any intimation of her plight.

Self-Defense to Figure in Trial Of Martin Snyder

Jury Being Selected in Alleged Kidnaping of Anderson

Los Angeles, Dec. 8. (AP)—Self-defense figured prominently today in the selection of jurors to try "Colonel" Martin Snyder, 44-year-old Broadway and Chicago radio figure, charged with kidnaping and assault to commit murder.

Snyder is accused of kidnaping Myrl Alderman, 30, taking him to the presence of Snyder's former wife, Ruth Etting, radio singer, and his daughter, Edith Snyder, and shooting him. Snyder also is charged with intimidating the women with a pistol during the scene.

Alderman formerly was an accompanist for Miss Etting, who divorced Snyder in Chicago a year ago. Miss Snyder, daughter by a previous marriage, is Miss Etting's secretary.

At the time of the shooting, Miss Etting said she and Alderman were secretly married last summer in Mexico. She later denied this. Now, she is defendent in a $150,000 love theft suit filed by Alderman's second wife, Alma.

Shortly after his arrest, Snyder said he shot Alderman because Alderman advanced upon him with a pistol.

The shooting occurred at Alderman's North Hollywood home. Miss Etting afterward said she had been aiding Alderman to furnish the home for his mother and that she and Miss Snyder had gone there the night of the shooting to prepare dinner.

sail for home Saturday. Whether this foreshadowed some parallel action by the United States and Britain in bringing pressure upon triumphant Japan to prevent her attempted hegemony over all China was not disclosed.

In Tokyo today, Prime Minister Arita further outlined Japan's views to the American ambassador, Joseph G. Grew, and the British envoy. Grew's report has not yet reached the state department. However, press reports said Arita otld the embassadors separately that the principle of equality of opportunity and the open door might have to be revised in establishing Japan's "new order" program.

U. S. Interests Menaced

The United States regards such action as inimical to its interests, and has firmly protested in several recent notes concerning discrimination against American trade and interests. Japan's answers have been considered unsatisfactory.

A long and difficult trip lies ahead for Johnson, who leaves Chungking, temporary south China capital, on December 12 but does not arrive here until mid-January. He will travel Westward over the new military highway to Burma, take a perilous route of about 200 miles down to Rangoon, thence to London by air, and New York by steamer.

Observers believed Johnson and Kennedy undoubtedly would meet at White House conferences just as three of the president's key ambassadors in Europe have met there this week for a thoroughgoing review of the European situation.

92 Degrees Above In Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Dec. 8. (AP)—Los Angeles sweltered today for nearly two hours in an all-time December high of 92 degrees.

Neither the artificial snow in the store windows nor the Santa Clauses helped to relieve perspiring shoppers.

early appeal, no doubt, to the boommakers. The booms are good advertising, for one thing, keeping the candidate in the public eye.

But they have sometimes quite another underlying purpose. They provide a rallying point for party leaders from states which have no prospective favorite son candidates of their own for 1940. It is that aspect of the new Garner boom in Texas that first catches political eyes in Washington.

Oppose Third Terms

The fervor of the Texas demonstration for Garner attracted less attention than the fact it was founded outspokenly on a "no third term" base. That gives it implications to political writers of a more definite "stop-Roosevelt" movement in the making than an indication that Garner wants or would accept a presidential nomination.

Doubt as to the vice president's attitude is widely held among some in Washington who know him well.

Middle West Stronger

The political map as re-made in the recent elections does not indicate that the deepest south is a happy hunting ground for Democratic 1940 presidential timber. It does point to the Middle West; and there Senator Clark of Missouri, reputedly picked by Garner long ago as a 1940 presidential possibility, must be reckoned with. His re-election by a mountainous majority, while some other Democrats were being knocked over like ninepins, certainly did not lessen his availability.

The "no third term" declarations at the Garner boom rally were tempered for Roosevelt ears by the fact that they were based on maintenance of the Jeffersonian political philosophy and were declared to involve no criticism or impeachment of anybody. That did not lessen the fact that they offered a rallying place under a Garner standard, from now until the 1940 primaries set the political ball rolling, for like-minded party groups in other states, be they moved by anti-third termism on principle or by anti-Rooseveltism.

Quins' Doctor Plays Santa

a matter of concern to all of us."

True to his tradition of freer trade, Hull stressed strongly his conviction that "economic disarmament is one of the essentials for political stability and for the return of international relationships, based upon respect for law and order, and faithful observance of obligations."

Offers Third Point

His third point, in addition to preservation of peace and extension of economic exchanges, was strength of international law which he said was "of vital concern for all us all."

The twin principles of "the Americas for Americans" and closer cultural, economic and political cooperation claimed major interest tonight of delegates here for the conference.

It appeared doubtful that "the Americas for Americans" issue would become a bitter fight on the conference floor because of the various delegates' apparent willingness to give and take on the matter.

It was generally believed, however, that the representatives would leave the meeting of the 21 American republics with a stronger determination to combat foreign propaganda which has been spread in South America the past five years and which has been speeded up since the four-power Munich conference September 29.

Tomorrow is exactly 114 years from the date of the battle of Ayachucho, Peru, which finally ended Spanish dominance in Latin America.

Seek U. S. Leadership

Among the hundreds of delegates there were many who believed the present gathering, although a meeting of peace, would approximate Ayacucho in importance because of efforts, led by United States delegates, to keep American nations free of foreign political and economic invasion.

Some delegates were said to believe a mere restatement of the Monroe Doctrine would be sufficient to warn European nations to keep hands off. Others believed no definite action was necessary because the American nations, they said, always had stood together and always would.

The third group believed some strong action should be taken while still another group favored a compromise somewhere between a clear-cut statement and the lack of any action.

Tomorrow's session will be devoted to opening ceremonies. The delegates will get down to serious work Saturday.

Sheldon's car was found wrecked near South Lebanon, five miles South of here, and Louis Luedeke, 65, of Hopkinsville, reported that two men slugged him when he threw away his key as they tried to take his car from him. They drove off in a coupe, he said.

A South Lebanon school teacher also reported an attempt to steal her car by two men in a coupe.

Then the coupe was found abandoned near the village and authorities surrounded the river bottoms for an intensive search. A suitcase containing a sawed-off shotgun was found in the coupe.

Anna Marie Hahn Is Buried Quietly

Only a Few Mourners and One Basket of Flowers

Columbus, O., Dec. 8 (AP)—Anna Marie Hahn was buried today, quickly and quietly.

Only her attorneys, the wife of Ohio penitentiary's warden, and the matrons who attended the poison-slayer in her last hours were there as mourners; only one basket of flowers, anonymously sent, graced the unconsecrated grave of the woman who moaned the Lord's prayer as she was electrocuted last night.

The penitentiary chaplain, Father John Sullivan, performed the simple ritual at a downtown funeral parlor. Two dozen curious idlers gathered in the Catholic cemetery when the funeral procession of five automobiles drew up.

The dramatic fanfare that marked her 16 months' fight for life had died with the 32-year-old woman.

In the death chamber, where she pleaded vainly for life, her picture will be hung in a few days—along with those of 213 men. Warden J. C. Woodard said that act would end "the Hahn case."

In Cincinnati the state nolled a murder charge in the poison death of George Gsellman, one of four old men she was accused of killing for their money. She was executed for murdering Jacob Wagner, 78.

One of the matrons, Mrs. Josie O'Bleness, said that 24 hours before the execution Mrs. Hahn was "a little witch—a demon with a wild look in her eyes." Before that, the matron added, Mrs. Hahn behaved "because she knew it was the best way of fighting for Anna."

Mrs. Esther Lyle, another matron who witnessed the death, observed:

"I feel they did not take the life of an innocent person in Anna Marie Hahn."

Before she died, Mrs. Hahn gave her 12-year-old son, Oscar, the golden cross she had worn constantly, and wrote four letters which she placed in her attorney's custody.

Joseph H. Hoodin, chief of defense counsel, declined to say if the letters would be made public

Thousands Demonstrate

In the style of street demonstrations in Italy which followed Foreign Minister Ciano's November 30 speech on Italian "aspirations," thousands of French students demonstrated today against Italy and battled police in Paris.

Where Italian students and young Fascists had shouted, "Tunisia for us!" the French demonstrators cried, "Venice for France! . . Ethiopia for the Negus!" similar manifestations occurred late yesterday in several cities of France.

There were fresh demonstrations in Italy as the Italian press told of "new violence" against the Italian population of Tunisia.

In the midst of this resurgent colonial rivalry between France and Italy, French Premier Daladier went before parliament in an attempt to strengthen his government's position at home the better to meet Italy's clamor.

Chamber Votes Saturday

The Chamber of Deputies and the Senate started general debate leading up to a vote Saturday on Daladier's domestic and foreign policy.

Daladier was confronted by a long list of demands for explanation of his decree laws for "economic mobilization," his smashing of protest strikes, his post-Munich good neighbor accord with Germany and his efforts toward a similar understanding with Italy.

Despite the open hostility of his Socialist and Communist former allies, Daladier appeared assured of a vote of confidence from a new conservative majority in the chamber.

Chateau Deplores Situation

An independent Radical-Socialist, Rene Chateau, "deplored" the situation that had reached a point where "the Italians had taken it upon themselves to claim Corsica and Tunis."

(Corsica, France's insular Mediterranean department, and Djibouti, Red Sea port of French Somaliland, have been mentioned in the Italian manifestations.)

Meanwhile, German foreign minister Joachin Von Ribbentrop left for home after signing the good neighbor pact for Reichsfuehrer Hitler and consulting with French foreign minister Georges Bonnet ostensibly on means of assuring European peace.

Several French observers reported Hitler would call an Italian-German conference at Munich as the result of a reported demand by Premier Mussolini that Germany support her partner in the Rome-Berlin axis in the clamor for Tunisia.

Fiery Demonstrations In Streets of Tunis

Tunis, Tunisia, Dec. 8 (AP)—Throngs of Italians, French and Arabs seethed through the streets of Tunis tonight in demonstrations fired by the fascists clamor over Tunisia.

The French government strengthened the police with armed patrols from the interior and ordered heavy reinforcements to Tunis from the neighboring French Algeria.

The Italian-counsul general, M. Silimbani, protested against the anti-Italian outbreaks and was understood to have been assured the French police had been commanded to restore strict order.

Italian residents were reported to have warned that they would draw up a self-defense corps if the anti-Italian disorders continued.

Many demonstrators — Italians, French and natives—were arrested today, but demonstrations continued tonight with roving bands colliding intermittently with the police.

The strains of rival songs, the French "Marseillaise" and the Fascist "Giovinezza," sounded through Tunis' streets.

The fresh wave of demonstrations was unloosed by the march of 1,000 French and Arab railroad workers last night on the Italian consulate-general, a white building which they splashed with red and blue ink to represent the French colors.

This protest against the Italian agitation over Tunisia, launched Nov. 30 in the Chamber of Deputies in Rome when deputies cried "Tunisia! Tunisia!" after an address in which Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano referred to Italy's "aspirations," brought a reply this morning from Italian students in Tunis brought a reply this morning from Italian students in Tunis.

Linking their arms, a crowd of youths paraded through the Tunisian capital, singing and chanting.

All Italian business houses as well as the consulate-general were placed under heavy day and night guard.

Almost as fast as the police quelled one demonstration, another would break out, but despite their number officials said all were broken up with comparatively few arrests.

William E. Dodd Is Charged With Injuring Child

Hanover Courthouse, Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—William E. Dodd, Sr., former ambassador to Germany, was charged with hit-and-run-driving in a warrant sworn out today by State Trooper Carlisle Johnstone.

Trooper Johnstone left immediately for Dodd's home at Round Hill, Va., to execute the warrant which charged that Dodd failed to stop after his car struck and injured Gloria Grimes, 4-year old negro, near here today.

Dodd, speaking by telephone form his home in Northern Virginia, said he continued on his way because he thought the child had escaped injury. He said the girl ran directly into the path of his automobile as he was traveling about 45 miles an hour, and that he applied the brakes and swerved the car.

"It was not my fault," Dodd said.

Hospital attaches said the child's condition was critical, and that she was suffering from cerebral concussion, a fracture of the skull and lacerations.

Dodd served as ambassador to Germany from 1933 to 1937.

Claim TVA Operates At 15 Per Cent Profit

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—Congressional investigators heard today that private utility experts had used a faulty basis of computation in estimating that the TVA's power development would cost the government millions of dollars annually.

Instead, a TVA official testified, sales of energy at present rates would ultimately net an annual balance of 15 percent after deduction of all costs.

Father To Decide Fate of Daughter After Christmas

BY ROGER GRENE

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—When the last Christmas carol fades away and 7-year old Dorothy Lewis has left her toys for bed, then and only then will the little cripple's father decide her fate—a sentence of almost certain doom or an operation, with death a 10-1 probability.

Surgeons have told him the decision is his alone.

Amputation of the child's right leg, afflicted with sarcoma, or cancer of the thigh bone, would give her a meager chance to live.

Without an operation, they said, death would be virtually certain in from eight to 10 months.

And he must decide soon . . . .

"But I can't decide yet," said the anguished father, William Lewis, a Queens Park department employe.

"I could not bear to watch her on Christmas Day if I knew I had decided on her life, one way or another.

"God knows, it is a terrible decision to make."

His wife died a few months ago after an operation. Lewis recalled as he spoke in shaken terms of his ordeal—alone to resolve what may be a life-or-death sentence for the little daughter with blonde curls and blue laughing eyes.

On Saturday, Dorothy will celegrate her eighth birthday, with a party planned by neighborhood children who have vowed to hide any intimation of her plight.

Self-Defense to Figure in Trial Of Martin Snyder

Jury Being Selected in Alleged Kidnaping of Anderson

Los Angeles, Dec. 8. (AP)—Self-defense figured prominently today in the selection of jurors to try "Colonel" Martin Snyder, 44-year-old Broadway and Chicago radio figure, charged with kidnaping and assault to commit murder.

Snyder is accused of kidnaping Myrl Alderman, 30, taking him to the presence of Snyder's former wife, Ruth Etting, radio singer, and his daughter, Edith Snyder, and shooting him. Snyder also is charged with intimidating the women with a pistol during the scene.

Alderman formerly was an accompanist for Miss Etting, who divorced Snyder in Chicago a year ago. Miss Snyder, daughter by a previous marriage, is Miss Etting's secretary.

At the time of the shooting, Miss Etting said she and Alderman were secretly married last summer in Mexico. She later denied this. Now, she is defendent in a $150,000 love theft suit filed by Alderman's second wife, Alma.

Shortly after his arrest, Snyder said he shot Alderman because Alderman advanced upon him with a pistol.

The shooting occurred at Alderman's North Hollywood home. Miss Etting afterward said she had been aiding Alderman to furnish the home for his mother and that she and Miss Snyder had gone there the night of the shooting to prepare dinner.

U. S. Ambassador to China Ordered To Return Home For Consultations

sail for home Saturday. Whether this foreshadowed some parallel action by the United States and Britain in bringing pressure upon triumphant Japan to prevent her attempted hegemony over all China was not disclosed.

In Tokyo today, Prime Minister Arita further outlined Japan's views to the American ambassador, Joseph G. Grew, and the British envoy. Grew's report has not yet reached the state department. However, press reports said Arita otld the embassadors separately that the principle of equality of opportunity and the open door might have to be revised in establishing Japan's "new order" program.

U. S. Interests Menaced

The United States regards such action as inimical to its interests, and has firmly protested in several recent notes concerning discrimination against American trade and interests. Japan's answers have been considered unsatisfactory.

A long and difficult trip lies ahead for Johnson, who leaves Chungking, temporary south China capital, on December 12 but does not arrive here until mid-January. He will travel Westward over the new military highway to Burma, take a perilous route of about 200 miles down to Rangoon, thence to London by air, and New York by steamer.

Observers believed Johnson and Kennedy undoubtedly would meet at White House conferences just as three of the president's key ambassadors in Europe have met there this week for a thoroughgoing review of the European situation.

LaGuardia Receives Bullet in Letter

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—Mayor F. H. La Guardia today received a bullet in a letter warning him: "you will get this if you continue to attack the German Nazi party."

A Swastika was the signature.

Departing from his usual disregard of threats, the mayor immediaetly asked Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine to investigate. Postal authorities also were informed.

92 Degrees Above In Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Dec. 8. (AP)—Los Angeles sweltered today for nearly two hours in an all-time December high of 92 degrees.

The nearly, between 1 and 3 p. m., was only three points lower than it was on the year's very hottest days, last Aug. 1 and 2. Only eight other days this year were as warm.

Neither the artificial snow in the store windows nor the Santa Clauses helped to relieve perspiring shoppers.

early appeal, no doubt, to the boommakers. The booms are good advertising, for one thing, keeping the candidate in the public eye.

But they have sometimes quite another underlying purpose. They provide a rallying point for party leaders from states which have no prospective favorite son candidates of their own for 1940. It is that aspect of the new Garner boom in Texas that first catches political eyes in Washington.

Oppose Third Terms

The fervor of the Texas demonstration for Garner attracted less attention than the fact it was founded outspokenly on a "no third term" base. That gives it implications to political writers of a more definite "stop-Roosevelt" movement in the making than an indication that Garner wants or would accept a presidential nomination.

Doubt as to the vice president's attitude is widely held among some in Washington who know him well.

Middle West Stronger

The political map as re-made in the recent elections does not indicate that the deepest south is a happy hunting ground for Democratic 1940 presidential timber. It does point to the Middle West; and there Senator Clark of Missouri, reputedly picked by Garner long ago as a 1940 presidential possibility, must be reckoned with. His re-election by a mountainous majority, while some other Democrats were being knocked over like ninepins, certainly did not lessen his availability.

The "no third term" declarations at the Garner boom rally were tempered for Roosevelt ears by the fact that they were based on maintenance of the Jeffersonian political philosophy and were declared to involve no criticism or impeachment of anybody. That did not lessen the fact that they offered a rallying place under a Garner standard, from now until the 1940 primaries set the political ball rolling, for like-minded party groups in other states, be they moved by anti-third termism on principle or by anti-Rooseveltism.

Quins' Doctor Plays Santa

In a Christmas preview, Dr. Roy Allan Dafoe, beloved "doctaire" of the Dionne Quintuplets, and opera singer Lily Pons play Santa to a group of poor children at the Flannagan Center of the New York City Police Athletic League, where police and firemen are rebuilding old toys for distribution to the city's underprivileged children.

a matter of concern to all of us."

True to his tradition of freer trade, Hull stressed strongly his conviction that "economic disarmament is one of the essentials for political stability and for the return of international relationships, based upon respect for law and order, and faithful observance of obligations."

Offers Third Point

His third point, in addition to preservation of peace and extension of economic exchanges, was strength of international law which he said was "of vital concern for all us all."

The twin principles of "the Americas for Americans" and closer cultural, economic and political cooperation claimed major interest tonight of delegates here for the conference.

It appeared doubtful that "the Americas for Americans" issue would become a bitter fight on the conference floor because of the various delegates' apparent willingness to give and take on the matter.

It was generally believed, however, that the representatives would leave the meeting of the 21 American republics with a stronger determination to combat foreign propaganda which has been spread in South America the past five years and which has been speeded up since the four-power Munich conference September 29.

Tomorrow is exactly 114 years from the date of the battle of Ayachucho, Peru, which finally ended Spanish dominance in Latin America.

Seek U. S. Leadership

Among the hundreds of delegates there were many who believed the present gathering, although a meeting of peace, would approximate Ayacucho in importance because of efforts, led by United States delegates, to keep American nations free of foreign political and economic invasion.

Some delegates were said to believe a mere restatement of the Monroe Doctrine would be sufficient to warn European nations to keep hands off. Others believed no definite action was necessary because the American nations, they said, always had stood together and always would.

The third group believed some strong action should be taken while still another group favored a compromise somewhere between a clear-cut statement and the lack of any action.

Tomorrow's session will be devoted to opening ceremonies. The delegates will get down to serious work Saturday.

away, leaving Sheldon in the road. They took both his and Powell's cars.

Sheldon's car was found wrecked near South Lebanon, five miles South of here, and Louis Luedeke, 65, of Hopkinsville, reported that two men slugged him when he threw away his key as they tried to take his car from him. They drove off in a coupe, he said.

A South Lebanon school teacher also reported an attempt to steal her car by two men in a coupe.

Then the coupe was found abandoned near the village and authorities surrounded the river bottoms for an intensive search. A suitcase containing a sawed-off shotgun was found in the coupe.

Anna Marie Hahn Is Buried Quietly

Only a Few Mourners and One Basket of Flowers

Columbus, O., Dec. 8 (AP)—Anna Marie Hahn was buried today, quickly and quietly.

Only her attorneys, the wife of Ohio penitentiary's warden, and the matrons who attended the poison-slayer in her last hours were there as mourners; only one basket of flowers, anonymously sent, graced the unconsecrated grave of the woman who moaned the Lord's prayer as she was electrocuted last night.

The penitentiary chaplain, Father John Sullivan, performed the simple ritual at a downtown funeral parlor. Two dozen curious idlers gathered in the Catholic cemetery when the funeral procession of five automobiles drew up.

The dramatic fanfare that marked her 16 months' fight for life had died with the 32-year-old woman.

In the death chamber, where she pleaded vainly for life, her picture will be hung in a few days—along with those of 213 men. Warden J. C. Woodard said that act would end "the Hahn case."

In Cincinnati the state nolled a murder charge in the poison death of George Gsellman, one of four old men she was accused of killing for their money. She was executed for murdering Jacob Wagner, 78.

One of the matrons, Mrs. Josie O'Bleness, said that 24 hours before the execution Mrs. Hahn was "a little witch—a demon with a wild look in her eyes." Before that, the matron added, Mrs. Hahn behaved "because she knew it was the best way of fighting for Anna."

Mrs. Esther Lyle, another matron who witnessed the death, observed: "I feel they did not take the life of an innocent person in Anna Marie Hahn."

Before she died, Mrs. Hahn gave her 12-year-old son, Oscar, the golden cross she had worn constantly, and wrote four letters which she placed in her attorney's custody.

Joseph H. Hoodin, chief of defense counsel, declined to say if the letters would be made public

National Defense Not Pump Priming, Roosevelt Asserts

President Indicates He May Cut Down on Spending

Republicans Plan To Attack New Deal Before Congress

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt's statement that there is no pump-priming motive behind his national defense program gave observers new food for thought as to whether he may call for a tapering off on government spending when he discloses his budget plans for the next year.

Mr. Roosevelt's classification of national defense outlays as among those which should be on a pay-as-you-go basis supplemented the no-pump-priming remark. Both intimations as to his frame of mind follow cumulative attacks by Republican spokesmen on New Deal spending policies.

Republicans Plan Attack

On the word of such party leaders as Senator McNary of Oregon, and Senator-elect Robert Taft of Ohio, administration spending will be the first object of attack for the Republican party when congress meets in January. Behind that lies their belief that it was not only a reaction among farmers which led to Democratic upsets in the November elections but that there also was much "small town" sentiment agaisnt mounting federal deficits.

That view is reflected also in many business circles. It may have an important influence on budget recommendations.

Another factor certain to enter into the spending debate at some point is the French internal crisis. A whole new chapter of argument, illustrated by French object lessons, is being prepared to support demands for the earliest possible balancing of the budget.

Some French economists trace the problem Premier Daladier confronts to prolonged deficit financing. The abortive national strike in France was a political repercussion to the Daladier drive for a three-year period of economic stability to rehabilitate French industrial production, national income and tax resources.

Democrats Oppose Spending

Renewed Republican demands for decentralization of relief administration have already found support among Democratic legislators opposed to New Deal spending policies.

However, it is not yet clear just how the Republican leadership will reconcile the apparent conflict in party ranks between the balance-the-budget cry and endorsement by so many Republicans-elect of expanding and accelerating old-age pension payments. The repeated challenge by President Roosevelt to his critics to say just where they would make economies still stands.

Yet all the straws-in-the-wind create a growing impression that he may, in his budget message, reach out to steal Republican anti-spending thunder and indicate a tapering off policy.

Would End No-Love Game With Net Star

Los Angeles, Dec. 8 (AP)—The three-year marriage of Fred Perry, former world's tennis champion, and Helen Vinson of the stage and screen was headed today for the divorce courts.

Pierson Hall, former United States attorney here, as Miss Vinson's lawyer, filed suit for a divorce from the English net star. The actress is in the east and Perry has just returned to Florida from Havana.

Miss Vinson, native of Beaumont, Tex., eloped from New York city to Harrison, N. Y., with Perry September 12, 1935. They were married at 11:55 p. m., beating by five minutes what she feared would be the "jinx" of a Friday the thirteenth marriage.

The actress' complaint stated Perry sometimes used violent and abusive language to her; quarreled with her in London when she wanted to return to be treated by her family physician, and insisted she remain there for his tennis matches "so people won't talk."

Miss Vinson asked for a division of community property valued at $64,000, mostly in securities.

19-Year-Old Girl Is Found Murdered

Oakland, Calif., Dec. 8 (AP)—The slashed body of an auburn-haired girl was found here by a mushroom picker at an isolated spot, off "lovers' lane" in the hills above Oakland.

Thomas Duffy, police inspector, said the girl was Leona Vlught, 19, operator of a beauty parlor. Identification was made, Duffy said, by the victim's mother, Mrs. Leonard Vlught.

The body bore a stab wound in the chest, and three small cuts on the throat.

Mrs. E. W. Cooks, a resident of the district, told police:

"Last night I heard a piercing scream from that direction. It was just one long scream and then silence."

The repeated challenge by President Roosevelt to his critics to say just where they would make economies still stands.

Yet all the straws-in-the-wind create a growing impression that he may, in his budget message, reach out to steal Republican anti-spending thunder and indicate a tapering off policy.

Would End No-Love Game With Net Star

Los Angeles, Dec. 8 (AP)—The three-year marriage of Fred Perry, former world's tennis champion, and Helen Vinson of the stage and screen was headed today for the divorce courts.

Pierson Hall, former United States attorney here, as Miss Vinson's lawyer, filed suit for a divorce from the English net star. The actress is in the east and Perry has just returned to Florida from Havana.

Miss Vinson, native of Beaumont, Tex., eloped from New York city to Harrison, N. Y., with Perry September 12, 1935. They were married at 11:55 p. m., beating by five minutes what she feared would be the "jinx" of a Friday the thirteenth marriage.

The actress' complaint stated Perry sometimes used violent and abusive language to her; quarreled with her in London when she wanted to return to be treated by her family physician, and insisted she remain there for his tennis matches "so people won't talk."

Miss Vinson asked for a division of community property valued at $64,000, mostly in securities.

Wanted One Dog Team

19-Year-Old Girl Is Found Murdered

Oakland, Calif., Dec. 8 (AP)—The slashed body of an auburn-haired girl was found here by a mushroom picker at an isolated spot, off "lovers' lane" in the hills above Oakland.

Thomas Duffy, police inspector, said the girl was Leona Vlught, 19, operator of a beauty parlor. Identification was made, Duffy said, by the victim's mother, Mrs. Leonard Vlught.

The body bore a stab wound in the chest, and three small cuts on the throat.

Mrs. E. W. Cooks, a resident of the district, told police:

"Last night I heard a piercing scream from that direction. It was just one long scream and then silence."

Maryland Republicans Should Get Together

A RATHER UNFORTUNATE SITUATION appears to have found flower over in Washington and Frederick counties respecting state leadership of the Republican party. The Morning Herald, of Hagerstown, strong Republican newspaper, is peeved over the leadership of Governor Nice on the ground that he ignored the Republican State Central Committee of Washington county in making an appointment, which, it declares, has been a great fault with the governor, and has tended to disrupt county organizations; and on top of that Leo Weinberg, of Frederick, unsuccessful candidate on the Republican ticket for attorney general, jumped into print, echoing the Herald's grievance, and announced himself as a candidate two years hence for the seat now held in the federal Senate by George L. Radcliffe. In doing so he explained that he took the precipitate action "so that Republicans may have the right to a choice before Governor Nice pre-empts the field." Both the Herald and Weinberg denounced the governor as "totally unfit for party leadership," and called for a new deal in that respect.

"There is a vacancy on the Liquor License board," the Herald explained, "a position of responsibility and one requiring the use of great judgment. The central committee received a large list of applications and plans were being made to submit a recommendation to the governor based on efficiency, ability and interests of the party. But lo and behold, word leaked into the committee by round-about ways, that the governor had already promised the appointment to a personal friend and that the committee recommendatoin would merely be a scrap of paper. The committemen held a number of futile meetings and in disgust sent the entire list of applicants to the governor."

The Herald expressed the feeling, however, that the committee erred "in not taking a determined and resolute stand." Therein can be seen a tendency on the part of central committees which has given the governor a lot of trouble during his tenure, and unjustly so. The governor has several tmes been accused of ignoring central committees, but as a matter of fact the fault has not rested with the governor but with the committees themselves. That happened here in Allegany county and resulted in a feeling of resentment on the part of some Republicans who at the time did not fully understand the situation. Party committees have been requested time after time by the governor to make recommendations for appointments, and the committees have either straddled the issue or let it go by default fearing that a definite recommendation for a certain position might incur some bad feelings or lose some local votes.

Now, so far as Mr. Weinberg is concerned, the News, as a faithful Republican newspaper and desirous of promoting party harmony and unity, which are absolutely necessary in Maryland if the party is ever to get anywhere, believes the Frederick attorney has been both premature and precipitous in this situation. If by rushing into a senatorial candidacy scarcely after the ink is dry on the reports of the recent election he presumes to arrogate state party leadership to himself, the action does not seem altogether fair to other party leaders throughout the state. One may well ask what background of political achievement the Frederick attorney has for so suddenly asserting his right to sail into the candidacy if he assumes, as the Morning Herald pointed out, that Governor Nice has failed in his leadership because he did not manage to obtain re-election to another term. It is true, of course, that Governor Nice failed of re-election but it is also true that he didn't fare so badly as many others in a state normally Democratic, except in presidential years (for which reason the gubernatorial election was separated from the general election by Democrats for their own political advantage) and with a Democratic majority of something like 270,000 in the registration. And Mr. Weinberg was certainly a poor runner in comparison with Nice, who polled more than two votes to his one.

If there is dissatisfaction in Washington and Frederick counties over Republican state leadership, the thing to do, it seems to the News, would be to thresh this out within the state councils of the party organization and not to attempt a solution on the part of an individual or a single county group. The question of state leadership properly belongs there, and Governor Nice as the titular head of the party is entitled to receive all benefit of any doubts as to his qualifications just as a man is not to be considered guilty until he is tried by court and jury and cannot be so deemed on a mere allegation. As the Herald admits, there is much for it—and others as well—to admire in the governor, who, in many ways has tried to do a good job in state administration even if he suffered some handicaps in taking poor advice from friends who perhaps were more friendly to themselves than to the governor.

Ordinarily the state governing body of a political party should have the immediate say-so on a question of party leadership. In this state, that body is, this newspaper feels, quite too small, unless it takes the occasion to summon into council the chairmen, at least, other members if they desire, of the various county committees. The committee for the state under the present set-up comprises only the state chairman, the national committeeman and the national committeewoman. Theoretically it embodies the counties but it resolves itself into a larger body only when the county committees are called together and that does not occur very often.

The set-up ought to be changed, this newspaper believes. There should be a larger and more representative state governing board for the party. There should also be a change in the names of each as the present designations are often confusing. There should be county Republican executive committees—not state central committees—to serve for each county and a state executive committee to serve for matters of general state interest. Too frequently the existing set-up leaves the county organizations out in the cold.

If these defections are to hinder the work of solidifying party action and party service in this state, it would be well to have the various committees called together and to thresh the thing out in the proper spirit, with the thought of necessary harmony and unity as the impelling spirit for all.

The party organization in the state needs improvement. There is a wealth of capable leaders in the counties and in Baltimore City many of whom should be doing more than they have been doing and who would be doing that if the proper encouragement were given. In brief, the News does not believe progress in this respect can be achieved by merely singling out Governor Nice for a goat, nor in shoving him out and slamming the door in his face. The obvious thing for Maryland Republicans to do is to get together, stick together and work out a definite program for party success. To that end it would be well for it to open a state headquarters at once and keep it functioning right along until the next election, firing effective guns at the enemy day after day and not letting the whole business rest until a few weeks before an important election.

Rapid-Fire Rifles

THE ARMY'S NEWEST WEAPON, the semi-automatic rifle, begins to appear in the picture pages. It is gas operated, self loading and ejecting and the trigger must be pulled for each shot. The bolt of the Springfield 1903 is operated by hand, which wastes time which may be vital, and takes away from accuracy in rapid fire, since the aim is relaid for each shot.

The firing rate of the semi-automatic is up to three times faster than the Springfield's, which is a decided help when fire must be concentrated; but a new weapon also brings new problems, for many factors bear on the usefulness of arms. The matter of keeping a front supplied with ammunition is complicated by the trend to more rapid arms. A larger proportion of the troops must be detailed to move it to the guns, the effect of which is to leave fewer, faster guns, in stronger points, along the line. Ammunition misspent with a faster arm is wasted at a greater rate, and ammunition is never too plentiful on a fighting front.

The uninterrupted efficiency of transport is essential, if the advantages of the newer guns are to be realized. Beyond that the requirements are as usual—trained accuracy of gunners and power to apply and concentrate fire on the instant. In the latter respect, the new weapon will be much superior to the old, in the hands of the competent. Meanwhile, the qualities which constitute the good soldier do not change with his weapons. Nor will the development of weapons shooting three times as fast mean that wars will be over in a third of the time. It has not turned out that way. Scores of operations must precede the application of any fire in war.

As Christmas approaches, the number of divorces decreases, and many marital differences are patched up, says a Cleveland judge. Things will probably get back to normal when they have seen their Christmas presents.

We don't blame that Chicago woman for asking for a divorce after her husband not only blacked her eyes but their dog's too. When a man is no longer kind to animals, he must have lost his self respect.

High among modern discoveries must be ranked the revelations before a Senate subcommittee to the effect that profit-sharing is a swell idea if it would work out the right way.

The movies are striving toward realism, says Cecil B. DeMille. We won't believe that until we see a heroine with a wrinkle in her night clothes after a night's sleep.

Governor-elect Bricker, of Ohio, refuses to wear a silk hat for the inaugural ceremony. He wants to start his administration without resorting to a disguise.

Next Time We Argue

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Next time I argue, I'm going to be very calm.

I'm not going to lose my temper. I'm going to be as difficult to ruffle as the pyramids—or as a St. Bernard dog—or as one of the gilded Oriental idols that sit smiling through the centuries.

That's going to be Me. Imperturbable, untouchable, remote from peevishness and petty anger and trivial differences.

I'll think about bigger things. About the poor human race, rising in pain and glory from the ignoble scum, struggling through miserable mud and streaming tears and flowing blood—fighting along. I'll remember great men. And sacrificing women. Nice old ladies. Chubby babies. Friendly puppies. Wild flowers in green meadows. Dignified old oaks. Picnics. Hay rides. Summer swimming pools. Candy pulls. Young love. Egg dyeing at Easter. Bobbing for apples at Hallowe'en. First time I owned a bicycle. Rain after a long dry spell. Sunshine after pouring rain. Friendship after loneliness. Love after grief.

I'll remember all these and they'll overwhelm irritation and make my little argument seem smaller still. That's what I'll do!

I'll think of the universe. Of the enormous flaming sun. Of the million stars far out there in space. Of the speed of light. Of comets and planets and the dark side of the moon. Of the growing, visible earth on which we live. . . . Of tiny seeds in the dark earth that swell and break and send little green shoots into the sunshine. Of leaves that spring magically onto trees in spring. Of the soft white snow on the hills. Of the brown ploughed fields where the harvest will be. . . . Of the swift, flying years. Of youth and maturity and old age that comes too soon. Of the few things worth while in life. Of the many delights that perish too soon and the rare compensations that endure so long.

Next time I argue, I'll be a philosopher. Calm, wise, and steady. . . . And the argument will stop before it's hardly begun.

The system I have described will work if I have the wisdom and character to use it when it's needed. . . . It's the only way I know of preventing that empty feeling one has when he's argued and argued and said things he didn't intend to say and gotten nowhere and accomplished nothing but make a poor, remorseful idiot of himself.

Stewart Says—

Neutrality Law Operates Only in Declared Wars

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8—When Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota evolved our present neutrality law his intention was to give the President no discretion in the matter of keeping the United States out of foreign conflicts. Two or more overseas nations having gone to war, the White House tenant is supposed to embargo American shipments of military supplies to both or all of the belligerents. The act hasn't proved a bit effective. Everyone knows that Italy waged war against Abyssinia, that war is raging in Spain and that Japan and China are at war bloodthirstily. But none of these wars was formally declared. Theoretically they were not and are not wars.

Nye

President Roosevelt could have declared them wars, in fact, and slapped embargoes on, but he hasn't seen fit to do so. Technically perhaps he's been right about it. The Nye law doesn't exactly apply to the Spanish muss, either. Even if it's a war, it doesn't class as international; it's a civil struggle nominally. The truth is that Italy and Germany have a hand in it; Russia, to a certain extent also. To a degree, France and Britain doubtless are participants. Indeed, the number of Americans in the fighting lines ran into the thousands. But it's a civil affair, according to diplomatic interpretation. The Nye law doesn't require the President to neutralize Uncle Sam in such cases.

What About China?

As for the Jap-Chinese war, it's a war all right. However, American public opinion is altogether on China's side. We wouldn't like to see the Chinese embargoed. If the Chinese can get our military supplies, to fight the Japanese with, we want to see the Chinese get 'em. They probably don't get many; Japan has them bottled up too tightly. Nevertheless, it wouldn't be popular for the White House to shut them off altogether. And the President hasn't any choice. If he recognizes a war and embargoes Japan, he must embargo China likewise.

The Congressional folks who propose amendment of the Nye law urge that the White House be empowered to make a selection between belligerents—to say that one side's right and that the other side is wrong—to remain neutral but to embargo the supposedly wrong side, while continuing the flow of American supplies to the supposedly right side.

Now, this might be neutrality from the Yankee standpoint, but is it likely that the side which the President decided against would think so? Echo answers skeptically.

Opponents of the amendment program maintain that the scheme would give the President entirely too much authority, anyway. He can't declare war today. Congress has to do it, if it's done at all. To be sure, he can maneuver the country so closely up to a war that Congress hardly will be able to get out of declaring it. Still, this thing is a step farther.

Proponents of amendment suggest a few changes in the law that aren't so essential.

Question of Terms

For example, the present law calls for an embargo on "ammunition." Ammunition is concrete stuff—explosives. The would-be modifiers of the law would substitute the much broader term, "munitions," meaning all kinds of junk that perhaps could be used for lethal purposes.

I think maybe the modifiers will succeed in substituting the term "munitions" for "ammunition."

I don't believe the President will be authorized to choose between belligerents. The latter would give him, in effect, the right to pick between warring powers.

Then we'd be yanked into their rumpuses.

They're hard enough to keep out of anyhow.

By MARK SULLIVAN

Washington, Dec. 8—Vice-President Garner has a friend who is a Washington newspaper man, Mr. Bascom Timmons, of the Houston, Texas, Chronicle. Mr. Timmons recently reported on the state of mind of the vice president about coalition in the coming Congress between Republicans and conservative Democrats.

Vice President Garner

About coalition, Mr. Garner takes the same position that Calvin Coolidge took about sin. He's opposed to it. "John Nance Garner will lend no encouragement to any efforts at coalition . . . of Republicans and conservative Democrats against the administration."

Mr. Garner's reason is, as often, largely political:

"He is a party man and his party still has an overwhelming Senate majority and a House majority. . . Under these circumstances Mr. Garner thinks that wherever the legislative ball is carried within the next two years, his party should carry it. And his efforts upon his return to Washington are all expected to be in that direction. Learned as he is in political science, he knows that whatever political benefits might accrue to any one through a legislative coalition would accrue to the Republicans."

Well, the vice president's views are clear. No Republican-conservative Democratic coalition for him. But before Mr. Garner has any need to worry about that, he must first give thought to another kind of coalition. This other coalition is one which Mr. Garner undoubtedly favors and will try hard to bring about.

Between Two Men

What Mr. Garner needs to be anxious about, and to work hard for, is a coalition between two men—a coalition between John Nance Garner and Franklin Delano Roosevelt. If Mr. Garner can bring this personal coalition about, then he won't need to worry about any coalition in Congress. In that case, Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Garner will agree on a program for Congress and the united Democratic majority will support it.

But if Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Garner can't agree on a program, if they can't achieve a personal coalition, in that case there will be a different story. In that case the Democrats will split and the conservative wing of it will take a position more or less coinciding with that of the Republicans. That, if it happens, will be a Republican-conservative Democratic coalition in Congress, whether Mr. Garner wants it or not.

Lot of Coalescing Necessary

For Mr. Garner and Mr. Roosevelt to agree will need a lot of coalescing. In the past Congress they have been far apart. Mr. Garner doesn't like a big government debt—and Mr. Roosevelt makes it bigger and bigger. Mr. Garner didn't like tampering with the supreme court—and Mr. Roosevelt attempted it. Mr. Garner does not like the sit-down strike—and Mr. Roosevelt did nothing to discourage it. Mr. Garner thinks Congress is a branch of government equal to and coordinate with the presidency—and Mr. Roosevelt treated Congress, and the Democratic party leaders in Congress, including Mr. Garner, as if their business was to rubber-stamp what Mr. Roosevelt wanted done. In sum, Mr. Garner is the head and symbol of the traditional Democratic party—and Mr. Roosevelt is the head and symbol of the New Deal.

In the recent Congress, Mr. Roosevelt didn't feel he needed to pay much attention to Mr. Garner and the Democrats whom Mr. Garner symbolizes. But recent events have changed the picture. Everybody knows that Mr. Roosevelt's failure in his attempt to "purge" Democrats similar to Mr. Garner was a sign of popular support for the Garner type of Democrat. Everybody knows that Mr. Garner is now in a position to meet Mr. Roosevelt as an equal, perhaps a little more than an equal. Everybody knows the two must either get together—or go through the coming Congress and into the 1940 presidential election with a divided party doomed to defeat.

Like a Poker Game

As Mr. Garner and Mr. Roosevelt maneuver toward each other for a personal coalition, the process has some resemblance to the game of poker. Mr. Garner has some strong cards, especially the need for party unity to avoid party defeat. Mr. Roosevelt also has some strong cards—his personal popularity and the implied threat that unless the Democratic party goes his way he does not care whether it is beaten or not. Washington feels that in the game of poker, Mr. Garner can accomplish more with a given number of cards than any other man in public life. Indeed legend says that Mr. Garner with a pair of deuces can sometimes beat an opponent with a pair of ten-spots.

If Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Garner agree on a reasonably conservative congressional program, the Democratic party will unite behind it. But if Mr. Roosevelt insists on more New Deal legislation, the Democratic party will assuredly divide, and the conservative wing will as a matter of course be found in what will amount to coalition with the Republicans.—Copyright, 1938.

An Editorial from the Rotarian Magazine

Seventeen . . . an age of vast perplexity and adolescent anarchy, but not a seriously dangerous age. Such is the burden of Booth Tarkington's much cherished novel Seventeen. But 19 is different. Nineteen is dangerous. And for that, the authority is not fiction—but statistics on crime. Nineteen-year olds, says the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington, D. C., form the largest single age group of arrests each year.

The public knows that vaguely . . but residents of Georgia recently turned their minds specifically upon it. A survey made for their Department of Public Welfare by the Works Progress Administration showed that the average age of admissions to the State penitentiary is 19. It revealed also that 58 percent of the admissions were under 25 years of age, and of this group, half were under 21.

Why should youths barely old enough to start on their first jobs turn to crime? Perhaps that question answers itself. Most of them can't get that first job. Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam finds that the young person reacts in one of two ways to lack of opportunity to work. Either "he wants to fight . . . simply rebels against the present setup," or he takes "an attitude of complete resignation." The fighter turns to crime, sabotage, violent actions of all sorts, alcohol, and dope. The resigner turns to futile brooding. And the net result is a serious and usually permanent vitiation of youth's vital morale.

Now, the enlightened businessman can tell you quite a little—in non-academic language, thank goodness—about crime and its causes and costs, and he usually concludes with the old chestnut about an ounce of prevention. He likes it, says that he finds it the best answer to date to the problem of crime. And so he makes a place in his shipping room for a poor lad the social worker told him about . . . campaigns for funds for the Boy Scout troop down in the slums, canvasses for Girl Scouts, and never denies an audience, at least, to a young person earnestly seeking a job. And he helps a dozen other agencies in the same way and in other ways.

Sometimes, like any other adult, he'd like to climb up on the roof and shout to all the young folks in the world, "For heaven's sake, be decent." But he knows what a ridiculous, what a pathetic figure he'd cut. And so, instead, he starts at home—to give young people there a respectable chance to be decent.

Not Funny, Only Stupid

From the Morgantown, W. Va. Post

The quality of any educational process (formal in the school or informal in the home) is brought seriously into question when a group of persons, presumably university students, can find no better way of gratifying some impulse or whim than to smear red paint on three university buildings, the safety island sign on University avenue, and the Community Chest thermometer.

There wasn't anything funny or clever about it. It was simply a stupid, ignorant escapade indicative of a pathological condition which requires nothing so much as first-class treatment in the old-fashioned woodshed

Hunting Trouble

From the Wheeling, W. Va., Intelligencer

One of the most disturbing reports of a disturbing period concerns the Neutrality Act, It is to the effect that the State Department is drafting amendments which would permit the President to apply embargoes to "aggressor" Nations and allow unrestricted commerce with their "victims" in time of war.

As it stands, the Neutrality Act prevents the shipment of war supplies to either party involved in war, upon a finding by the President that a state of war exists.

If Congress wants to make certain that the United States will NOT be neutral, it could follow no more effective course than the enactment of the suggested amendments.

The whole purpose of a neutrality law, if its name is to have any meaning at all, is to keep this country neutral in case other nations go to war with one another. To that end the present Neutrality Act was drafted and passed. It may be far from perfect. But it has worked. It has worked because it has prevented the embroilment of the United States through the attempt to ship war supplies to any belligerent.

It very well may be that operation of this law has worked to the advantage of one side and the disadvantage of another in more time one conflict. It may even be that it has helped an "aggressor" and penalized a "victim."

That, however, is no concern of a neutrality policy. If we are going to be neutral we must keep hands off, regardless of the merits of any particular conflict.

If we want to judge a war, to say which is the right and which the wrong side, to determine which nation or group of Nations represents the cause of justice, and to apply economic force accordingly, that is quite another matter. Certainly it is not neutrality. It is the complete negation of neutrality. It commits the country, and that upon the judgment of a single man, to take sides in every conflict arising.

We can conceive of nothing designed more perfectly to get us into war.

The Human Side Of the News

By EDWIN C. HILL

For more than a month, the marriage of Tom Thumb and Lavinia Warren at Grace Church in New York crowded news of the civil war off the front pages of the newspapers. The death of the midget, Major James D. Doyle, at Spartansburg, S. C., is a reminder of this amazing Tom Thumb rowdy-dowdy, fanned up by P. T. Barnum.

Seventy-year-old Major Doyle stemmed from that loud and golden era of honkaton showmanship which makes our later endeavours in that line seem timid indeed. Major Doyle appeared for years with Tom Thumb's widow, who died in 1919. He was a beligerent little man, three feet nine inches tall, who ouldn't hesitate to tangle with Man-Mountain Dean or Primo Canera when he had his dander up.

Files Are Interesting

Citizens who deplore our latter-day tendency to worry a sensational story to rags and tatters, who bemoan our loss of all sense of relative values, who shudder with our unseemly cavorting over murder trials, stunting and love tangles, will do well to look through the files of 1863.

On February 21 of that year, the New York Illustrated News devoted twenty-three columns to the Tom Thumb wedding, with a big splash of woodcuts by distinguished artists. The town went completely haywire, with police regulars and reserves fighting back the crowds around the church. The bride and groom were showered with expensive gifts, among the donors being Mrs. John Jacob Astor, August Belmont, James Gordon Bennett and Horace Greeley.

Generals, financiers, statesmen, stage and social celebrities were in attendance, among them being General Ambrose Everett Burnside, he of the copyrighted side whiskers, who, a few weeks later was to be relieved of his command of the Army of the Potomac—and a few meagre paragraphs on the inside pages about the life-and-death struggle of the nation.

We Come a Long Way

Read a round or two of that Gargantuan outgiving of elegant blather of lace-curtain language of hysterical hooey, and rejoice in the dignity, sanity well-bred reserve and thorough good taste of the wildest, gaudiest and loudest scandal sheet of today.

We have come a long way, not in journalistic practice alone, but in our public attitude toward unfortunate human oddities. I quote a random acquaintance in the theatrical booking business:

"Freaks aren't what they used to be," he said. "The crowds don't go for them. Just a few months ago, I was trying to book a living skeleton, who, as late as ten or twelve years ago, was one of the best bets out on the kerosene circuit. Nobody would give him a tumble. You take the old time pitchmen—they can dope the trend in the show business better than anybody in it. To a man they tell me that the freaks are no good any more. People seem uneasy when they are looking at them.

"There are about 400 midgets in this country. They seem to get by a little better than the other freaks, but they are having a hard time. It's tough on the midgets. They're more apt to be regular people than the giants. I just about break my arm trying to book them when they come along, but I can't do much. People know too much these days. They're on to this gland business and all that, and no spieler can get away with the old line of ballyhoo."

Gain In Decency

Evidence of a net gain in popular decency is the fact that it is an instance of the super-normal which has stimulated this generation to unheard of interest and excitement rather than one of those unhappy variations from the normal which used to enthral us in the past.

Altogether wholesome is the public yen for a glimpse of the little Dionne girls and our hunger for news of them. Seventy-five years ago, Barnum surely would have had them. Consider the circus he would have made of them, and then consider their scientifically safeguarded rearing. And in this connection, your correspondent reports that every man, woman and child he has talked to backs up Dr. Dafoe in his refusal to let them be taken to the World's Fair.—Copyright, 1938.

Maryland Republicans Should Get Together

A RATHER UNFORTUNATE SITUATION appears to have found flower over in Washington and Frederick counties respecting state leadership of the Republican party. The Morning Herald, of Hagerstown, strong Republican newspaper, is peeved over the leadership of Governor Nice on the ground that he ignored the Republican State Central Committee of Washington county in making an appointment, which, it declares, has been a great fault with the governor, and has tended to disrupt county organizations; and on top of that Leo Weinberg, of Frederick, unsuccessful candidate on the Republican ticket for attorney general, jumped into print, echoing the Herald's grievance, and announced himself as a candidate two years hence for the seat now held in the federal Senate by George L. Radcliffe. In doing so he explained that he took the precipitate action "so that Republicans may have the right to a choice before Governor Nice pre-empts the field." Both the Herald and Weinberg denounced the governor as "totally unfit for party leadership," and called for a new deal in that respect.

"There is a vacancy on the Liquor License board," the Herald explained, "a position of responsibility and one requiring the use of great judgment. The central committee received a large list of applications and plans were being made to submit a recommendation to the governor based on efficiency, ability and interests of the party. But lo and behold, word leaked into the committee by round-about ways, that the governor had already promised the appointment to a personal friend and that the committee recommendatoin would merely be a scrap of paper. The committemen held a number of futile meetings and in disgust sent the entire list of applicants to the governor."

The Herald expressed the feeling, however, that the committee erred "in not taking a determined and resolute stand." Therein can be seen a tendency on the part of central committees which has given the governor a lot of trouble during his tenure, and unjustly so. The governor has several times been accused of ignoring central committees, but as a matter of fact the fault has not rested with the governor but with the committees themselves. That happened here in Allegany county and resulted in a feeling of resentment on the part of some Republicans who at the time did not fully understand the situation. Party committees have been requested time after time by the governor to make recommendations for appointments, and the committees have either straddled the issue or let it go by default fearing that a definite recommendation for a certain position might incur some bad feelings or lose some local votes.

Now, so far as Mr. Weinberg is concerned, the News, as a faithful Republican newspaper and desirous of promoting party harmony and unity, which are absolutely necessary in Maryland if the party is ever to get anywhere, believes the Frederick attorney has been both premature and precipitous in this situation. If by rushing into a senatorial candidacy scarcely after the ink is dry on the reports of the recent election he presumes to arrogate state party leadership to himself, the action does not seem altogether fair to other party leaders throughout the state. One may well ask what background of political achievement the Frederick attorney has for so suddenly asserting his right to sail into the candidacy if he assumes, as the Morning Herald pointed out, that Governor Nice has failed in his leadership because he did not manage to obtain re-election to another term. It is true, of course, that Governor Nice failed of re-election but it is also true that he didn't fare so badly as many others in a state normally Democratic, except in presidential years (for which reason the gubernatorial election was separated from the general election by Democrats for their own political advantage) and with a Democratic majority of something like 270,000 in the registration. And Mr. Weinberg was certainly a poor runner in comparison with Nice, who polled more than two votes to his one.

If there is dissatisfaction in Washington and Frederick counties over Republican state leadership, the thing to do, it seems to the News, would be to thresh this out within the state councils of the party organization and not to attempt a solution on the part of an individual or a single county group. The question of state leadership properly belongs there, and Governor Nice as the titular head of the party is entitled to receive all benefit of any doubts as to his qualifications just as a man is not to be considered guilty until he is tried by court and jury and cannot be so deemed on a mere allegation. As the Herald admits, there is much for it—and others as well—to admire in the governor, who, in many ways has tried to do a good job in state administration even if he suffered some handicaps in taking poor advice from friends who perhaps were more friendly to themselves than to the governor.

Ordinarily the state governing body of a political party should have the immediate say-so on a question of party leadership. In this state, that body is, this newspaper feels, quite too small, unless it takes the occasion to summon into council the chairmen, at least, other members if they desire, of the various county committees. The committee for the state under the present set-up comprises only the state chairman, the national committeeman and the national committeewoman. Theoretically it embodies the counties but it resolves itself into a larger body only when the county committees are called together and that does not occur very often.

The set-up ought to be changed, this newspaper believes. There should be a larger and more representative state governing board for the party. There should also be a change in the names of each as the present designations are often confusing. There should be county Republican executive committees—not state central committees—to serve for each county and a state executive committee to serve for matters of general state interest. Too frequently the existing set-up leaves the county organizations out in the cold.

If these defections are to hinder the work of solidifying party action and party service in this state, it would be well to have the various committees called together and to thresh the thing out in the proper spirit, with the thought of necessary harmony and unity as the impelling spirit for all.

The party organization in the state needs improvement. There is a wealth of capable leaders in the counties and in Baltimore City many of whom should be doing more than they have been doing and who would be doing that if the proper encouragement were given. In brief, the News does not believe progress in this respect can be achieved by merely singling out Governor Nice for a goat, nor in shoving him out and slamming the door in his face. The obvious thing for Maryland Republicans to do is to get together, stick together and work out a definite program for party success. To that end it would be well for it to open a state headquarters at once and keep it functioning right along until the next election, firing effective guns at the enemy day after day and not letting the whole business rest until a few weeks before an important election.

Rapid-Fire Rifles

THE ARMY'S NEWEST WEAPON, the semi-automatic rifle, begins to appear in the picture pages. It is gas operated, self loading and ejecting and the trigger must be pulled for each shot. The bolt of the Springfield 1903 is operated by hand, which wastes time which may be vital, and takes away from accuracy in rapid fire, since the aim is relaid for each shot.

The firing rate of the semi-automatic is up to three times faster than the Springfield's, which is a decided help when fire must be concentrated; but a new weapon also brings new problems, for many factors bear on the usefulness of arms. The matter of keeping a front supplied with ammunition is complicated by the trend to more rapid arms. A larger proportion of the troops must be detailed to move it to the guns, the effect of which is to leave fewer, faster guns, in stronger points, along the line. Ammunition misspent with a faster arm is wasted at a greater rate, and ammunition is never too plentiful on a fighting front.

The uninterrupted efficiency of transport is essential, if the advantages of the newer guns are to be realized. Beyond that the requirements are as usual—trained accuracy of gunners and power to apply and concentrate fire on the instant. In the latter respect, the new weapon will be much superior to the old, in the hands of the competent. Meanwhile, the qualities which constitute the good soldier do not change with his weapons. Nor will the development of weapons shooting three times as fast mean that wars will be over in a third of the time. It has not turned out that way. Scores of operations must precede the application of any fire in war.

As Christmas approaches, the number of divorces decreases, and many marital differences are patched up, says a Cleveland judge. Things will probably get back to normal when they have seen their Christmas presents.

We don't blame that Chicago woman for asking for a divorce after her husband not only blacked her eyes but their dog's too. When a man is no longer kind to animals, he must have lost his self respect.

High among modern discoveries must be ranked the revelations before a Senate subcommittee to the effect that profit-sharing is a swell idea if it would work out the right way.

The movies are striving toward realism, says Cecil B. DeMille. We won't believe that until we see a heroine with a wrinkle in her night clothes after a night's sleep.

Next Time We Argue

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Next time I argue, I'm going to be very calm.

I'm not going to lose my temper. I'm going to be as difficult to ruffle as the pyramids—or as a St. Bernard dog—or as one of the gilded Oriental idols that sit smiling through the centuries.

That's going to be Me. Imperturbable, untouchable, remote from peevishness and petty anger and trivial differences.

I'll think about bigger things. About the poor human race, rising in pain and glory from the ignoble scum, struggling through miserable mud and streaming tears and flowing blood—fighting along. I'll remember great men. And sacrificing women. Nice old ladies. Chubby babies. Friendly puppies. Wild flowers in green meadows. Dignified old oaks. Picnics. Hay rides. Summer swimming pools. Candy pulls. Young love. Egg dyeing at Easter. Bobbing for apples at Hallowe'en. First time I owned a bicycle. Rain after a long dry spell. Sunshine after pouring rain. Friendship after loneliness. Love after grief.

I'll remember all these and they'll overwhelm irritation and make my little argument seem smaller still. That's what I'll do!

I'll think of the universe. Of the enormous flaming sun. Of the million stars far out there in space. Of the speed of light. Of comets and planets and the dark side of the moon. Of the growing, visible earth on which we live. . . . Of tiny seeds in the dark earth that swell and break and send little green shoots into the sunshine. Of leaves that spring magically onto trees in spring. Of the soft white snow on the hills. Of the brown ploughed fields where the harvest will be. . . . Of the swift, flying years. Of youth and maturity and old age that comes too soon. Of the few things worth while in life. Of the many delights that perish too soon and the rare compensations that endure so long.

Next time I argue, I'll be a philosopher. Calm, wise, and steady. . . . And the argument will stop before it's hardly begun.

The system I have described will work if I have the wisdom and character to use it when it's needed. . . . It's the only way I know of preventing that empty feeling one has when he's argued and argued and said things he didn't intend to say and gotten nowhere and accomplished nothing but make a poor, remorseful idiot of himself.

Stewart Says—

Neutrality Law Operates Only in Declared Wars

Central Press Columnist

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8—When Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota evolved our present neutrality law his intention was to give the President no discretion in the matter of keeping the United States out of foreign conflicts. Two or more overseas nations having gone to war, the White House tenant is supposed to embargo American shipments of military supplies to both or all of the belligerents. The act hasn't proved a bit effective. Everyone knows that Italy waged war against Abyssinia, that war is raging in Spain and that Japan and China are at war bloodthirstily. But none of these wars was formally declared. Theoretically they were not and are not wars.

Nye

President Roosevelt could have declared them wars, in fact, and slapped embargoes on, but he hasn't seen fit to do so. Technically perhaps he's been right about it. The Nye law doesn't exactly apply to the Spanish muss, either. Even if it's a war, it doesn't class as international; it's a civil struggle nominally. The truth is that Italy and Germany have a hand in it; Russia, to a certain extent also. To a degree, France and Britain doubtless are participants. Indeed, the number of Americans in the fighting lines ran into the thousands. But it's a civil affair, according to diplomatic interpretation. The Nye law doesn't require the President to neutralize Uncle Sam in such cases.

What About China?

As for the Jap-Chinese war, it's a war all right. However, American public opinion is altogether on China's side. We wouldn't like to see the Chinese embargoed. If the Chinese can get our military supplies, to fight the Japanese with, we want to see the Chinese get 'em. They probably don't get many; Japan has them bottled up too tightly. Nevertheless, it wouldn't be popular for the White House to shut them off altogether. And the President hasn't any choice. If he recognizes a war and embargoes Japan, he must embargo China likewise.

The Congressional folks who propose amendment of the Nye law urge that the White House be empowered to make a selection between belligerents—to say that one side's right and that the other side is wrong—to remain neutral but to embargo the supposedly wrong side, while continuing the flow of American supplies to the supposedly right side.

Now, this might be neutrality from the Yankee standpoint, but is it likely that the side which the President decided against would think so? Echo answers skeptically.

Opponents of the amendment program maintain that the scheme would give the President entirely too much authority, anyway. He can't declare war today. Congress has to do it, if it's done at all. To be sure, he can maneuver the country so closely up to a war that Congress hardly will be able to get out of declaring it. Still, this thing is a step farther.

Proponents of amendment suggest a few changes in the law that aren't so essential.

Question of Terms

For example, the present law calls for an embargo on "ammunition." Ammunition is concrete stuff—explosives. The would-be modifiers of the law would substitute the much broader term, "munitions," meaning all kinds of junk that perhaps could be used for lethal purposes.

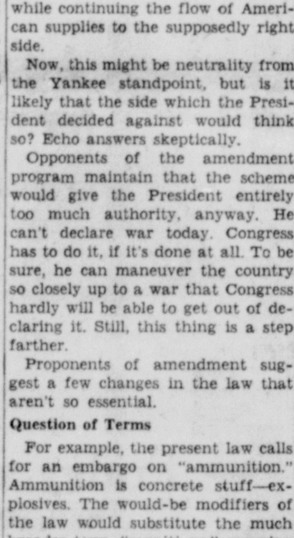

I think maybe the modifiers will succeed in substituting the term "munitions" for "ammunition."

I don't believe the President will be authorized to choose between belligerents. The latter would give him, in effect, the right to pick between warring powers.

Then we'd be yanked into their rumpuses.

They're hard enough to keep out of anyhow.

By MARK SULLIVAN

Washington, Dec. 8—Vice-President Garner has a friend who is a Washington newspaper man, Mr. Bascom Timmons, of the Houston, Texas, Chronicle. Mr. Timmons recently reported on the state of mind of the vice president about coalition in the coming Congress between Republicans and conservative Democrats.

Vice President Garner

About coalition, Mr. Garner takes the same position that Calvin Coolidge took about sin. He's opposed to it. "John Nance Garner will lend no encouragement to any efforts at coalition . . . of Republicans and conservative Democrats against the administration."

Mr. Garner's reason is, as often, largely political:

"He is a party man and his party still has an overwhelming Senate majority and a House majority. . . Under these circumstances Mr. Garner thinks that wherever the legislative ball is carried within the next two years, his party should carry it. And his efforts upon his return to Washington are all expected to be in that direction. Learned as he is in political science, he knows that whatever political benefits might accrue to any one through a legislative coalition would accrue to the Republicans."

Well, the vice president's views are clear. No Republican-conservative Democratic coalition for him. But before Mr. Garner has any need to worry about that, he must first give thought to another kind of coalition. This other coalition is one which Mr. Garner undoubtedly favors and will try hard to bring about.

Between Two Men

What Mr. Garner needs to be anxious about, and to work hard for, is a coalition between two men—a coalition between John Nance Garner and Franklin Delano Roosevelt. If Mr. Garner can bring this personal coalition about, then he won't need to worry about any coalition in Congress. In that case, Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Garner will agree on a program for Congress and the united Democratic majority will support it.

But if Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Garner can't agree on a program, if they can't achieve a personal coalition, in that case there will be a different story. In that case the Democrats will split and the conservative wing of it will take a position more or less coinciding with that of the Republicans. That, if it happens, will be a Republican-conservative Democratic coalition in Congress, whether Mr. Garner wants it or not.

Lot of Coalescing Necessary

For Mr. Garner and Mr. Roosevelt to agree will need a lot of coalescing. In the past Congress they have been far apart. Mr. Garner doesn't like a big government debt—and Mr. Roosevelt makes it bigger and bigger. Mr. Garner didn't like tampering with the supreme court—and Mr. Roosevelt attempted it. Mr. Garner does not like the sit-down strike—and Mr. Roosevelt did nothing to discourage it. Mr. Garner thinks Congress is a branch of government equal to and coordinate with the presidency—and Mr. Roosevelt treated Congress, and the Democratic party leaders in Congress, including Mr. Garner, as if their business was to rubber-stamp what Mr. Roosevelt wanted done. In sum, Mr. Garner is the head and symbol of the traditional Democratic party—and Mr. Roosevelt is the head and symbol of the New Deal.

In the recent Congress, Mr. Roosevelt didn't feel he needed to pay much attention to Mr. Garner and the Democrats whom Mr. Garner symbolizes. But recent events have changed the picture. Everybody knows that Mr. Roosevelt's failure in his attempt to "purge" Democrats similar to Mr. Garner was a sign of popular support for the Garner type of Democrat. Everybody knows that Mr. Garner is now in a position to meet Mr. Roosevelt as an equal, perhaps a little more than an equal. Everybody knows the two must either get together—or go through the coming Congress and into the 1940 presidential election with a divided party doomed to defeat.

Like a Poker Game

As Mr. Garner and Mr. Roosevelt maneuver toward each other for a personal coalition, the process has some resemblance to the game of poker. Mr. Garner has some strong cards, especially the need for party unity to avoid party defeat. Mr. Roosevelt also has some strong cards—his personal popularity and the implied threat that unless the Democratic party goes his way he does not care whether it is beaten or not. Washington feels that in the game of poker, Mr. Garner can accomplish more with a given number of cards than any other man in public life. Indeed legend says that Mr. Garner with a pair of deuces can sometimes beat an opponent with a pair of ten-spots.

If Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Garner agree on a reasonably conservative congressional program, the Democratic party will unite behind it. But if Mr. Roosevelt insists on more New Deal legislation, the Democratic party will assuredly divide, and the conservative wing will as a matter of course be found in what will amount to coalition with the Republicans.—Copyright, 1938.

An Editorial from the Rotarian Magazine

Seventeen . . . an age of vast perplexity and adolescent anarchy, but not a seriously dangerous age. Such is the burden of Booth Tarkington's much cherished novel Seventeen. But 19 is different. Nineteen is dangerous. And for that, the authority is not fiction—but statistics on crime. Nineteen-year olds, says the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington, D. C., form the largest single age group of arrests each year.

The public knows that vaguely . . . but residents of Georgia recently turned their minds specifically upon it. A survey made for their Department of Public Welfare by the Works Progress Administration showed that the average age of admissions to the State penitentiary is 19. It revealed also that 58 percent of the admissions were under 25 years of age, and of this group, half were under 21.

Why should youths barely old enough to start on their first jobs turn to crime? Perhaps that question answers itself. Most of them can't get that first job. Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam finds that the young person reacts in one of two ways to lack of opportunity to work. Either "he wants to fight . . . simply rebels against the present setup," or he takes "an attitude of complete resignation." The fighter turns to crime, sabotage, violent actions of all sorts, alcohol, and dope. The resigner turns to futile brooding. And the net result is a serious and usually permanent vitiation of youth's vital morale.

Now, the enlightened businessman can tell you quite a little—in non-academic language, thank goodness—about crime and its causes and costs, and he usually concludes with the old chestnut about an ounce of prevention. He likes it, says that he finds it the best answer to date to the problem of crime. And so he makes a place in his shipping room for a poor lad the social worker told him about . . . campaigns for funds for the Boy Scout troop down in the slums, canvasses for Girl Scouts, and never denies an audience, at least, to a young person earnestly seeking a job. And he helps a dozen other agencies in the same way and in other ways.

Sometimes, like any other adult, he'd like to climb up on the roof and shout to all the young folks in the world, "For heaven's sake, be decent." But he knows what a ridiculous, what a pathetic figure he'd cut. And so, instead, he starts at home—to give young people there a respectable chance to be decent.

Not Funny, Only Stupid

From the Morgantown, W. Va. Post

The quality of any educational process (formal in the school or informal in the home) is brought seriously into question when a group of persons, presumably university students, can find no better way of gratifying some impulse or whim than to smear red paint on three university buildings, the safety island sign on University avenue, and the Community Chest thermometer.

There wasn't anything funny or clever about it. It was simply a stupid, ignorant escapade indicative of a pathological condition which requires nothing so much as first-class treatment in the old-fashioned woodshed

Hunting Trouble

From the Wheeling, W. Va., Intelligencer

One of the most disturbing reports of a disturbing period concerns the Neutrality Act, It is to the effect that the State Department is drafting amendments which would permit the President to apply embargoes to "aggressor" Nations and allow unrestricted commerce with their "victims" in time of war.

As it stands, the Neutrality Act prevents the shipment of war supplies to either party involved in war, upon a finding by the President that a state of war exists.

If Congress wants to make certain that the United States will NOT be neutral, it could follow no more effective course than the enactment of the suggested amendments.

The whole purpose of a neutrality law, if its name is to have any meaning at all, is to keep this country neutral in case other nations go to war with one another. To that end the present Neutrality Act was drafted and passed. It may be far from perfect. But it has worked. It has worked because it has prevented the embroilment of the United States through the attempt to ship war supplies to any belligerent.

It very well may be that operation of this law has worked to the advantage of one side and the disadvantage of another in more time one conflict. It may even be that it has helped an "aggressor" and penalized a "victim."

That, however, is no concern of a neutrality policy. If we are going to be neutral we must keep hands off, regardless of the merits of any particular conflict.

If we want to judge a war, to say which is the right and which the wrong side, to determine which nation or group of Nations represents the cause of justice, and to apply economic force accordingly, that is quite another matter. Certainly it is not neutrality. It is the complete negation of neutrality. It commits the country, and that upon the judgment of a single man, to take sides in every conflict arising.

We can conceive of nothing designed more perfectly to get us into war.

By EDWIN C. HILL

For more than a month, the marriage of Tom Thumb and Lavinia Warren at Grace Church in New York crowded news of the civil war off the front pages of the newspapers. The death of the midget, Major James D. Doyle, at Spartansburg, S. C., is a reminder of this amazing Tom Thumb rowdy-dowdy, fanned up by P. T. Barnum.

Seventy-year-old Major Doyle stemmed from that loud and golden era of honkaton showmanship which makes our later endeavours in that line seem timid indeed. Major Doyle appeared for years with Tom Thumb's widow, who died in 1919. He was a beligerent little man, three feet nine inches tall, who couldn't hesitate to tangle with Man-Mountain Dean or Primo Canera when he had his dander up.

Files Are Interesting

Citizens who deplore our latter-day tendency to worry a sensational story to rags and tatters, who bemoan our loss of all sense of relative values, who shudder with our unseemly cavorting over murder trials, stunting and love tangles, will do well to look through the files of 1863.

On February 21 of that year, the New York Illustrated News devoted twenty-three columns to the Tom Thumb wedding, with a big splash of woodcuts by distinguished artists. The town went completely haywire, with police regulars and reserves fighting back the crowds around the church. The bride and groom were showered with expensive gifts, among the donors being Mrs. John Jacob Astor, August Belmont, James Gordon Bennett and Horace Greeley.

Generals, financiers, statesmen, stage and social celebrities were in attendance, among them being General Ambrose Everett Burnside, he of the copyrighted side whiskers, who, a few weeks later was to be relieved of his command of the Army of the Potomac—and a few meagre paragraphs on the inside pages about the life-and-death struggle of the nation.

We Come a Long Way

Read a round or two of that Gargantuan outgiving of elegant blather of lace-curtain language of hysterical hooey, and rejoice in the dignity, sanity well-bred reserve and thorough good taste of the wildest, gaudiest and loudest scandal sheet of today.

We have come a long way, not in journalistic practice alone, but in our public attitude toward unfortunate human oddities. I quote a random acquaintance in the theatrical booking business:

"Freaks aren't what they used to be," he said. "The crowds don't go for them. Just a few months ago, I was trying to book a living skeleton, who, as late as ten or twelve years ago, was one of the best bets out on the kerosene circuit. Nobody would give him a tumble. You take the old time pitchmen—they can dope the trend in the show business better than anybody in it. To a man they tell me that the freaks are no good any more. People seem uneasy when they are looking at them.

"There are about 400 midgets in this country. They seem to get by a little better than the other freaks, but they are having a hard time. It's tough on the midgets. They're more apt to be regular people than the giants. I just about break my arm trying to book them when they come along, but I can't do much. People know too much these days. They're on to this gland business and all that, and no spieler can get away with the old line of ballyhoo."

Gain In Decency

Evidence of a net gain in popular decency is the fact that it is an instance of the super-normal which has stimulated this generation to unheard of interest and excitement rather than one of those unhappy variations from the normal which used to enthral us in the past.

Altogether wholesome is the public yen for a glimpse of the little Dionne girls and our hunger for news of them. Seventy-five years ago, Barnum surely would have had them. Consider the circus he would have made of them, and then consider their scientifically safeguarded rearing. And in this connection, your correspondent reports that every man, woman and child he has talked to backs up Dr. Dafoe in his refusal to let them be taken to the World's Fair.—Copyright, 1938.

Radio Around the Clock

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

New York, Dec. 8—Anthony Eden speaks in a two-network broadcast Friday night at 10 o'clock. The former British Foreign Minister will be addressing the National Association of Manufacturers in New York on "Democracies And the Modern World." In the same broadcast, via WJZ-NBC and WOR-MBS, will be heard H. W. Prentis, Jr., on "Industry's Program for the Future." WABC-CBS will join in at 10:30.

In the afternoon the convention contributes another program for WJZ-NBC, starting at 1:30 when Gerald Swope will be speaking about "Labor Relations Contrasts Here and Abroad."

Orson Welles gets under way his new Friday night series on WABC-CBS at 9 o'clock. It's his first sponsored program since the noted Sunday night "World of the Wars" thriller. The program, in replacement for Hollywood Hotel, will be dramatic, the play announced for the opening being "Rebecca." In the cast will be Margaret Sullavan, and Welles will conduct a two-way conversation with the author, Daphne du Maurier, in London.

Plantation Feature

At the same hour, 9 o'clock, another new feature is to show up on WJZ-NBC. Actually a transfer from WOR-MBS, it is the Plantation Party, musical variety containing the Girls of the Golden West, yodelers, the Range Riders, Whitey Ford, a 30-voice choir and an orchestra.

Dr. Walter Damrosch will appear as usual on WJZ-NBC at 2 with his Music Appreciation Hour, while in the Music Hour of WABC-CBS, the 3:30 section, Leith Stevens will conduct the Columbia Chamber orchestra.

Programs from Lima, Peru, in connection wit hthe Pan-American Congress are set for WABC-CBS at 10:45, and WJZ-NBC at 11:05.

Other Dialings

WEAF-NBC—1:15 p. m., Let's Talk It Over; 2:45, Betty Crocker; 5:15, Your Family and Mine.

WABC-CBS—2:15, Al Bernard's Minstrels; 4:15, Accent On Music; 5:15, Men Behind the Stars.

HOLIDAY BARGAIN HUNTERS LEARN WHISKEY ECONOMY AS SURVEY AMONG 1,000 MEN REVEALS STARTLING RESULTS!

"It's mild—that's what I like about it!" says Dan J. Negas, Atlanta Hotel Man, to Investigator Anderson, after trial of 3-year Old Quaker.

Out of 1,000 Men Who Sampled OLD QUAKER—Now 3 Years Old—960 Found it Superbly Mellow, Rich in Flavor—Confirming Our Belief that OLD QUAKER Rivals Many Higher Priced Whiskies!

● It's a fact! This year you won't have to spend extra dollars to get whiskey that's "good enough for the holidays". Just the opposite! For, Old Quaker—now 3 years old—rivals many fine whiskies that are more expensive! Here's why we say so:—

We sought out 1,000 men and asked them for their frank opinion of Old Quaker. "Smell it!", we said. "Taste it! Take a drink of it! Then tell us what you think."

None of these men knew the name, age or price of the whiskey he was trying—yet 960 of them found Old Quaker rich in flavor, mild and delightfully smooth . . . confirming our belief that Old Quaker is an amazing bargain at its rock-bottom price.

How This Concerns You

If your taste agrees with these 960 out of 1,000 men—here's the direct way for you to save money on whiskey. Make the same simple trial of 3-year Old Quaker yourself! See for yourself that this is the cheerier news of the season! Give choice whiskey for the holidays—stock up on it for your own holiday hospitality—yet do it with utmost economy!

"Now I know why people like straight whiskey! I'll buy Old Quaker in the future!" remarks J. T. Raiford, Engineer.

Radio Around the Clock

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

New York, Dec. 8—Anthony Eden speaks in a two-network broadcast Friday night at 10 o'clock. The former British Foreign Minister will be addressing the National Association of Manufacturers in New York on "Democracies And the Modern World." In the same broadcast, via WJZ-NBC and WOR-MBS, will be heard H. W. Prentis, Jr., on "Industry's Program for the Future." WABC-CBS will join in at 10:30.

In the afternoon the convention contributes another program for WJZ-NBC, starting at 1:30 when Gerald Swope will be speaking about "Labor Relations Contrasts Here and Abroad."

Orson Welles gets under way his new Friday night series on WABC-CBS at 9 o'clock. It's his first sponsored program since the noted Sunday night "World of the Wars" thriller. The program, in replacement for Hollywood Hotel, will be dramatic, the play announced for the opening being "Rebecca." In the cast will be Margaret Sullavan, and Welles will conduct a two-way conversation with the author, Daphne du Maurier, in London.

Plantation Feature

At the same hour, 9 o'clock, another new feature is to show up on WJZ-NBC. Actually a transfer from WOR-MBS, it is the Plantation Party, musical variety containing the Girls of the Golden West, yodelers, the Range Riders, Whitey Ford, a 30-voice choir and an orchestra.

Dr. Walter Damrosch will appear as usual on WJZ-NBC at 2 with his Music Appreciation Hour, while in the Music Hour of WABC-CBS, the 3:30 section, Leith Stevens will conduct the Columbia Chamber orchestra.

Programs from Lima, Peru, in connection wit hthe Pan-American Congress are set for WABC-CBS at 10:45, and WJZ-NBC at 11:05.

Name of Wolf Pen Comes Honestly

Pineville, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—Once upon a time Wolf Pen, a little community about seven miles from here, meant just what its name implies.

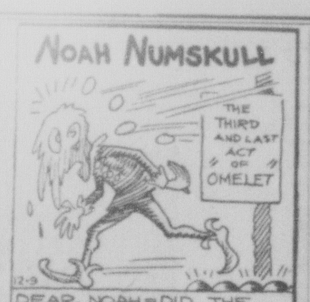

Back in the forepart of the last century, so the legend goes, wolves ranged so heavy in this mountain country that sheep raising was impossible.

Jonathan Morgan got tired of losing his sheep to the wolves, so relates his grandson, 70-year-old R. E. Morgan, so he built a trap about a mile from the mouth of what is now known as Wolf Pen Branch.

A live sheep was used to bait the trap, and the unsuspecting wolf tripped a heavy door behind when it entered after the sheep.

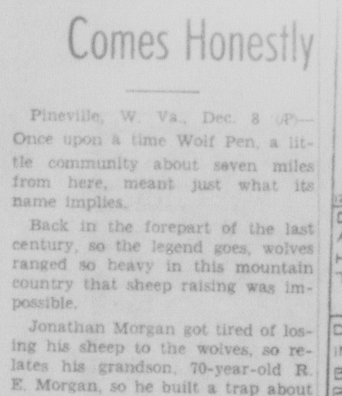

The sheep herder took care of the rest.

R. E. Morgan said that as many as five wolves were caught by his grandfather's trap, which proved so successful that sheep thrived—and the district henceforth was known simply as Wolf Pen.

Ground Broken for New High School at Grafton

Grafton, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—Ground was broken today for the new Grafton high school on the west side. Among those at the ceremony were eight persons who entered central school in 1870 as members of the first class there.

Senator Norris Favors Increased U. S. Armaments

Sees Need of Protection Against "Inhuman Dictatorships"

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) said today he favored increased armaments, particularly in the air, to protect this country from attack by "inhuman dictatorships" and to make American protests in behalf of peace more effective.

The Nebraskan, who voted against American entry into the world war, said he approved bigger armaments only reluctantly. In view of world conditions they are a "matter of compulsion," he said.

"The inhuman, merciless attitude of Germany, Japan and Italy is a red sign of danger on the road of civilization," he declared. "Without any reason, if they want to take another government they take it.

"If we were unarmed, like China, Ethiopia and Austria, we should be the first to suffer. I don't want this country to be in an attitude where these crazy desperadoes will some day attack us."

The United States is not, however, able to arm itself to the point where it could "go out and defend the world," he said, nor is it likely to get into a war with the dictators.

"We should not go to war because some other nation has disregarded justice and right by attacking a foe simply because it was helpless, but we should protest and continue to protest."

Meanwhile, Senator Truman (D-Mo) said in an interview that he was opposed to "any unnecessarily large" armament appropriations but believed there should be a normal increase to take care of specific needs.

"I think the Panama Canal should be better fortified," Truman said. "We need more adequate coast defenses and anti-aircraft guns."

Keeps Addicts Happy By Giving Them Pills

Cleveland (AP)—Narcotic addicts are being treated here with sugar-coated pills.

Dr. A. V. Fried, county jail physician, has withheld narcotics from all addicted prisoners since last January, although previously he had prescribed as many as 85,000 tablets in a single year.

"The sugar pills look like dope," he says. "The prisoners think they are getting the real thing and never know the difference. A few days later they become nauseated from lack of narcotics and we feed them milk and raw eggs. Then they recover, begin eating heavily, and show no signs of addiction by the time they leave."

Hints On Etiquet

Vegetables such as asparagus are not finged foods and should be cut and eaten with a fork.

Such foods as celery, olives, radishes and artichokes are called "finger foods," and it is correct to eat them with the fingers.

When you make a blunder at the table, let it pass unnoticed unless it inconveniences some one else. If you happen to spill something on some one's clothes or the table cloth, apologize and then forget the matter. Don't say you are sorry over and over.

Constipated?

"For years I had constipation, awful gas bloating, headaches and back pains. Adlerika helped right away. Now, I eat sausage, bananas, pie, anything I want. Never felt better." Mrs. Mabel Schott.

he's anxious to play straight dramatic roles.

The reputation of having been a cowboy star in pictures is a hard one to shake. Especially a singing cowboy star.

Pasts of torrid, not to say lurid, nature have been forgotten and forgiven. But not that. Ah, not that!

At least, that's the way it seems to Dick Foran. Dick quit making "Westerns" about a year ago. Since that time he has had a wide variety of fine acting parts in all sorts of pictures.

"Code of the Rangers", "Telephone Operator" And "Tim Tyler's Luck"

On the set of Monogram's "The Code of the Rangers" now at the Embassy Theatre, Colonel Tim McCoy, star of this action drama, gave a party for two hundred cowboys, representatives of all the nations of the world.

Asked how he managed to get such a strange company together at the same time, McCoy explained that the two hundred would join him on a tour of the entire country in his own circus, to be entitled "Riders of all Nations." The company will play all key cities and in addition will appear for charity at fifty orphanages.

The most colorful cowboy costmes included those worn by the Argentine riders, by the Russiian Cossacks, by the Mexican vaqueros, and the fancy outfit which decorated the lone Chinese bowboy, only representative of his native land.

McCoy's latest picture, "Code of the Rangers," concerns a ranger's single-handed fight against a ruthless band of racketeers, and his desperate efforts to stop his brother from joining them.

Included in the cast are Judith Ford, Wheeler Oakman, Rex Lease, Frank LaRue, and Ed Piel, Sr.

Maurice Conn produced for Monogram.

The second feature being Judith Allen and Grant Withers in "Telephone Operator."

Today at the Embassy Theatre, the first installment of Universal's new serial, "Tim Tyler's Luck," opens, with Frankie Thomas and Francis Robinson in the leads.

"Tim Tyler's Luck" is a screen adaptation of the popular newspaper strip of the same name. The story revolves about 16-year-old Tim Tyler and beautiful Lora Lacey. These young people meet on a river boat bound for the jungle country of Africa and become fast friends. The thieving gang of Spider Webb, notorious criminal, shoot the boat's crew, and the lid's off.

Frankie Thomas as Tim Tyler, is a veteran on the stage and screen. Because of his interpretation of "Bobbie" in the play, "Wednesday's Child," he became known as "The Wonder Boy of Broadway."

Beautiful Frances Robinson, enacting the role of Lora Lacey, makes her movie debut in the chapter-play.

"Tim Tyler's Luck" is a thrill-a-second serial that will make the kids whoop and, well, their mas and dads won't want to miss it, either.

Exacts "No Fight" Pledge From Boys in "Tom Sawyer"

Theatened with serious consequences because of fist fights among his lively troupe of boys, Norman Taurog, who directed "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," David O. Selznick technicolor production, now at the Garden Theatre, declared an armistice.

From each boy Taurog exacted a pledge of "no fighting" while the picture was in production.

The necessity for an armistice became acute when the company finished its first week of shooting on location at Malibu Lake, with Tommy Kelly, Jackie Moran, Mickey Rentscheler, David Holt, Georgie Billings ,and other boys in the scenes.

Proving they are all healthy, normal boys, they began cooking up fights just as quickly as they were well acquainted. Arguments raged over whose uncle was the stronger, who could throw the farthest, climb the highest and do Tarzan imitation the best.

Like all boyhood arguments, their solution seemed to lie in a fist fight, or a series of fist fights.

After a few sporadic outbreaks of hostilities, Taurog called all the boys together to establish peace by treaty.

"The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," one of the outstanding pictures of the current season, is released through United Artists.

A rousing tale of adventure and romance and gunplay on the old Arizone frontier was brought to the Garden Theatre screen in "Gun Law," starring George O'Brien.

The story is a triumph of fast-moving action, and reveals the energetic O'Brien at his two-fisted best. He has the role of a United States marshal ordered to the little town of Gunsight to look into several hold-ups which have occurred in the vicinity.

David Howard directed "Gun Law," a production by Bert Gilroy produced by RKO Radio, from Oliver Drake's scenario of his own original story.

SIX WAYS TO LOSE HER

Stinginess Sheds Sweethearts

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage, Copyright, 1938

Are you a skinflint, a tightwad, a penny-pincher, a miser, even a chair-warmer?

You see, I know all the hateful names girls apply to men who are thirty-third-degree misers. These gentlemen have taken to heart much too seriously the proverb, "A penny saved is a penny earned." They do not take into account the fact that while they may save their pennies they lose sweethearts and friends.

Stinginess sheds friends as a duck's back sheds water. The miserly persons who take and never give are the male equivalent of the daughters of the horse leech, mentioned in the Bible, who cried: "Give, give."

Please bear in mind that not a word of this diatribe applies to men who have plenty of generous impulses and would gladly yield to them, if it were possible. These include the jobless, those working for low salaries, men who are martyrs to responsibilities in the parental home, helping to support aged parents or younger brothers and sisters, and men who are paying old debts. None of these is invited to our pillory party.

Bright Side After All

Sometimes when I get letters full of sympathy for such men, written by girls who want only the friendship of those who are temporarily hard-up and object to a penny being spent on treats or amusement, I have a feeling that there's a bright side to poverty after all. Take this letter, for instance:

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"If he would only understand that I don't want him to take me places. When he had his car, he was so good about taking mother and me everywhere we wanted to go, and now we'd like to do our part since he's lost his job and seems so unhappy. But I can't get him to come over in the nice friendly way he did once.

"We've asked him to have dinner with us, time and time again, as a slight return for all the nice things he has done for us, but he always makes some excuse. I know he's a victim of his own stubborn pride. He's too good a boy to remain unemployed. And we wish he'd understand how we feel about him.

"MARY"

I wish there were space to print more such letters, which prove conclusively not all girls want to have money spent on them as the stingy brethren seem to think. The type who is more than welcome to our pillory party is the one who turns up smiling for meals and never thinks of taking the one who prepares them to even a half-price movie.

The week after Christmas is the time when I get true confessions from girls about their tightwad and skin-flint boy friends. Sometimes a girl almost put her eyes out embroidering beautiful monograms on fine linen handkerchiefs and Mr. Close returns the compliments with a ten-cent compact.

Gifts that cause outbursts of indignation from girls are pound boxes of candy, costing around nineteen cents. Mr. Tightwad's sweetheart—possibly with an eye on the future—has presented him with a Morris chair, a set of leather-bound books, or a brocaded dressing gown.

Method in Meanness

A niggardly present may be given by a man with method in his meanness. The expensive gift may have scared him to death. Such a lavish handout means that the girl's intentions are "strictly honorable." He declines to be shanghaied into matrimony, and decides to sell his life dearly. The box of cheap candy is his escape valve.

Again he may give nineteen-cent candy because he's a nineteen-cent sort of man, and giving even that has caused a terrific colic in his pocketbook. He is amazed that his sweetheart hasn't written him a charming letter, commending his generosity, and he wonders why she is out, out, out, when he calls. If he's a genuine skinflint, however, the handsome present the girl sent him will prove a great comfort, even if he never hears from her again.

A Matter of Etiquette

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Please settle this argument. Which side of the pavement does the man take when accompanied by two women? I will watch for your answer in the paper.

A. M. V.

Convention says that a gentleman, whether walking with two ladies or one, takes the curb side of the pavement, and that he should never sandwich himself between the two.

Gift Solution

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My boy friend's birthday is coming, and Christmas will soon be here, and I'm wondering what I could give him on both these days. Last year I gave him a bill-fold and a scarf. He has stopped smoking, so that lets those things out. Please help me by printing a list.

OLIVE

I've had so many letter along this same line, that I'm going to give general suggestions, as a help to all girls. Nearly everyone goes motoring nowadays, so why not get him a thermos kit with space for lunch and hot coffee. They are useful when you want to go on a ride into the country, where lunch counters are scarce. A leather portfolio is good, also a brief case for his important papers; a reading lamp for his room. Books are always acceptable, but be sure to get something that he really likes. If he likes history, biography or travel, don't buy him fiction.

In cases where men smoke, these are acceptable gifts: smoking stand, tobacco container, etc., handkerchiefs, especially embroidered with monogram, also are desirable. If you know a boy very well, silk socks for evening or golf stockings for sport wear are good. If he plays golf, get him the much-wanted golf club he needs. A gift certificate, good for a certain amount in a certain store, is also good, if you happen to be the boy friends wife.

The Clerk and the Boss' Daughter

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

If a cat may look at a king, how about a humble clerk looking at his employer's daughter?

I'm in love with the boss' daughter. It sounds like an old-time romance, but it isn't. The girl is modern and up-to-date and she has flirted with me furiously. I've been to their house several times in business and each time have seen the girl.

Once when her father was ill, I brought over some papers for him to sign, and while waiting downstairs for him to sign, she ran into the room, threw her arms around me. When she discovered who I was, she pretended she was scared to death, and said she thought it was her cousin.

Of course, I knew it wasn't so, and said "Oh, yeah?" I am really wild about her, but I'll be darned if I'm going to let her amuse herself at my expense. I'm not in her set, and likely not to be. You know more about girls than I do—what do you think of this?

MELANCHOLY

Of course, if you really were melancholy, you wouldn't have written in such a jovial manner as your letter. I'm glad you had presence of mind to say "Oh yeah" when she tried that one about thinking you were her cousin. Don't lose your head, and who knows what might happen. I could name dozens of cases where the employe married the employer's daughter.

WHO WANTS MY NOSE ?

Always Sniffling... Can't Smell ... Can't Taste ... Can't Enjoy Anything ... Can't Breathe

Are you, too, a slave to the constant drip, drip, drip of sticky mucus trickling down your throat due to colds? Is it spoiling your enjoyment of life? Is its offensive choking making you feel miserable all over? Do you wake up in the morning with your nose and throat blocked with sticky phlegm? Get some Mentholatum. This is a comforting balm containing menthol, camphor, and soothing oils. Put a little in each nostril and rub it on the throat and chest. Happy relief quickly follows. Mentholatum helps prevent the gathering of mucus and aids in clearing the breathing passages. Its soothing vapors spread through the nose and throat reducing the irritation and helping Nature to restore a healthier condition. Ask your druggist for Mentholatum today. In jars or tubes. 30¢.

Helen Ryan Cressman Carr, 38 (above), Ziegfeld beauty of 1920 and estranged wife of Alexander Carr, comedian, committed suicide in her New York apartment by inhaling gas. She took care to protect her daughter, Beverly, 12, sleeping in another room, from the fumes.

To Have Black-Outs Britain Must Pass Law

London (AP)—Before the Air Raid Precautions department of the Home Office can stage a black-out of London, Parliament may have to pass a special bill.

It was pointed out by an official that suppliers of light in London are compelled by law to maintain lighting services. The regulations could not be suspended by the department or by suppliers.

Ease CHEST COLD misery

First massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. This relieves the distress.

Then, to make its long-continued poultice-and-vapor action last even longer, spread a thick layer of VapoRub on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. This also gives the skin extra protection against chilling.

Long after restful sleep comes, VapoRub keeps on working—loosens phlegm—eases muscular soreness or tightness—clears air passages—checks tendency to cough—relieves local congestion.

Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

Lazarus Furs constitute a gift that will give pleasure and use for many years to come. More and more of us are becoming practical minded . . . and first on the list for our favored ones is "something good to wear." Nothing excels the importance and lasting memory of furs. For your devoted wife a substantial fur coat, for your daughter a versatile skunk jacket, for your mother a flattering fur scarf. Not to be put away in tissue, used for a week and then discarded, or set upon a shelf until you can safely pack it out of sight—furs are a gift to be worn the moment they are purchased—and worn for years to come.

SIX WAYS TO LOSE HER

Stinginess Sheds Sweethearts

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage, Copyright, 1938

Are you a skinflint, a tightwad, a penny-pincher, a miser, even a chair-warmer?

You see, I know all the hateful names girls apply to men who are thirty-third-degree misers. These gentlemen have taken to heart much too seriously the proverb, "A penny saved is a penny earned." They do not take into account the fact that while they may save their pennies they lose sweethearts and friends.

Stinginess sheds friends as a duck's back sheds water. The miserly persons who take and never give are the male equivalent of the daughters of the horse leech, mentioned in the Bible, who cried: "Give, give."

Please bear in mind that not a word of this diatribe applies to men who have plenty of generous impulses and would gladly yield to them, if it were possible. These include the jobless, those working for low salaries, men who are martyrs to responsibilities in the parental home, helping to support aged parents or younger brothers and sisters, and men who are paying old debts. None of these is invited to our pillory party.

Bright Side After All

Sometimes when I get letters full of sympathy for such men, written by girls who want only the friendship of those who are temporarily hard-up and object to a penny being spent on treats or amusement, I have a feeling that there's a bright side to poverty after all. Take this letter, for instance:

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"If he would only understand that I don't want him to take me places. When he had his car, he was so good about taking mother and me everywhere we wanted to go, and now we'd like to do our part since he's lost his job and seems so unhappy. But I can't get him to come over in the nice friendly way he did once.

"We've asked him to have dinner with us, time and time again, as a slight return for all the nice things he has done for us, but he always makes some excuse. I know he's a victim of his own stubborn pride. He's too good a boy to remain unemployed. And we wish he'd understand how we feel about him.

"MARY"

I wish there were space to print more such letters, which prove conclusively not all girls want to have money spent on them as the stingy brethren seem to think. The type who is more than welcome to our pillory party is the one who turns up smiling for meals and never thinks of taking the one who prepares them to even a half-price movie.

The week after Christmas is the time when I get true confessions from girls about their tightwad and skin-flint boy friends. Sometimes a girl almost put her eyes out embroidering beautiful monograms on fine linen handkerchiefs and Mr. Close returns the compliments with a ten-cent compact.

Gifts that cause outbursts of indignation from girls are pound boxes of candy, costing around nineteen cents. Mr. Tightwad's sweetheart—possibly with an eye on the future—has presented him with a Morris chair, a set of leather-bound books, or a brocaded dressing gown.

Method in Meanness

A niggardly present may be given by a man with method in his meanness. The expensive gift may have scared him to death. Such a lavish handout means that the girl's intentions are "strictly honorable." He declines to be shanghaied into matrimony, and decides to sell his life dearly. The box of cheap candy is his escape valve.

Again he may give nineteen-cent candy because he's a nineteen-cent sort of man, and giving even that has caused a terrific colic in his pocketbook. He is amazed that his sweetheart hasn't written him a charming letter, commending his generosity, and he wonders why she is out, out, out, when he calls. If he's a genuine skinflint, however, the handsome present the girl sent him will prove a great comfort, even if he never hears from her again.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Please settle this argument. Which side of the pavement does the man take when accompanied by two women? I will watch for your answer in the paper.

A. M. V.

Convention says that a gentleman, whether walking with two ladies or one, takes the curb side of the pavement, and that he should never sandwich himself between the two.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My boy friend's birthday is coming, and Christmas will soon be here, and I'm wondering what I could give him on both these days. Last year I gave him a bill-fold and a scarf. He has stopped smoking, so that lets those things out. Please help me by printing a list.

OLIVE

I've had so many letter along this same line, that I'm going to give general suggestions, as a help to all girls. Nearly everyone goes motoring nowadays, so why not get him a thermos kit with space for lunch and hot coffee. They are useful when you want to go on a ride into the country, where lunch counters are scarce. A leather portfolio is good, also a brief case for his important papers; a reading lamp for his room. Books are always acceptable, but be sure to get something that he really likes. If he likes history, biography or travel, don't buy him fiction.

In cases where men smoke, these are acceptable gifts: smoking stand, tobacco container, etc., handkerchiefs, especially embroidered with monogram, also are desirable. If you know a boy very well, silk socks for evening or golf stockings for sport wear are good. If he plays golf, get him the much-wanted golf club he needs. A gift certificate, good for a certain amount in a certain store, is also good, if you happen to be the boy friends wife.

The Clerk and the Boss' Daughter

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

If a cat may look at a king, how about a humble clerk looking at his employer's daughter? I'm in love with the boss' daughter. It sounds like an old-time romance, but it isn't. BRENDA FRAZIER BASKS IN SOCIETY'S SPOTLIGHT

Although she will not make her formal debut until Dec. 27, Brenda Diana Duff Frazier, at 17, is breaking all records for the most publicized New York debutante in many a day, as she holds the spotlight in the metropolis' social whirl. Brenda, the daugher of estranged parents, has a handsome fortune of $8,000,000 in her own name.

Santa Claus Should Live In Child

If Tot Asks If He's Real, Answer, "No, But We Are Playing That He Is"

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Blessed is the little child whose parents have imagination. The normal child from two to five lives in the world of make-believe. He fills it full of fairies of his own creation. Hand in hand with them he walks, face to face with them he talks.

Encourage his creations. Listen to his yarns of fancy. Enjoy them and make him happy as he spins them without end.

There is a group of educators who hold that the young child should not have folk-lore nor fairy tales nor be exposed to the Santa Claus myth. They would stimulate his interest almost solely in the factual.

Opposed to It

With this point of view we are wholly out of sympathy. For the average child under four or five, Santa Claus is almost as real as his parents. In case the child of his age has been treated as the child he is, with an imagination, you just can't put away his Santa Claus. Before you have breathed out your destruction, Old St. Nick is there anew. Santa Claus can't be destroyed. He is immortal to the little child.

Sensible parents take Santa Claus for granted. The prejudices of some against Santa Claus has grown out of his abuse. As soon as your child bluntly asks you, "Is there a real Santa Claus?" by which he wants to know if he is a real person, answer him as you would answer all other questions—honestly. Say, "No, but we have just been playing there's a Santa Claus," and then go on playing so until the child ceases to enjoy it. The Myers' babies were so treated.

Answer Him Frankly

Don't you and I laugh and weep over the drama? We are not ashamed to live so in our fancies. How cold and hard this world would be if such privilege were denied us! What would Chritsmas be without Santa Claus?

To quote from one of my recent books: "The important thing about Santa Claus . . . is to answer the child's first challenge frankly and go on pretending there is a Santa Claus just as does the child. The only harm that may come from 'teaching' Santa Claus arises when we adults try to force him to accept the Good Old Saint as a real person at a time when his experiences cannot find a place for such a concept."

By writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it, you may receive free any or all the following lists: Good toys to buy children, Good books from which to read to baby and young child, Good books for school-age children, Good books for parents.

Study of language similarities has convinced scholars that the gypsies originally came from India.

Believe Farmhand Killed School Girl and Self

Janesville, Wis., Dec. 8 (AP)—Coroner E. J. Overton studied tonight for possible motives the fatal shooting of a bashful 15-year old high school girl and a 35-year old farmhand which he said all evidence indicated was a murder and suicide.

The bodies of Mary Cunningham and Curtis Hansen, missing since they left her home at Milton Junction Monday for a Christmas shopping trip to Janesville, were found in the front seat of an automobile in woods near here late today.

There was a single bullet wound in the forehead of each. At their left lay a sawed-off traget rifle, about 10 inches long, which had been fired twice.

The cornoner said apparently Hansen, who worked on the farm of the Cunningham family until it was sold three years ago, shot the girl before she knew what he planned, and then killed himself.

There was no indication of a struggle, and the coroner said he doubted whether he would call an inquest. He said the pair had been dead since Monday night.

Member of Parliament Loses Tooth in Fight

London, Dec. 8 (AP)—H. G. Williams, schoolmaster member of parliament, had a tooth knocked out tonight while ejecting an anti-Jewish heckler from a political meeting in suburban Fulham.

Williams referred to Britan's famed statesman Disraeli, whereupon a man in the audience shouted "he was a Jew."

"Yes, and he was a patriot," Williams retorted. He threatened to "chuck out any Fascist," and then tore off his coat and "chucked out" the heckler.

Then he glared at the audience. "Anybody else?" he asked.

There were no takers.

Household Hints

A small quantity of nutmeg is a pleasing addition occasionally to scalloped fish or oysters.

Whipped cream, butter and strained honey, beaten together, make a delicious spread for waffles.

Silverware kept in a glass jar with camphor gum will stay clean for a long time.

Cocoa may be substituted for chocolate in cake recipes if a small piece of butter is added to the cocoa.

Chewing gum may be removed from non-washable fabrics by alternate treatment with carbon tetrachloride and water, or by rubbing with ice.

Shredded green pepper and a cream dressing improve raw cabbage slaw.

Statistics Reveal Abuse of Parole System, Official Says

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—If you are a convicted murderer, the chance is you will serve not more than sixty-one months in prison; if sentenced to a life term, regardless of the crime, you can expect release after about ten years in prison.

These statistics, said Special Agent Walter V. McLaughlin of the Huntington office, Federal Bureau of Investigation, are based on data compiled by criminologists.

The remarks came in a discussion of prison parole problems in which the agent asserted that thirty per cent of the nation's 13,500 most desperate criminals have received paroles or other types of clemency.

"You might share with others," said McLaughlin, "the popular conception of prisons as inaccessible stone structures behind which criminals are safely incarcerated, but we of the army of law enforcers don't share that conception.

Only Swinging Doors

"We know that in many sections of the country abuses of the parole system have made those gates of iron and steel nothing more than 'swinging doors'."

The agent attributed this to the swiftness with which the public forgets the criminals and their crimes, and partly to corrupt officials who manipulate the parole system for political or other purposes.

"The average time served by those sentenced to life imprisonment for murder is ten years. The average sentence served by persons in the United States after conviction for Murder is 61 months."

"Every two and a half hours," he added, "one of those massive iron prison doors swings open and a murderer walks out to mingle with society again until he commits another crime or takes another life."

Against Sob Sister Stuff

McLaughlin asserted that J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, is "one of the foremost advocates of parole—a parole system that is adequate, free from political influence and maintains supervision over its wards. On the other hand he is definitely against inefficient, sob-sister parole boards which turn upon the public such individuals as Dillinger, Nelson, Karpis and others."

He added that FBI records disclosed that of 13,500 of the nation's "most desperate kidnapers, racketeers, hoodlums, extortionists and bank robbers, 30 per cent of these 'mad dogs' have received parole or other types of clemency, not only once, but six, seven, eight, nine and even ten times."

Census shows the proportion of rural to city population is decreasing all over the world.

Statistics Reveal Abuse of Parole System, Official Says

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—If you are a convicted murderer, the chance is you will serve not more than sixty-one months in prison; if sentenced to a life term, regardless of the crime, you can expect release after about ten years in prison.

These statistics, said Special Agent Walter V. McLaughlin of the Huntington office, Federal Bureau of Investigation, are based on data compiled by criminologists.

The remarks came in a discussion of prison parole problems in which the agent asserted that thirty per cent of the nation's 13,500 most desperate criminals have received paroles or other types of clemency.

"You might share with others," said McLaughlin, "the popular conception of prisons as inaccessible stone structures behind which criminals are safely incarcerated, but we of the army of law enforcers don't share that conception.

Only Swinging Doors

"We know that in many sections of the country abuses of the parole system have made those gates of iron and steel nothing more than 'swinging doors'."

The agent attributed this to the swiftness with which the public forgets the criminals and their crimes, and partly to corrupt officials who manipulate the parole system for political or other purposes.

"The average time served by those sentenced to life imprisonment for murder is ten years. The average sentence served by persons in the United States after conviction for Murder is 61 months."

"Every two and a half hours," he added, "one of those massive iron prison doors swings open and a murderer walks out to mingle with society again until he commits another crime or takes another life."

Against Sob Sister Stuff

McLaughlin asserted that J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, is "one of the foremost advocates of parole—a parole system that is adequate, free from political influence and maintains supervision over its wards. On the other hand he is definitely against inefficient, sob-sister parole boards which turn upon the public such individuals as Dillinger, Nelson, Karpis and others."

He added that FBI records disclosed that of 13,500 of the nation's "most desperate kidnapers, racketeers, hoodlums, extortionists and bank robbers, 30 per cent of these 'mad dogs' have received parole or other types of clemency, not only once, but six, seven, eight, nine and even ten times."

Census shows the proportion of rural to city population is decreasing all over the world.

Oakland To Be Decorated for Yuletide Season

Council, Power Company and Business Men Work in Co-operation

Oakland, Md., Dec. 8—Oakland, already beginning to assume a holiday atmosphere in many of the stores, will be decorated for the Christmas season, according to present plans of the city council and business men.

Members of the city council and the Western Maryland Power Company are taking charge of the street decorations to be made of laurel and strands of colored bulbs. At a meeting of the council it was decided to give an amount not exceeding $30 toward the exense of such decorations. The city will designate two workmen to be responsible for assisting the power company in erection of the decorations.

Business men will again erect and decorate their curb Christmas trees, and those in charge are asking that this be done as soon as possible. Most of the trees are being brought into Oakland this week for distribution.

There will also be a Community tree at the corner of Liberty and Second streets, on the Presbyterian church lawn, which will be decorated. Families and householders do not plan to decorate until about December 20.

According to present plans all decorations in the business section are to be in place either the latter part of this week or the first of next.

Beginning around December 15 a number of stores will remain open in the evening. Grocery and other stores not featuring Christmas goods especially will remain open in the evenings after December 20.

There are also tentative plans for a special service around the Community tree. The annual treat for children of the community will be given from beneath the tree on Friday afternoon, December 23, at 2 o'clock. Seven crates of oranges and 600 pounds of candy have been ordered by the Rotary club and each boy and girl 12 years old or under will be given an orange and a sack of candy.

The Rotary club will also discuss this week the possibility of a Christmas lighting contest.

All churches are planning special Christmas services in observance of the anniversary of the coming of Christ to the world, but their definite programs and dates have not yet been announctd.

Savage Home Burns

The home of Sherman G. Savage located between Sang Run and the Youghiogheny Power House on the Youghiogheny river, was burned early Tuesday morning, and Mr. and Mrs. Sacage, aged 75 and 68 respectatively, barely escaped.

The home belonged to their son Edward H. Savage and there was no insurance. Nothing was saved from the fire, not even clothing or personal belongings.

Mrs. Savage was awakened by the smell of smoke about 6 o'clock and discovered fire burning through the wall between the bathroom and bedroom. She awakened Mr. Savage who ran to an upper rear porch where he became trapped. Mrs. Savage made her escape down the stairway and ran for assistance. It was some time after her return with help that they found Mr. Savage had been trying to attract their attention. Neighbors secured a ladder and rescued him from his perilous position several minutes before the walls of the house collapsed.

Thomas Compton Dies

Thomas Little Compton, 51, was found dead in the bathroom at his home at Mt. Lake Park early this morning by his son, James Compton. He had not been bedfast but he had been in poor health for some time. Death was due to a heart attack.

The deceased was a son of John L. and Mary Little Compton and was born February 4, 1887, in Oakland. He was married to Miss Orpha Slabaugh twenty-six years ago.

Surviving are his widow and three children, James, Mary and John; also three sisters and five brothers, John Campton, Fairmont, W. Va.; Elwood Compton, in Ohio; Grover Compton, Baltimore; James and Joseph Compton, Oakland; Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, Salem, O.; Mrs. Mamie Cozad, Pittsburgh, and Miss Nell Compton, Oakland.

He was a member of the Presbyterian church and had been engaged in the plumbing business for a number of years.

Troop Captain Named

The troop committee of Oakland Girl Scout Troop No. 1 announced today that Miss Mary Virginia Cooper has been appointed captain and Miss Dorothea Fridlinger lieutenant for the troop. Both are instructors in Oakland High School and have had former scout training. The troop has been without a leader since the resignation of Mrs. Nelson Krause.

The troop committee also announced that Mrs. Willard Elliott had accepted the responsibility of organizing a Brownie group, composed of girls under scout age. The appointments are effective immediately.

Body of Reedyville Man Found in Field

Spencer, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—The body of Sam Westfall, 65, of Reedyville was discovered on the farm of his nephew, Elza Westfall, 10 miles from Spencer today. It was believed he had been dead since November 29, the last day he was seen by the nephew. Coroner F. K. Stewart attributed death to heart disease and said there would be no inquest.

Preece Is Acquitted On Self-Defense Plea

Wayne, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—A self-defense plea won acquittal today for 32-year-old Dennis Preece, tried on a charge of slaying John Hatten.

The jury deliberated an hour and a half before freeing the young Kenova business man.

Preece had testified he fired in self-defense after he found Hatten in the Preece apartment with Mrs. Preece as he returned from a business trip last spring.

Former Teachers Exchange Gifts

Follow Custom of Association Founded by Jane Lew Woman

Jane Lew, W. Va., Dec. 8. (AP)—It won't be long now before former West Virginia school teachers begin giving and receiving Christmas gifts.

It's one of the customs of the West Virginia Association of Former Teachers, believed by Founder Mrs. Lula Fultz of Jane Lew to be the only one of its kind in the world.

The thing began when Mrs. Fultz herself a former teacher, decided it would be nice to know what other former instructors were doing and to keep in touch with them.

That was in 1931.

Many Interested

She began to investigate and found housewives, doctors and many others interested in the project.

The rules hold that a person becomes eligible only after serving at least one year as a West Virginia teacher.

There are no dues and no assessments. Expenses are met through voluntary gifts, U. L. Jenkins, present president, said.

Monthly meetings are held at Jane Lew, the capital of the organization there are members, however, in Weston, Clarksburg and other cities through the central West Virginia area.

But the biggest social events of the year, said Jenkins, are the annual Thanksgiving Day dinner and the exchange of Christmas gifts.

But don't worry, the gifts aren't expensive. The cost is limited to 25 cents.

With reference to forming similar organizations, Jenkins said:

"Perhaps there never could be developed a statewide organization having a unity of purpose unless all conform to the constitution we have already adopted. Of course, provision is made for its amendment. The proper organization of former teachers might ultimately become a strong factor in our education system."

State Must Be Informed Of New Cases of Fever

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—It is mandatory in this state now that the state department of health be informed of new cases of typhus and undulant fever, pneumonia and diarrhea of the new-born.

Dr. A. M. Rice, director of the department's division of communicable diseases, said the requirement had been imposed by the public health council.

The four diseases were added to the list of communicable diseases which must be filed weekly with the state department.

Engagement rings were made of iron in early Roman days, the gold ring for the occasion being introduced in the second century.

To Stop Constipation Get at Its Cause!

If constipation's got you down so you feel heavy, tired and dopey—it's time you did something about it. And something more than taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat only the things most people do, the chances are that a very simple fact causes your constipation—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, eat crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Bran contains both "bulk" and the intestinal tonic, vitamin B_1. And it's not a drug, not a medicine!

Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

West Virginia Will Relieve Pen Crowding

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—A low bid of $52,340 for contract on the water and sewage system of the $590,000 medium prison farm project today was before the State Board of Control.

The bid was submitted by the Wheeling firm of Engstrom and Wynn, Inc., and covers installation of a filter plant, a 100,000-gallon steel tank, a sewage plant sludge bed and minor construction items.

Six other firms made higher offers:

State officials took a step to relieve penitentiary congestion today, Secretary Walter R. Thurmond of the Board said, by the removal of 15 prisoners to the project site near Huttonsville.

Other contingents of prisoners will be sent weekly to the farm until 80 or 90 men are on the ground by January to prepare for spring planting.

Below the equator, in the south temperate zone, the spring season starts Sept. 23, and summer Dec. 21.

Wood County Worker Is Acquitted at Elkins

Elkins, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—A verdict of acquittal was directed by Federal Judge W. E. Baker today for Alfred Holz, one of seven employes of a Parkersburg Brewing company who are charged with conspiracy to violate the Internal Revenue Act. The Judge refused a defense motion for acquittal of the other six defendants.

Shortest Line to Quit

Stockton, Calif. (AP)—The Amador Central railroad, 12 miles long and reputed to be the shortest broad-guage line in the world, has been granted permission to suspend service.

Gustavus Northcott Dies in Huntington

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—A long illness ended in death today for 77-year-old Gustavus A. Northcott, prominent merchant and business man and former president of the state senate.

He helped organize the Huntington Chamber of Commerce, formed several land and utilities companies, was president of two sand supply firms and was a director of the First-Huntington National bank.

Northcott, a native of Murfreesboro, Tenn., was the son of Brigadier General Robert S. Northcott, an organizer of the Clarksburg Telegram. He came here in 1884 and founded a tailoring firm.

He is survived by Mrs. Perry McFaddin and Mrs. Llewelyn Pitts of Beaumont, Tex., daughters, and Judge Elliot Northcott of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, a brother.

State Must Be Informed Of New Cases of Fever

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—It is mandatory in this state now that the state department of health be informed of new cases of typhus and undulant fever, pneumonia and diarrhea of the new-born.

Dr. A. M. Rice, director of the department's division of communicable diseases, said the requirement had been imposed by the public health council.

The four diseases were added to the list of communicable diseases which must be filed weekly with the state department.

Engagement rings were made of iron in early Roman days, the gold ring for the occasion being introduced in the second century.

West Virginia Will Relieve Pen Crowding

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—A low bid of $52,340 for contract on the water and sewage system of the $590,000 medium prison farm project today was before the State Board of Control.

The bid was submitted by the Wheeling firm of Engstrom and Wynn, Inc., and covers installation of a filter plant, a 100,000-gallon steel tank, a sewage plant sludge bed and minor construction items.

Six other firms made higher offers:

State officials took a step to relieve penitentiary congestion today, Secretary Walter R. Thurmond of the Board said, by the removal of 15 prisoners to the project site near Huttonsville.

Other contingents of prisoners will be sent weekly to the farm until 80 or 90 men are on the ground by January to prepare for spring planting.

Wood County Worker Is Acquitted at Elkins

Elkins, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—A verdict of acquittal was directed by Federal Judge W. E. Baker today for Alfred Holz, one of seven employes of a Parkersburg Brewing company who are charged with conspiracy to violate the Internal Revenue Act. The Judge refused a defense motion for acquittal of the other six defendants.

Shortest Line to Quit

Stockton, Calif. (AP)—The Amador Central railroad, 12 miles long and reputed to be the shortest broad-guage line in the world, has been granted permission to suspend service.

Gustavus Northcott Dies in Huntington

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—A long illness ended in death today for 77-year-old Gustavus A. Northcott, prominent merchant and business man and former president of the state senate.

He helped organize the Huntington Chamber of Commerce, formed several land and utilities companies, was president of two sand supply firms and was a director of the First-Huntington National bank.

Northcott, a native of Murfreesboro, Tenn., was the son of Brigadier General Robert S. Northcott, an organizer of the Clarksburg Telegram. He came here in 1884 and founded a tailoring firm.

He is survived by Mrs. Perry McFaddin and Mrs. Llewelyn Pitts of Beaumont, Tex., daughters, and Judge Elliot Northcott of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, a brother.

What do women like for Christmas?

In any department store you'll soon notice they are pressing several deep, around every beauty counter.

So you're always safe in putting beauty gifts on your Christmas list. For instance:

Perfume and eau de cologne—You may buy one or the other or give both—in matching scents. Or you might consider a large bottle of perfume with a matching purse-size container. When the small flask is emptied it can be replenished from the large one.

Cosmetic bags—The woman who travels—even if it's only an overnight trip—will relish one of these. There's a new type that's stainless and waterproof. If cosmetics or perfumes are spilled in it you simply wipe it clean with a damp cloth.

Manicure sets—They are available for men and women. Either should include a pair of good scissors and a sturdy file. Masculine sets contain a neutral paste polish instead of the liquid type and usually have a strong nail brush. Feminine ones go in for more accessories—polish remover, cuticle oils and one or more shades of liquid polish.

Beauty mirror—Either to hang in the boudoir or to go with the comb and brush set. There's a new double-duty crystal-handled mirror with one side that magnifies, another that doesn't.

Beauty shop gift coupons—You can arrange with a local beauty parlor to send the women in your life a coupon that's good for so many shampooes, finger waves, permanents or whatever else she likes.

Perfume—Large Or Purse Size.

Good Show Year Is Seen for 1939 By Bill Harvey

Train Boss Impatient at Huntington for Spring To Come

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—Bill Harvey, grizzled train boss of the Dodson World Fair Shows, looked out of the window of his private quarters on the show train at the dreary remants of a record early winter snow, nodded reflectively, and said with heart-felt emphasis.

"Boy, I sure wish it was spring."

So do about fifty other members of the show troupe, "holed in" for the winter in their wagons and trailers on an Ohio river lot. The show closed its season here early in October and nothing can be done now until the first warm days of spring set the camp stirring with activity for the season ahead.

Most of the six hundred employes went to their own homes, or are working elsewhere through the winter, Harvey said, but a few elected to stay with the wagons through the winter. There are several married couples living in trailers. The rest are single men, bedded down in equipment wagons.

No Pay Roll Now

"Nobody's on the payroll now," Bill said. "There's nothing to do but just sit and wait until time to get ready for the road again. And gosh, what weather this is."

Harrison W. Atkinson, a veteran employe, has set up a small work bench in his trailer and earns some extra money stamping names and numerals on metal social security and identification tags.

Ruth Yancey, 11-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Yancey, who operate a concession, has invented a new variation of the wheel of chance, which she plans to use next year. She lives on the lot with her parents.

Most of the single men pool their resources and cook their own meals on an open air grill when the weather is suitable.

Last Year Bad

"Last year was a bad one for show business," Bill Harvey said. "We quit a month early because of poor crowds and the old man (C. G. Dodson, owner of the show) didn't bother to move the train south for the winter.

"Next year looks like a good one, though, and we'll be on the road early. The boys'll start coming back in January and we'll have a lot of work to do repairing and cleaning up."

Bill has been traveling with shows for twenty-seven years and has been with the Dodsons for three. He likes it and so does his young wife, Mary, but this is the first time they've stayed in winter quarters up north. Usually, they go to Florida.

Bill is already figuring on the paint and lumber he'll need to recondition the show. In the meantime theres nothing to do but wait and cuss the weather.

WISE TO KNOW ABOUT COSMETICS YOU APPLY

By HELEN FOLLETT

IF YOU'RE past 30 you must be a time fighter. Don't let the old gent with the scythe and the long white whiskers worry you. Don't think about him. Just go ahead with your beauty tasks and all will be well.

Cosmetics, next to good health and hygienic habits, are your best props. They oil the skin, keep it clean and smooth. They offer substitutes for natural blushes and put the red-rose tint upon the lips.

But know what you are using, my children. Cosmetic chemists offer many products. Read the directions on the jars and bottles. Some complexions need lubricants, some need astringents, some are crying out for tonic lotions that stimulate the blood streams. It isn't sensible to make a chance selection. Have a talk with the girl at the cosmetic counter; you'll be surprised to find out how much she knows that you've never heard about.

Cold cream is for cleansing and healing a cutaneous surface that is sun or wind burned. Heavy creams are made for the purpose of massage; they give the fingers a firm hold on the flesh. Astringents are designed to correct oiliness, to contract enlarged pores and to make slack tissues firm again.

Fresh air, sunshine, cleanliness, nourishing food, long hours of sleep and the cultivation of a cheerful disposition—those are grade A beauty aids. If a woman has poise and a tranquil mind, she is not likely to put crinkles in her face. If she gets plenty of fresh air and exercise, blood streams will go at leaps and bounds, her cheeks will be pink and her eyes bright.

MARIE WILSON . . . selects her cosmetics with the greatest care.

No Pants and Aprons on Streamlined Trains

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—The beautifiers known as pants and aprons must not be used on streamlined trains because they raise too much dust, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers was told today.

Pants and aprons are the coverings over trucks, wheels and other underbody parts of a railroad train. The troubles they have caused were described by B. S. Cain, of the General Electric Co., Erie, Pa.

In a slight side wind, he said, a high speed train rolls up a "wedge" of air on its leeward side. This wedge travels alongside the train with hurricane force.

Mackay Leaves Large Fortune to Family

Mineola, N. Y., Dec. 8 (AP)—Clarence H. Mackay, who vowed he "could never forgive or forget" when his daughter Ellin married songwriter Irving Berlin in 1926, named her as an heiress in his will filed for probate here today.

After stipulating that his widow, the former Anna Case of the Metropolitan Opera, should receive $50,000 cash at his death and an additional $2,000,000, the communications magnate provided equal shares in the residue for Mrs. Berlin and her brother and sister.

The size of the estate was not disclosed.

Say, it—with a Clear Skin

OUR SKIN frequently reflects how we feel. In business and social contacts we like our friends to tell us how well we look.

The laity now recognizes—as physicians and scientists have for years—the vital importance of rich, red blood, as the foundation of strength, energy, and a clear healthy skin.

for that tired-let-down feeling

It is well known how worry, overwork and undue strain take their toll of the precious red cells of the blood.

S.S.S. Tonic brings you new strength and vitality by restoring your blood to a healthy state, and its benefits are cumulative and enduring in the absence of an organic trouble.

improves the appetite

Further, S.S.S. Tonic whets the appetite...foods taste better...natural digestive juices are stimulated, and finally, the food you eat is of more value... a very important step back to health.

Buy and use with complete confidence, and we believe you, like thousands of others, will be enthusiastic in your praise of S.S.S. Tonic for its part in making "you feel like yourself again."

At all drug stores in two sizes. You will find the larger size more economical.

S.S.S. Tonic stimulates the appetite and helps change weak blood cells to strong ones.

COUNT YOUR ENTRIES

PLAYING FAST is all right, so long as you are not playing carelessly. It takes only a moment to count the number of entries in the dummy and figure how many of them you require to bring in an establishable suit by one method or how many by an alternative method. Simple reckoning like that may show you the absolute necessity of overtaking a singleton honor of your own hand so as to get a second lead of the suit from dummy before disturbing the entries in other suits.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable)

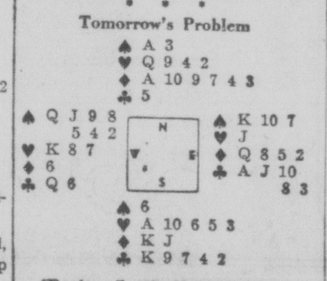

South bid 1-Spade on this deal, North 2-Clubs, South 2-No Trump and North 3-No Trump.

The heart Q was led by West and won by dummy's singleton. Next came the club 4 to the Q and a spade to the K. Declarer then laid down the club K with the hope that the A would win and that the J would drop from the other opponent's hand. However, as they were bunched in the East hand, the declarer was able to win only three spades, two hearts, two diamonds and one club because of his shortage of entries into dummy to establish the clubs.

If on the first club lead South had played the K the opponents could have taken two club tricks, but dummy would have had two entries when the clubs were set up.

Congressmen May Visit Remote Islands

Honolulu, T. H. (AP)—Samuel W. King, Hawaii's delegate to Congress, wants a party of congressmen to visit the five equatorial islands which the United States has recently settled because of their importance to transpacific air routes. He suggests the trip be made next summer.

The so-called "line islands" are Howland and Baker, just north of the equator, and Jarvis, Enderbury and Canton, just south. They are now occupied by Hawaiian youths who are making weather observations.

N. Y. TESTS PROVE WOMEN CAN LOSE UGLY FAT

Doctor Reduces 25 Women in Special Test. YOU Can Follow Same Plan At Home. Read EVERY Word.

New York, N. Y.: A test conducted by a prominent N. Y. doctor and nationally known newspaper woman proved there is a harmless, effective way to lose fat. If you'll only STICK TO IT and give it a fair trial.

In 40 days, 25 women lost a total of 286 lbs. EVERY woman lost fat—the average loss being 11½ lbs. The women first of all ate sensibly and to help insure proper functioning they took a little daily dose of Kruschen Salts. If you have any doubt about this Plan just ask your doctor about its safety and effectiveness. And this is important:

Kruschen is not just one salt as some people may ignorantly believe. Rather, it's a blend of 6 active mineral salts (see on box) which, when dissolved in water, make a healthful mineral drink similar to the waters of famous European Spas where wealthy women have gone for years.

Here's the Kruschen Plan: Just take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in hot water every morning for better functioning. Go light on fatty foods and sweets—eat plentifully of lean meats, fresh fruits and green vegetables. Plan to do this faithfully for 28 days. And just see if you don't lose fat and feel healthier and younger. A jar costs but a few cents and makes five gallons of a most highly efficient mineral health water. Note: you can get Kruschen at Cumberland Drug Company and druggists everywhere.

No Pants and Aprons on Streamlined Trains

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—The beautifiers known as pants and aprons must not be used on streamlined trains because they raise too much dust, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers was told today.

Pants and aprons are the coverings over trucks, wheels and other underbody parts of a railroad train. The troubles they have caused were described by B. S. Cain, of the General Electric Co., Erie, Pa.

In a slight side wind, he said, a high speed train rolls up a "wedge" of air on its leeward side. This wedge travels alongside the train with hurricane force.

Mackay Leaves Large Fortune to Family

Mineola, N. Y., Dec. 8 (AP)—Clarence H. Mackay, who vowed he "could never forgive or forget" when his daughter Ellin married songwriter Irving Berlin in 1926, named her as an heiress in his will filed for probate here today.

After stipulating that his widow, the former Anna Case of the Metropolitan Opera, should receive $50,000 cash at his death and an additional $2,000,000, the communications magnate provided equal shares in the residue for Mrs. Berlin and her brother and sister.

The size of the estate was not disclosed.

Say, it—with a Clear Skin

OUR SKIN frequently reflects how we feel. In business and social contacts we like our friends to tell us how well we look.

The laity now recognizes—as physicians and scientists have for years—the vital importance of rich, red blood, as the foundation of strength, energy, and a clear healthy skin.

for that tired-let-down feeling

It is well known how worry, overwork and undue strain take their toll of the precious red cells of the blood.

S.S.S. Tonic brings you new strength and vitality by restoring your blood to a healthy state, and its benefits are cumulative and enduring in the absence of an organic trouble.

improves the appetite

Further, S.S.S. Tonic whets the appetite... foods taste better... natural digestive juices are stimulated, and finally, the food you eat is of more value... a very important step back to health.

Buy and use with complete confidence, and we believe you, like thousands of others, will be enthusiastic in your praise of S.S.S. Tonic for its part in making "you feel like yourself again."

S.S.S. Tonic stimulates the appetite and helps change weak blood cells to strong ones.

N. Y. TESTS PROVE WOMEN CAN LOSE UGLY FAT

Doctor Reduces 25 Women in Special Test. YOU Can Follow Same Plan At Home. Read EVERY Word.

New York, N. Y.: A test conducted by a prominent N. Y. doctor and nationally known newspaper woman proved there is a harmless, effective way to lose fat, if you'll only STICK TO IT and give it a fair trial.

In 40 days, 25 women lost a total of 286 lbs. EVERY woman lost fat—the average loss being 11¼ lbs. The women first of all ate sensibly and to help insure proper functioning they took a little daily dose of Kruschen Salts. If you have any doubt about this Plan just ask your doctor about its safety and effectiveness. And this is important:

Kruschen is not just one salt as some people may ignorantly believe. Rather, it's a blend of 6 active mineral salts (see on box) which, when dissolved in water, make a healthful mineral drink similar to the waters of famous European Spas where wealthy women have gone for years.

Here's the Kruschen Plan: Just take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in hot water every morning for better functioning. Go light on fatty foods and sweets—eat plentifully of lean meats, fresh fruits and green vegetables. Plan to do this faithfully for 28 days. And just see if you don't lose fat and feel healthier and younger. A jar costs but a few cents and makes five gallons of a most highly efficient mineral health water. Note: you can get Kruschen at Cumberland Drug Company and druggists everywhere.

TVA Objects to SEC as Arbiter In Power Dispute

Willkie, Utility Leader, Calls Objections "Legalistic"

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—Wendell Willkie, utility leader, accused the Tennessee Valley Athority tonight of raising "legalistic" objections to his proposal for arbitration of a fierce power dispute.

Willkie had suggested that the Securities Commission be called in as arbiter to break a deadlock in negotiations between himself and TVA for sale of Tennessee Electric Power Company to TVA.

(Tennessee Electric Power is a subsidiary of Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, of which Willkie is president.)

A flat rejection of the arbitration offer was announced today by J. A. Krug, youthful power planning engineer of TVA, when he appeared before a congressional committee investigating the Authorities' affairs.

Krug characterized the proposal as "entirely unworkable," of "dubious legality" and "studded with jokers." Arbitration would lead to years of litigation, he said, and no decision could be reached "in time to meet the requirements of local public agencies."

Willkie said the objections were "without merit." He said government efforts to force utilitie to sell their properties below true value are preventing a utilities building boom "running into billions of dollars."

During the day, the congressional committee received evidence from Senator Bankhead (D-Ala) that Hugo Black, then senator but now supreme court justice, had once expressed the opinion that TVA directors were guilty of a "plan, palpable violation" of the TVA act.

Black, in a letter, had contended that the law required TVA to locate its headquarters in Alabama. Instead they were established at Knoxville, Tenn.

The committee also heard Krug testify that annual power revenues of $20,000,000 would be garnered from the ten dams of TVA, on the basis of existing rates. After subtracting direct and allocated power costs, he said, a $3,000,000 balance would be available toward offsetting navigation and flood control costs.

HELP
KIDNEY TUBES

To Flush out Acids and Other Poisonous Waste

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 Miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the beginning of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 Miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Ministers Start Fight Against Gambling Evil

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—Ministers of Huntington churches plan to deal a body blow against organized gambling in the city with the opening of a special campaign to educate their congregations against its evils.

The Huntington Ministerial Association, sponsoring the campaign, has set December 11 as the opening date.

Twenty-five clergymen have agreed to devote their sermons on that Sunday to a discussion of the cost and evils of commercial gambling.

Dr. B. P. Taylor, pastor of the Johnson Methodist Episcopal church, South, chairman of an investigating committee, declared the nation spends $6,000,000,000 annually in various forms of gambling, half of it on legal and illegal betting on horse racing.

Exports from the State of Georgia during the first eight months of 1938 amounted to $12,713,240, against imports of $6,999,361.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

Just a common cough, a chest cold, or a bronchial irritation of today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. They may be relieved now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medicinal combination designed to aid nature in soothing and healing infected mucous membranes by allaying irritation and inflammation and by aiding in loosening and expelling germ-laden phlegm.

The Medical Profession has for generations recognized the beneficial effect of Beechwood Creosote in the treatment of coughs, chest colds, and bronchial irritations. A special process was worked out by a chemist, for blending Creosote with other ingredients so that now in Creomulsion you get a good dose of genuine Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and may be taken frequently by both adults and children.

Creomulsion is one preparation that goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm. When coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles—due to common colds—hang on, get a bottle of Creomulsion from your druggist, use it as directed and if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained, the druggist is authorized to refund your money. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Top 4-H Stockman

Top eastern state honors in individual 4-H livestock achievements for the year go to Roland H. Mullinix, 19, of Woodbine. Approved as county winner by County Agent Warren S. Myers, he was entered in the annual nation-wide meat animal contest by Assistant State Club Leader Mylo S. Downey where his winning gave him an all-expense trip provided by Thomas E. Wilson, Chicago meat packer, to the recent National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

In his six years of club work the boy handled 265 market hogs, besides breeding swine and lambs. He received a silver medal in a judging contest at the Timonium fair and won $140.00 in prizes on his livestock exhibits at various shows. Total sale returns on his projects is given as $5,610.19. It was the first such winning for a Maryland clubster.

Building and Loan Tax Principle Is Upset by Court

Levy on Shares Must Now Be Paid by the Associations

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—Upsetting a tax principle first propounded in 1896, the supreme court ruled today that both state and federal building and loan associations are true corporations and their personal property is subject to taxation.

The decision, in which President Judge Haymond Maxwell dissolved two injunctions granted in Kanawha county restraining tax commissioner Ernest K. James and others from assessing the intangible and personal property of four associations. Judge Fred L. Fox did not participate in the decision.

The supreme court decision of forty-two years ago held that building and loan associations were not to be assessed with capital stock but the members were to be assessed by their shares.

Considered Only Persuasive

After citing numerous decisions of other states in which association personal property was held taxable, the opinion by Judge Jo N. Kenna said the court did not consider the old decision as more than "persuasive."

Therefore, the concurring judges "consider ourselves free to adopt the line of reasoning that we think more applicable to present day conditions."

Judge Maxwell in his dissent contended that funds held by a building and loan association are not capital "and they are purely savings which constitute an accumulated fund for the benefit of the members." The capital funds of other corporations are corporately owned, he added.

Holds Old Ruling Sound

The judge added that the 1896 decision "sound in principle, as I see it, and supplemented by forty years of administrative acquiescence and effectuation, should not, in my opinion, be supplanted by a different theory obtaining in some of the other states."

Winding up its fall term, the court in another decision reversed a Cable county judment and awarded a new trial to Mrs. G. A. Rogers involving a $4,000 note. R. V. Baker, administrator of the estate of C. A. Johnson, sued for possession of the note, executed by Mrs. Rogers in 1924.

Relief Spending Hampers Business In West Virginia

Coal Association Asserts More Is Spent for Aid Than for Schools

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—After making an estimate that total relief costs in West Virginia this year would exceed school costs, the West Virginia Coal Association asserted in a bulletin today that "relief expenditures and other heavy federal spending have retarded business recovery."

Federal and State relief expenditures, the Bulletin issued from the office of Secretary J. V. Sullivan said, "are estimated to be greater than the sum of public revenue required to maintain the State's public school system."

The Bulletin stated that "while wages increased from 1929 to 1938 more than $12,000,000 (a year), relief payments jumped from $1,300,000 under the local county plan of relief in 1932, to nearly $30,000,000 under the present federal-state plan."

Basing estimates of expenditures made during the first six months of this year, the Assocjation said grants from the State Department of Public Assistance and WPA labor costs will aggregate $28,622,488 for the calendar year, whereas the cost of the public school system "approximates $25,000,000 annually."

More Workers Are Employed

"The tendency to make permanent Federal relief is plainly revealed in West Virginia," the Bulletin said, "where recovery from the general business and industrial depression that began in 1929 is complete when current payrolls are compared with the payrolls of pre-depression years. More workers are now employed in West Virginia industries than were employed in 1929, and payrolls were larger in 1938 than they were in 1929. Business and industry has made the contribution demanded to promote full recovery."

The Bulletin also said:

"Relief expenditures and other heavy Federal spending have retarded business recovery. When business and industry is harassed by palpably unfair and ambiguous laws, such as the Wagner Labor Relations Act and the Federal Wages and Hours Law, and Social Security taxes imposed on payrolls, and then taxed for relief purposes, the earnings of industry are diverted from employment-giving plant expansion to doubtful public purpose.

"Normal business is thus abnormally handicapped."

Farming Counties Get Most

Relief payments are heaviest in the agricultural counties, the association declared in saying that "the relief appropriated to cure industrial employment has been diverted largely to the aid of agricultural counties." It added:

"McDowell county, largest coal producing county in West Virginia and in the United States, dependent almost wholly on the production of coal, is receiving relief in 1938 estimated to amount to $5.00 per capita, while Monroe county, without industrial enterprise and devoted wholly to farming, is receiving relief amounting to $54 for every man, woman and child in that county.

"Hancock county, the smallest in the state, but one of the great manufacturing centers of the nation, receives relief of $6 per capita. Randolph county, largest in land area in the state, with some coal mining but largely rural in character, exacts a relief toll of $37 per inhabitant, adult and child.

"Per capita relief distribution in West Virginia, with an official population of 1,729,205, as nearly as can be forecast, will in 1938 amount to $16.50."

Merry Christmas Not So Merry for Robber of Blind News Man

Wheeling, W. Va., Dec. 8—A man who called "merry Christmas" to a blind news stand operator and was caught soon afterward with part of a tiny Christmas charity fund, was in jail tonight serving a term for robbery.

C. C. Cerone heard the merry cry and soon afterward discovered a jar for receiving charity contributions was missing from the counter in the city-county building. He recognized the voice as belonging to a man formerly employed in the building.

Police arrested the man, who had just been released today from a term for robbery, and said they found fifty-four of the 91 cents in the jar on him. A short time later he received another sentence.

Work Starts on New Power Line In Parsons Area

West Penn is Building High Tension Line from Montrose

Parsons, W. Va., Dec. 8—Parsons and surrounding communities will soon be placed on the West Penn Service high tension electric line, it was announced here today. A preliminary survey was completed two weeks ago, and construction of the Monongahela's system new high power tension line from Montrose to Parsons, which will add this city to the company's inter-connected electric system, has been started. It is expected that the project will be completed within the next few weeks.

The entire project involves the construction of 11.3 miles of new 12,000 volt line between Montrose and this city and erection of a new substation here to "step down" the 12,000 volt current to 2,300 volts for use in the city's distribution lines.

Along the new line's route, rural service will be made available to about 40 new customers, including a number at the towns of Porterwood and Moore.

The Monongahela System has held the Parsons electric franchise since December 31, 1924, buying its power wholesale from the Armour tannery and retailing it to hundreds of customers.

School Site Changed

The site of the new $81,000 high school building here was changed by the board of education last night from the pulp mill grounds to the Miller athletic field. The court room was packed to capacity as a huge crowd gathered to await final decision in the matter. When the board members announced a few days ago they had selected the pulp mill grounds as the site, a storm of protest arose from citizens, who declared the grounds were too swampy and that the children's lives would be endangered by having to cross the railroad tracks. Talks were made last night by Hugh Pritt, James E. Little, Ed Long and Junior Wolfe. The board members voted four to one to change the site after reconsidering the matter. Smith Hockman would not change his vote from the pulp mill field. The others who voted to change the site were P. L. Marsh, John Auvil, Mrs. Virginia Currey and John Yeager. The decision was made after Mr. Miller made a special offer to the members on the board of education that his field could be secured at a very low cost. Final plans and blueprints are now being made and it is hoped to get the construction work started by the latter part of this month.

Want Food for Game

Ranger Ralph L. Rowland, in charge of the Cheat district of the Monongahela National forest, stated at his office today that wildlife has recently supplied excellent sport for bear, deer and bird hunters. "Now the season for rest and increase is at hand", the ranger said. "Severe winter weather will make this difficult and may result in lowering the population of wild game. This in turn will mean poorer shooting next season." Ranger Rowland asks that all persons interested in making better conditions in the forests, to contact him at once. He added, "The U. S. Forest Service can supply men for feeding and transportation for hauling food." Citizens and especially farmers, are asked to help supply the necessary food.

Hebb Funeral Held

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2:30 at the Fairview church, near St. George, for Willard Jean Hebb, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira T. Hebb, of near St. George, who died after a brief illness. Burial was made in the Fairview cemetery.

Truant Has a Good Reason for Staying Out of School

Oakland, Md., Dec. 7—Nicholas Long, 12, of Bradford, Sixth grade pupil in the Oakland Elementary school, didn't attend classes yesterday and truant offfficer made no attempt to see that he did. He loafed around the school building and the principal didn't beckon him to come in. He just watched a man working nearby.

A solicitous neighbor inquired: "Sonny, don't you go to school?" "Yes ma'am," he replied somewhat shyly. "Where do you go?" In answer to this question he merely pointed to the nearby school. "Well, why aren't you in there now?" the woman asked.

"I skun me a polecat," he grinned.

Picture Project To Start Monday At Lonaconing

Labor Will Be Furnished by N.Y.A.; Schools To Give Pictures

Lonaconing, Dec. 8—Activities at the Lonaconing Community library, it was announced today, will include several displays and the starting of a new project this month.

Monday, December 12, a new picture mounting project will begin. The project will include the mounting of all pictures which are in bad condition in the schools of this county. The labor for this work will be furnished by the N. Y. A., while the pictures and material by the various schools. Miss Lillian Compton, Assistant Superintendent of Schools of Allegany County is overseeing the work in behalf of the schools, while Miss Helen Sandforst, art instructress at the Fort Hill High School, of Cumberland, will do the instruction work. Several new girls will be hired at the library and will be under the supervision of Miss Mary Ayers, librarian.

During the two weeks, of December 19 to January 1, 1939, the small children who have been attending the weekly Story hour at the library each Saturday morning, are presenting an exhibit of dolls dressed to represent the different characters from the different countries they have read about in the class. Saturday, December 24, the children will tell the story of their dolls. Also on display at this time will be various scrap books and several original story books which have been made by the workers at the library.

Other activities will include an educational program for the assistant workers. A list of books has been prepared by Mrs. Carl Perry, supervisor of the W. P. A. and Miss Mary Walsh, librarian of Cumberland, which the workers must read and report upon. This course in reading can be taken by anyone interested in library work. Information can be obtained at the library.

It has also been announcel that Lillian Kiddy, of Pekin, a graduate of Central High School, was appointed the new librarian at the Barton High School Library, on December 1, and will receive training at the local library in this work, and at the Jackson Street School in book mending work.

Saturday, December 24, parents may leave their children at the library while they shop, it was announced.

Program Presented

At the regular weekly assembly period of Barton High School, yesterday, the students of the eighth grade were in charge of the program.

The program consisted of singing of Christmas Carols; reading, "Our Christmas Carols," Reta Lambertson; vocal solo, "Don't Wait Until the Night Before Christmas," and "Walking In the Winter Wonderland," Jean Boal; skit stressing good English, "How He Got The Job," characters, Evelyn Hyde, announcer; Dewey Beeman, the employer; James Kirkpatrick, secretary; Junior Wilson, James Kiddy, James Warnick, Cecil Kyle and Junior Griffith, applicants; James McCutcheon, office boy.

Former Resident Hurt

While driving on the outskirts of Baltimore last week, James B. McAlpine, an employe of the State Roads Commission, was seriously injured when his car was sideswiped by a large truck. Mr. McAlpine suffered a deep laceration of the hand which required eight stitches to close. Physicians at the Maryland General Hospital said his left hand and wrist were severely cut in the collision and the fact that he was wearing an extra heavy driving glove probably saved amputation of the hand.

Mr. McAlpine remained in the hospital for several days under observation and has now returned to temporary duty in the Roads Commission offices, until he is able to perform his usual traveling duties. His car was demolished.

Top 4-H Stockman

Top eastern state honors in individual 4-H livestock achievements for the year go to Roland H. Mullinix, 19, of Woodbine. Approved as county winner by County Agent Warren S. Myers, he was entered in the annual nation-wide meat animal contest by Assistant State Club Leader Mylo S. Downey where his winning gave him an all-expense trip provided by Thomas E. Wilson, Chicago meat packer, to the recent National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

In his six years of club work the boy handled 265 market hogs, besides breeding swine and lambs. He received a silver medal in a judging contest at the Timonium fair and won $140.00 in prizes on his livestock exhibits at various shows. Total sale returns on his projects is given as $5,610.19. It was the first such winning for a Maryland clubster.

Building and Loan Tax Principle Is Upset by Court

Levy on Shares Must Now Be Paid by the Associations

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—Upsetting a tax principle first propounded in 1896, the supreme court ruled today that both state and federal building and loan associations are true corporations and their personal property is subject to taxation.

The decision, in which President Judge Haymond Maxwell dissolved two injunctions granted in Kanawha county restraining tax commissioner Ernest K. James and others from assessing the intangible and personal property of four associations. Judge Fred L. Fox did not participate in the decision.

The supreme court decision of forty-two years ago held that building and loan associations were not to be assessed with capital stock but the members were to be assessed by their shares.

Considered Only Persuasive

After citing numerous decisions of other states in which association personal property was held taxable, the opinion by Judge Jo N. Kenna said the court did not consider the old decision as more than "persuasive."

Therefore, the concurring judges "consider ourselves free to adopt the line of reasoning that we think more applicable to present day conditions."

Judge Maxwell in his dissent contended that funds held by a building and loan association are not capital "and they are purely savings which constitute an accumulated fund for the benefit of the members." The capital funds of other corporations are corporately owned, he added.

Holds Old Ruling Sound

The judge added that the 1896 decision "sound in principle, as I see it, and supplemented by forty years of administrative acquiescence and effectuation, should not, in my opinion, be supplanted by a different theory obtaining in some of the other states."

Winding up its fall term, the court in another decision reversed a Cable county judment and awarded a new trial to Mrs. G. A. Rogers involving a $4,000 note. R. V. Baker, administrator of the estate of C. A. Johnson, sued for possession of the note, executed by Mrs. Rogers in 1924.

Relief Spending Hampers Business In West Virginia

Coal Association Asserts More Is Spent for Aid Than for Schools

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—After making an estimate that total relief costs in West Virginia this year would exceed school costs, the West Virginia Coal Association asserted in a bulletin today that "relief expenditures and other heavy federal spending have retarded business recovery."

Federal and State relief expenditures, the Bulletin issued from the office of Secretary J. V. Sullivan said, "are estimated to be greater than the sum of public revenue required to maintain the State's public school system."

The Bulletin stated that "while wages increased from 1929 to 1938 more than $12,000,000 (a year), relief payments jumped from $1,300,000 under the local county plan of relief in 1932, to nearly $30,000,000 under the present federal-state plan."

Basing estimates of expenditures made during the first six months of this year, the Assocjation said grants from the State Department of Public Assistance and WPA labor costs will aggregate $28,622,488 for the calendar year, whereas the cost of the public school system "approximates $25,000,000 annually."

More Workers Are Employed

"The tendency to make permanent Federal relief is plainly revealed in West Virginia," the Bulletin said, "where recovery from the general business and industrial depression that began in 1929 is complete when current payrolls are compared with the payrolls of pre-depression years. More workers are now employed in West Virginia industries than were employed in 1929, and payrolls were larger in 1938 than they were in 1929. Business and industry has made the contribution demanded to promote full recovery."

The Bulletin also said:

"Relief expenditures and other heavy Federal spending have retarded business recovery. When business and industry is harassed by palpably unfair and ambiguous laws, such as the Wagner Labor Relations Act and the Federal Wages and Hours Law, and Social Security taxes imposed on payrolls, and then taxed for relief purposes, the earnings of industry are diverted from employment-giving plant expansion to doubtful public purpose.

"Normal business is thus abnormally handicapped."

Farming Counties Get Most

Relief payments are heaviest in the agricultural counties, the association declared in saying that "the relief appropriated to cure industrial employment has been diverted largely to the aid of agricultural counties." It added:

"McDowell county, largest coal producing county in West Virginia and in the United States, dependent almost wholly on the production of coal, is receiving relief in 1938 estimated to amount to $5.00 per capita, while Monroe county, without industrial enterprise and devoted wholly to farming, is receiving relief amounting to $54 for every man, woman and child in that county.

"Hancock county, the smallest in the state, but one of the great manufacturing centers of the nation, receives relief of $6 per capita. Randolph county, largest in land area in the state, with some coal mining but largely rural in character, exacts a relief toll of $37 per inhabitant, adult and child.

"Per capita relief distribution in West Virginia, with an official population of 1,729,205, as nearly as can be forecast, will in 1938 amount to $16.50."

Merry Christmas Not So Merry for Robber of Blind News Man

Wheeling, W. Va., Dec. 8—A man who called "merry Christmas" to a blind news stand operator and was caught soon afterward with part of a tiny Christmas charity fund, was in jail tonight serving a term for robbery.

C. C. Cerone heard the merry cry and soon afterward discovered a jar for receiving charity contributions was missing from the counter in the city-county building. He recognized the voice as belonging to a man formerly employed in the building.

Police arrested the man, who had just been released today from a term for robbery, and said they found fifty-four of the 91 cents in the jar on him. A short time later he received another sentence.

Work Starts on New Power Line In Parsons Area

West Penn is Building High Tension Line from Montrose

Parsons, W. Va., Dec. 8—Parsons and surrounding communities will soon be placed on the West Penn Service high tension electric line, it was announced here today. A preliminary survey was completed two weeks ago, and construction of the Monongahela's system new high power tension line from Montrose to Parsons, which will add this city to the company's inter-connected electric system, has been started. It is expected that the project will be completed within the next few weeks.

The entire project involves the construction of 11.3 miles of new 12,000 volt line between Montrose and this city and erection of a new substation here to "step down" the 12,000 volt current to 2,300 volts for use in the city's distribution lines.

Along the new line's route, rural service will be made available to about 40 new customers, including a number at the towns of Porterwood and Moore.

The Monongahela System has held the Parsons electric franchise since December 31, 1924, buying its power wholesale from the Armour tannery and retailing it to hundreds of customers.

School Site Changed

The site of the new $81,000 high school building here was changed by the board of education last night from the pulp mill grounds to the Miller athletic field. The court room was packed to capacity as a huge crowd gathered to await final decision in the matter. When the board members announced a few days ago they had selected the pulp mill grounds as the site, a storm of protest arose from citizens, who declared the grounds were too swampy and that the children's lives would be endangered by having to cross the railroad tracks. Talks were made last night by Hugh Pritt, James E. Little, Ed Long and Junior Wolfe. The board members voted four to one to change the site after reconsidering the matter. Smith Hockman would not change his vote from the pulp mill field. The others who voted to change the site were P. L. Marsh, John Auvil, Mrs. Virginia Currey and John Yeager. The decision was made after Mr. Miller made a special offer to the members on the board of education that his field could be secured at a very low cost. Final plans and blueprints are now being made and it is hoped to get the construction work started by the latter part of this month.

Want Food for Game

Ranger Ralph L. Rowland, in charge of the Cheat district of the Monongahela National forest, stated at his office today that wildlife has recently supplied excellent sport for bear, deer and bird hunters. "Now the season for rest and increase is at hand", the ranger said. "Severe winter weather will make this difficult and may result in lowering the population of wild game. This in turn will mean poorer shooting next season." Ranger Rowland asks that all persons interested in making better conditions in the forests, to contact him at once. He added, "The U. S. Forest Service can supply men for feeding and transportation for hauling food." Citizens and especially farmers, are asked to help supply the necessary food.

Hebb Funeral Held

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2:30 at the Fairview church, near St. George, for Willard Jean Hebb, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira T. Hebb, of near St. George, who died after a brief illness. Burial was made in the Fairview cemetery.

Truant Has a Good Reason for Staying Out of School

Oakland, Md., Dec. 7—Nicholas Long, 12, of Bradford, Sixth grade pupil in the Oakland Elementary school, didn't attend classes yesterday and truant offficer made no attempt to see that he did. He loafed around the school building and the principal didn't beckon him to come in. He just watched a man working nearby.

A solicitous neighbor inquired: "Sonny, don't you go to school?" "Yes ma'am," he replied somewhat shyly. "Where do you go?" In answer to this question he merely pointed to the nearby school. "Well, why aren't you in there now?" the woman asked.

"I skun me a polecat," he grinned.

Picture Project To Start Monday At Lonaconing

Labor Will Be Furnished by N.Y.A.; Schools To Give Pictures

Lonaconing, Dec. 8—Activities at the Lonaconing Community library, it was announced today, will include several displays and the starting of a new project this month.

Monday, December 12, a new picture mounting project will begin. The project will include the mounting of all pictures which are in bad condition in the schools of this county. The labor for this work will be furnished by the N. Y. A., while the pictures and material by the various schools. Miss Lillian Compton, Assistant Superintendent of Schools of Allegany County is overseeing the work in behalf of the schools, while Miss Helen Sandforst, art instructress at the Fort Hill High School, of Cumberland, will do the instruction work. Several new girls will be hired at the library and will be under the supervision of Miss Mary Ayers, librarian.

During the two weeks, of December 19 to January 1, 1939, the small children who have been attending the weekly Story hour at the library each Saturday morning, are presenting an exhibit of dolls dressed to represent the different characters from the different countries they have read about in the class. Saturday, December 24, the children will tell the story of their dolls. Also on display at this time will be various scrap books and several original story books which have been made by the workers at the library.

Other activities will include an educational program for the assistant workers. A list of books has been prepared by Mrs. Carl Perry, supervisor of the W. P. A. and Miss Mary Walsh, librarian of Cumberland, which the workers must read and report upon. This course in reading can be taken by anyone interested in library work. Information can be obtained at the library.

It has also been announcel that Lillian Kiddy, of Pekin, a graduate of Central High School, was appointed the new librarian at the Barton High School Library, on December 1, and will receive training at the local library in this work, and at the Jackson Street School in book mending work.

Saturday, December 24, parents may leave their children at the library while they shop, it was announced.

Program Presented

At the regular weekly assembly period of Barton High School, yesterday, the students of the eighth grade were in charge of the program.

The program consisted of singing of Christmas Carols; reading, "Our Christmas Carols," Reta Lambertson; vocal solo, "Don't Wait Until the Night Before Christmas," and "Walking In the Winter Wonderland," Jean Boal; skit stressing good English, "How He Got The Job," characters, Evelyn Hyde, announcer; Dewey Beeman, the employer; James Kirkpatrick, secretary; Junior Wilson, James Kiddy, James Warnick, Cecil Kyle and Junior Griffith, applicants; James McCutcheon, office boy.

Former Resident Hurt

While driving on the outskirts of Baltimore last week, James B. McAlpine, an employe of the State Roads Commission, was seriously injured when his car was sideswiped by a large truck. Mr. McAlpine suffered a deep laceration of the hand which required eight stitches to close. Physicians at the Maryland General Hospital said his left hand and wrist were severely cut in the collision and the fact that he was wearing an extra heavy driving glove probably saved amputation of the hand.

Mr. McAlpine remained in the hospital for several days under observation and has now returned to temporary duty in the Roads Commission offices, until he is able to perform his usual traveling duties. His car was demolished.

Barton High Leads

For the second consecutive month during the 1938-39 school year Barton High School has led the county in attendance. The average this month waes 97.6%, which is the lowest average they have had in the past two years. William P. Cooper, teacher in charge of attendance, said this was due to an epidemic of chickenpox in the community.

Within the school, the Senior Class lead the other classes with an average of 99.7%.

Mild Selling Hits Stock Market and Leading Issues Sell Slightly Lower

Tax Adjustments and Foreign Situation Given As Reason

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—Mild selling troubles beset the stock market today and leading issues retreated fractions to a point or more.

Brokers blamed the set - back partly on additional year-end tax adjustments and a revival of apprehension regarding widening of the breach between Italy and France over the former's unofficial clamor for French-owned territory.

Transfers amounted to only 739,150 shares compared with 1,104,880 yesterday.

The Associated Press average for 60 issues was off .5 of a point at 80.2.

Among principal losers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Anaconda, Kennecott, J. I. Case, Sperry, Texas Corp. and American Can.

U. S. Smelting dropped 5 points at 60¼ on a restricted turnover following word of strikes at the company's Mexican plants. Universal Pictures preferred jumped about 10 points at one time on gossip of a nearby dividend, the first in several years. Glenn Martin, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison and Johns-Manville were slightly ahead of the finish.

Sliding fractions to 2 or more in the Curb were United Gas, Electri Bond & Share, Lockhead and American Gas & Electric. Root Petroleum was up 2½. Turnover of 226,000 shares compared with 252,000 Wednesday.

Chicago Grain Prices

Chicago, Dec. 8 (AP)—Italian troop concentrations menacing French frontiers, together with an 8,000,000 bushel Italian purchase of Rumanian wheat, led to fractional upturns of Chicago wheat prices today.

Corn displayed independent strength, and rose nearly a cent a bushel, with liberal export business a factor.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were ⅛-½ cent higher compared with yesterday's finish, Dec. 64½-⅝, May 67¼-⅜, corn ⅜-¾ up, Dec. 49¾-⅞, May 52⅜-½, oats unchanged to ¼ cent advance, rye showing ⅛-⅜ bulge, and provisions varying from 2 cents setback to an equal gain.

Oats and rye sympathized with upturns of corn and rye markets.

Midnight Show Sunday At The Strand Theatre

The new 1938-1939 edition of Karston's Follies Unusual stage show will appear at the Strand, Sunday midnight, Monday and Tuesday. It is one of the largest roadshows on tour today, chuck full of unusual talent, beautiful girls, and utilizing a carload of special stage effects. Having created a sensation in the east, it is now on its way to the West Coast, prior to a trip to Australia and around the world.

The guiding genius of this sensational show is the well-known showman, and illusionist, Karston, and the entire show is built around the most amazing illusions the world has ever known. In fact, every scene is a breath taking illusionistic noxelty. For instance, in the Beauties of Pumpkin Land scene, a young lady is seen to become smaller and smaller until she is so small that she can completely hide in a tiny pumpkin. In another scene, the Dream of a Chinese Emperor, a young lady is placed into a torture chamber, after which her head and legs are cut off in full view of the audience, yet she lives. In the $10,000 Toy Soldier Spectacle, life sized mechanical soldiers, while dancing, vanish, change places and go thru the most amazing transformations. Never before has any production been built around so many unusual novelties.

The dancing girls, known as the Karstonettes, are graduate students of the famous dancing master, Kosloff. The featured acts are of the finest calibre, making up a real roadshow reminiscent of the good old times or the theatres. Make plans to attend early in order to obtain good seats, as an unusual amount of interest has already been shown in this production. It is truly a fine show that will furnish a never-to-be-forgotten night of unusual entertainment.

Ninety per cent of the show is of the type impossible to depict on the screen, or broadcast over the radio. It will prove real entertainment.

Hope, Ross Sing Again In Gay Hit

They touched your heartstrings when they sang "Thanks For The Memory," in "Big Broadcast of '38!" After they had sung it, the country took up the words and sang it too . . . "Thanks For the Memory . . . of motor trips, and burning lips and burning toast and prunes . . . How lovely it was." "They" refers to Bob Hope and Shirley Ross, whose rendition of that song inspired the new romantic comedy, "Thanks For The Memory," which shows today, tomorrow and Sunday at the Strand Theatre.

In this new comedy, Bob and Shirley are seen as newlyweds, struggling to make their way in the world despite their friends, who think that every night is party night at the home of the newly married couple. As the story unfolds, their friends make it difficult indeed for Bob to settle down and write the Great American novel in addition to his daily work as a salesman.

Before Bob and Shirley contrive to straighten out their affairs, there are hilarious and sentimental situations galore, and Bob and Shirley sing a new song, "Two Sleepy People." Written by the ace composing team of Hoagy Carmichael and Frank Loesser, who did the tunes for "Sing You Sinners," the number is designed to dovetail into the plot.

Also featured in the case are Charles Butterworth, Otto Kruger, Hedda Hopper and Roscoe Karns. George Archainbaud directed.

Dick Foran Heads Big Cast in "Heart of The North"

An inspired piece of casting placed Dick Foran, big, red-headed outdoor actor at the head of the cast of the Technicolor special "Heart of the North," which comes to the Liberty Theatre tomorrow. Of all the screen's current heroes, Foran seems to be the one best suited to playing a Royal Canadian "mountie" in this thrilling epic of the Great Northweest. His fellow "mounties" include Allen Jenkins, Patric Knowles, James Stephenson, and many others, while the villain roles are capably filled by Joseph King, Anthony Averill and Joe Sawyer. Feminine interest is plentifully supplied by Gloria Dickson, Gale Page and six-year-old Janet Chapman.

While the picture is set in the Canadian Northwest, it is definitely not a "Western" picture. For this Foran is profoundly grateful. Not that he objects to "Westerns"—they're his favorite film fare—but

HOUSEHOLD SITUATION

NEW SERIAL OPENS TODAY AT EMBASSY

Elephant power! Anna May, giant elephant of the movies, pushes a "jungle cruiser" in Universal's jungle serial, "Tim Tyler's Luck" opening today at the Embassy Theatre and continuing thru the next twelve weeks.

"The Citadel" Stars Robert Donat, Rosalind Russell

"The Citadel," based on the novel by Dr. A. J. Cronin, has been brought to the screen in a notable picture which opened yesterday at the Maryland Theatre and plays through Sunday.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer produced this film at its British studio in Denham, England, with Robert Donat and Rosalind Russell in the leading roles. A cast of more than one hundred players appears in support, principal among them the well-known English players Ralph Richardson, Rex Harrison, Emlyn Williams and Penlope Dudley-Ward.

The dramatic story of a young and obscure physician in the Welsh collieries is revealed on the screen with all the emotional power of Cronin's outstanding novel. A whole village was reconstructed for one sequence and the depths of a coal mine are shown in another. When the mine collapses, Donat descends into the pit in one of the most thrilling scenes filmed.

The surgeon's fight to retain his ethical code, his love for the schoolmistress and their marriage, followed by their struggles together in adversity and wealth, combine to form a work rich in emotional power and dramatic intensity. King Vidor's direction comes close to perfection.

Mild Selling Hits Stock Market and Leading Issues Sell Slightly Lower

Tax Adjustments and Foreign Situation Given As Reason

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—Mild selling troubles beset the stock market today and leading issues retreated fractions to a point or more.

Brokers blamed the set - back partly on additional year-end tax adjustments and a revival of apprehension regarding widening of the breach between Italy and France over the former's unofficial clamor for French-owned territory.

Transfers amounted to only 739,150 shares compared with 1,104,880 yesterday.

The Associated Press average for 60 issues was off .5 of a point at 80.2.

Among principal losers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Anaconda, Kennecott, J. I. Case, Sperry, Texas Corp. and American Can.

U. S. Smelting dropped 5 points at 60¼ on a restricted turnover following word of strikes at the company's Mexican plants. Universal Pictures preferred jumped about 10 points at one time on gossip of a nearby dividend, the first in several years. Glenn Martin, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison and Johns-Manville were slightly ahead of the finish.

Sliding fractions to 2 or more in the Curb were United Gas, Electri Bond & Share, Lockhead and American Gas & Electric. Root Petroleum was up 2½. Turnover of 226,000 shares compared with 252,000 Wednesday.

Chicago Grain Prices

Chicago, Dec. 8 (AP)—Italian troop concentrations menacing French frontiers, together with an 8,000,000 bushel Italian purchase of Rumanian wheat, led to fractional upturns of Chicago wheat prices today.

Corn displayed independent strength, and rose nearly a cent a bushel, with liberal export business a factor.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were ⅛-½ cent higher compared with yesterday's finish, Dec. 64½-⅝, May 67¼-⅜, corn ⅜-⅞ up, Dec. 49¾-⅞, May 52⅜-½, oats unchanged to ¼ cent advance, rye showing ¾-⅞ bulge, and provisions varying from 2 cents setback to an equal gain.

Oats and rye sympathized with upturns of corn and rye markets.

Midnight Show Sunday At The Strand Theatre

The new 1938-1939 edition of Karston's Follies Unusual stage show will appear at the Strand, Sunday midnight, Monday and Tuesday. It is one of the largest roadshows on tour today, chuck full of unusual talent, beautiful girls, and utilizing a carload of special stage effects. Having created a sensation in the east, it is now on its way to the West Coast, prior to a trip to Australia and around the world.

The guiding genius of this sensational show is the well-known showman, and illusionist, Karston, and the entire show is built around the most amazing illusions the world has ever known. In fact, every scene is a breath taking illusionistic noxelty. For instance, in the Beauties of Pumpkin Land scene, a young lady is seen to become smaller and smaller until she is so small that she can completely hide in a tiny pumpkin. In another scene, the Dream of a Chinese Emperor, a young lady is placed into a torture chamber, after which her head and legs are cut off in full view of the audience, yet she lives. In the $10,000 Toy Soldier Spectacle, life sized mechanical soldiers, while dancing, vanish, change places and go thru the most amazing transformations. Never before has any production been built around so many unusual novelties.

The dancing girls, known as the Karstonettes, are graduate students of the famous dancing master, Kosloff. The featured acts are of the finest calibre, making up a real roadshow reminiscent of the good old times or the theatres. Make plans to attend early in order to obtain good seats, as an unusual amount of interest has already been shown in this production. It is truly a fine show that will furnish a never-to-be-forgotten night of unusual entertainment.

Ninety per cent of the show is of the type impossible to depict on the screen, or broadcast over the radio. It will prove real entertainment.

Hope, Ross Sing Again In Gay Hit

They touched your heartstrings when they sang "Thanks For The Memory," in "Big Broadcast of '38!" After they had sung it, the country took up the words and sang it too . . . "Thanks For the Memory . . . of motor trips, and burning lips and burning toast and prunes . . . How lovely it was." "They" refers to Bob Hope and Shirley Ross, whose rendition of that song inspired the new romantic comedy, "Thanks For The Memory," which shows today, tomorrow and Sunday at the Strand Theatre.

In this new comedy, Bob and Shirley are seen as newlyweds, struggling to make their way in the world despite their friends, who think that every night is party night at the home of the newly married couple. As the story unfolds, their friends make it difficult indeed for Bob to settle down and write the Great American novel in addition to his daily work as a salesman.

Before Bob and Shirley contrive to straighten out their affairs, there are hilarious and sentimental situations galore, and Bob and Shirley sing a new song, "Two Sleepy People." Written by the ace composing team of Hoagy Carmichael and Frank Loesser, who did the tunes for "Sing You Sinners," the number is designed to dovetail into the plot.

Also featured in the case are Charles Butterworth, Otto Kruger, Hedda Hopper and Roscoe Karns. George Archainbaud directed.

Dick Foran Heads Big Cast in "Heart of The North"

An inspired piece of casting placed Dick Foran, big, red-headed outdoor actor at the head of the cast of the Technicolor special "Heart of the North," which comes to the Liberty Theatre tomorrow. Of all the screen's current heroes, Foran seems to be the one best suited to playing a Royal Canadian "mountie" in this thrilling epic of the Great Northweest. His fellow "mounties" include Allen Jenkins, Patric Knowles, James Stephenson, and many others, while the villain roles are capably filled by Joseph King, Anthony Averill and Joe Sawyer. Feminine interest is plentifully supplied by Gloria Dickson, Gale Page and six-year-old Janet Chapman.

While the picture is set in the Canadian Northwest, it is definitely not a "Western" picture. For this Foran is profoundly grateful. Not that he objects to "Westerns"—they're his favorite film fare—but

HOUSEHOLD SITUATION

NEW SERIAL OPENS TODAY AT EMBASSY

Elephant power! Anna May, giant elephant of the movies, pushes a "jungle cruiser" in Universal's jungle serial, "Tim Tyler's Luck" opening today at the Embassy Theatre and continuing thru the next twelve weeks.

"The Citadel" Stars Robert Donat, Rosalind Russell

"The Citadel," based on the novel by Dr. A. J. Cronin, has been brought to the screen in a notable picture which opened yesterday at the Maryland Theatre and plays through Sunday.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer produced this film at its British studio in Denham, England, with Robert Donat and Rosalind Russell in the leading roles. A cast of more than one hundred players appears in support, principal among them the well-known English players Ralph Richardson, Rex Harrison, Emlyn Williams and Penlope Dudley-Ward.

The dramatic story of a young and obscure physician in the Welsh collieries is revealed on the screen with all the emotional power of Cronin's outstanding novel. A whole village was reconstructed for one sequence and the depths of a coal mine are shown in another. When the mine collapses, Donat descends into the pit in one of the most thrilling scenes filmed.

The surgeon's fight to retain his ethical code, his love for the schoolmistress and their marriage, followed by their struggles together in adversity and wealth, combine to form a work rich in emotional power and dramatic intensity. King Vidor's direction comes close to perfection.

CHAPTER 41

SARA SUE DAVIS told herself that never in all her 23 years had she attended any social function as lovely as this. Not even when Larry had been courting her. For that matter, not many dances of this magnitude had ever been given in Houston.

"I am so happy, T. J.!" she told him, squeezing his arm a little as they danced.

And he, poor fellow, misunderstood.

When she said that, a grand something welled within him. T. J. Sanders was inherently a gentleman, for all his noisy talk and banter at times. He was not noisy now. His rather pretty eyes were misty as he gazed down at his girl.

"Sara Sue!" he murmured. "Sara Sue."

It was all he could say, then. He held her a little closer and danced on. What he really wanted to say shouldn't be shouted, and he would have almost to shout to make her hear above the music and gaiety around them. "You're so sweet!" he whispered in her ear. She made no response. She was content just to dance on, happy in the companionship of youth.

She noted many of her own cottage customers present; boys and girls whom she had introduced and big-sistered along this fall. She knew that four or five fine romances had bloomed among them. Some of them had required spiritual nursing, but Sara Sue felt that she had brought happiness to most of them.

Bob Towne cut in then, and promptly announced, "I've got something important to tell you, when we get a minute, Sara Sue."

She just smiled. Bob was always full of "important" ideas. Good old Bob. She treasured his friendship. She wished he wouldn't make love to her. She had noticed how all the other girls seemed thrilled when Bob danced with them. Bob Towne, hero of the day. He who had grabbed a fast pass in the second quarter and fought his way for the game's only touchdown. "The best end man in the United States, law me!" Calculus' Jones had declared exuberantly, and perhaps without exaggeration. People were saying Bob would surely make All-American.

The football team had ridden in cars to the big pep parade downtown, then had (under Coach Britt's orders) sprawled on their beds for an hour of rest, so that they could enjoy the dance. They had been individually introduced (as if they needed introduction!) when they came into the ballroom, the master of ceremonies making just the right little speech about each man. Similar courtesy was shown the Mexican players, who really had earned everybody's respect. Nobody could feel badly about losing a game, 6-0, against a team of Rice's caliber. The captain, Don Romero Celiedor, had congratulated the winners, smilingly paid high tribute to their sportsmanship, invited them to Mexico City another year. The applause had been prolonged.

"They are such courteous boys, the Mexicans, aren't they, T. J.?" Sara Sue was saying. "They bow and speak like knights or something, when they ask for a dance."

Early she had noted Thornton Holgate dancing, and apparently enjoying himself. "High jinks, Thorny?" she called, in passing him. He smiled his happiness. She hadn't seen him lately, though. Sara Sue wondered where Peaches Pomeroy was. Peaches also had disappeared after the first long intermission. "I hope she doesn't manage to spoil Thorny's evening," Sara Sue mused.

She saw Marcia Gurley beaming like somebody's little sister, in the arms of a Mexican fullback twice her size. The big fellow had to bend away over to hold the dainty Rice girl. It was almost comical. "Twist him around your finger, Marcia, honey!" Sara Sue called. Marcia winked back. The music was fast now, and two couples could not stay near each other for long.

Sara Sue hadn't seen Worthington Gurley since he checked in her coat—she had teased him good-naturedly for being a slime—until this moment on the dance floor.

By chance now she saw him dart out of a hallway, pause a moment, than run toward the door. She thought that his expression was peculiarly strained. Oh, well, probably just the sophomores up to more devilment.

But for once it wasn't the sophomores, of course.

That was the moment when Worthington had just seen Peaches Pomeroy slip the bracelet in the lining of Sara Sue's coat.

He had watched Peaches in utter astonishment. And he had concluded, rightly, that this was no hazing stunt, not devilment, but deviltry. He knew Peaches hated Sara Sue. He didn't know exactly what her plan was, but he knew that Peaches was secretly working some diabolical scheme to discredit Sara Sue. When he discovered that, and when he had seen Peaches leave the checking room, young Worthington had hastened out in a sort of daze.

He really didn't give any thought to where he was going. Wrapped in a sense of great alarm, he just started running, kid like. In emergency a child runs almost anywhere, just runs.

He knew that he must do something; find somebody. He surveyed the dancers for a brief moment, then plunged on toward the stairway, not even waiting for the elevator. The University club is only one floor up from the street, anyway. In a few seconds he was on the sidewalk, but was confused. He had some vague idea of going for police. Police. Everybody thinks automatically of police, in moments of danger.

"Ahnn-n-h!" he suddenly goaned, though.

He had remembered his uniform! His monkey suit. His "buttons"—the bell hop suit in which sophomores had dressed him. Quite involuntarily he let embarrassment at that control him, so that he blushingly darted back up the stairs to the clubroom again. Some recess of his mind had reminded him that he was now a married man, who could not be seen on the street in bell hop uniform! His mind, and his body seemed to be whirling around in circles, not very logically. But Mister Worthington Gurley, married man, still was very young.

A swarm of dancers engulfed him then, so that he was swept dazedly into the gaiety. He elbowed his way through to a window on the opposite side. Peering down, he still saw no policeman. By this time he wasn't sure that he wanted a policeman, anyway. In fact, he didn't know what he wanted. His legs were impatient. He started running again. Somewhere. Anywhere. A scared kid, with a tremendous secret. Very confused.

"Button, slime!" some upperclassman called, but he paid no attention.

His wife Marcia saw him as she danced by. "Worthington — darling!" she called out. She sensed that he was in trouble. But he couldn't talk to Marcia now! He couldn't spoil her evening. He waved hastily to her, and darted away, pushing through the dancers again rather than going around. Several couples bumped into him, but he didn't notice. He could think of nothing but a diamond bracelet in Sara Sue's coat, and of the terrible look in Peaches' face.

Unconsciously, now, he pushed himself toward the men's lounge.

This traditional sanctum of privacy was around an L in the larger hall. An electric sign announced it. First there was a large luxurious smoking-loafing room. Then two or three smaller and semi-private rooms, where a man could snatch a 10-minute rest if need be, sprawled on a divan. Beyond this was the larger white-tiled washroom, with several rather large private compartments inside. The University club was indeed an elaborately outfitted place.

Worthington noted that even the front lounge was empty—hilarity had been too great outside for men to miss any of the fun by loafing—but he moved on past the smaller lounges into the tiled room. There—for want of something, anything, to calm his nerves—he paused at a fountain and swigged a long drink of ice water. This big room seemed deserted, too.

He leaned back against the white wall to think.

Should he telephone police? Or should he first go accost Peaches and tell her what he had discovered, threatening to expose her if she ever tried anything else sneaking on Sara Sue? Or should he go to Sara Sue and tell her? Or maybe to Bob Towne. Or T. J. Sanders, Sara Sue's escort. Gosh!

He drank some more ice water. He noted then that his heart was pounding.

During the few seconds he had stood there, a clicking noise had been coming from somewhere. An irregular click and slide, faint but noticeable. Except for the music now muted by doors and distance, this was the only sound in the big white washroom.

Click.

In a moment he knew it came from one of the smaller private rooms.

Unthinking, still confused and agitated by his other discovery, he moved to the private room door and opened it. He gazed down at a man.

The man, dressed in tuxedo, was kneeling on the white tile floor alone. Alone, too, he was shaking dice, and throwing them, as if in solitaire, or in practice. Click-click, slide. Click. And— a quart of whiskey, unmistakable in color and odor, stood on the floor nearby, open but apparently still full. The cork was near. A lone man, throwing dice, preparing to get drunk.

His motions stopped the second after Worthington opened the door, and he looked up, quizzically, owl-eyed, his expression strained. Worthington's jaw dropped.

"Why, D-D-Dr. Holgate!" the lad exclaimed. "You — you — gos-s-sh!"

Smell and Taste Chemical Senses

They Play a Very Important Part in Our Reactions to the World and Our Happiness

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

SMELL AND TASTE are known as the chemical senses because they are stimulated only by a chemical substance which lights on the nerve ends. Smell is more acute—that is, smaller amounts of a substance are necessary to arouse the sensation of odor than of taste.

The sensitivity of smell has been compared to a chemical balance in comparison to the sensitivity of taste, which is that of a grocer's scale. There is still another sense which resides in mucous membranes—a sense of the nature of substances—and this has been compared to a hay scale.

You can smell .00125 per cent of alcohol. It requires three parts to be tasted and it takes five to ten parts to leave a stinging sensation on the inside of the cheek.

Smell with us is not nearly as well developed as in the lower animals. Most of their sense life probably is olfactory while most of ours is visual. Our olfactory lobe in the brain has degenerated and deteriorated until it is a very small ganglia, while that of certain lower animals overshadows the entire brain.

Entry for Disease

As a matter of fact, it probably would be a good thing if our olfactory organ continued to degenerate until it entirely disappeared. The nerves of smell come down through the small opening in the skull at the upper part of the nose and through these probably a great many infectious diseases, such as infantile paralysis and meningitis, may make their entrance into the body. This was the basis a few years ago of the preventive treatment of infantile paralysis in which these nerve endings were seared. It did not prove successful but we may have a more successful method, I understand, in the near future.

No classification of odors has ever been satisfactorily made. Henning, the physiologist, attempted to make one which was like the spectrum for sight. His odors were (1) flowery, or violet; (2) fruity, or lemon; (3) spicy, or nutmeg; (4) resinous, as frankincense; (5) putrid, as hydrogen sulphide, and (6) burning, as tar.

The sensation of taste resides in very complicated nerve cells, known as taste buds, in the tongue and in other parts of the oral cavity. Most of the taste buds on the tongue are far back, although in young babies the sense of taste is mostly located on the tip of the tongue. This is probably also true of animals who test all substances so far as taste is concerned, with the tip of the tongue first. Babies, of course, test it on account of their nursing necessities. As time goes on the distribution of taste changes from the tip of the tongue to the back of the tongue.

Primary Tastes

Nobody knows where the taste center in the brain is, but it must have wide connections because taste, like smell, gives rise to innumerable associations.

The primary tastes are sweet, salty, sour and bitter. Chemists have tried to show that there is a relation between the chemical structure of different substances and sweetness. Sugar, of course, is not the only thing that creates the sense of sweetness. For instance, sugar of lead will do it and so will chloroform.

Taste and smell play a very important part in our happiness and our reactions to the world. They are closely connected with each other and the smell alone will arouse a sensation of taste. Both, of course, create a stimuli in the digestive tract, resulting in the pouring out of digestive juices, and thus contributing to our nutrition and the physiology of digestion.

He leaned back against the white wall to think.

Should he telephone police? Or should he first go accost Peaches and tell her what he had discovered, threatening to expose her if she ever tried anything else sneaking on Sara Sue? Or should he go to Sara Sue and tell her? Or maybe to Bob Towne. Or T. J. Sanders, Sara Sue's escort. Gosh!

He drank some more ice water. He noted then that his heart was pounding.

During the few seconds he had stood there, a clicking noise had been coming from somewhere. An irregular click and slide, faint but noticeable. Except for the music now muted by doors and distance, this was the only sound in the big white washroom.

Click.

In a moment he knew it came from one of the smaller private rooms.

Unthinking, still confused and agitated by his other discovery, he moved to the private room door and opened it. He gazed down at a man.

The man, dressed in tuxedo, was kneeling on the white tile floor alone. Alone, too, he was shaking dice, and throwing them, as if in solitaire, or in practice. Click-click, slide. Click. And— a quart of whiskey, unmistakable in color and odor, stood on the floor nearby, open but apparently still full. The cork was near. A lone man, throwing dice, preparing to get drunk.

His motions stopped the second after Worthington opened the door, and he looked up, quizzically, owl-eyed, his expression strained. Worthington's jaw dropped.

"Why, D-D-Dr. Holgate!" the lad exclaimed. "You — you — gos-s-sh!"

Smell and Taste Chemical Senses

They Play a Very Important Part in Our Reactions to the World and Our Happiness

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

SMELL AND TASTE are known as the chemical senses because they are stimulated only by a chemical substance which lights on the nerve ends. Smell is more acute—that is, smaller amounts of a substance are necessary to arouse the sensation of odor than of taste.

The sensitivity of smell has been compared to a chemical balance in comparison to the sensitivity of taste, which is that of a grocer's scale. There is still another sense which resides in mucous membranes—a sense of the nature of substances—and this has been compared to a hay scale.

You can smell .00125 per cent of alcohol. It requires three parts to be tasted and it takes five to ten parts to leave a stinging sensation on the inside of the cheek.

Smell with us is not nearly as well developed as in the lower animals. Most of their sense life probably is olfactory while most of ours is visual. Our olfactory lobe in the brain has degenerated and deteriorated until it is a very small ganglion, while that of certain lower animals overshadows the entire brain.

Entry for Disease

As a matter of fact, it probably would be a good thing if our olfactory organ continued to degenerate until it entirely disappeared. The nerves of smell come down through the small opening in the skull at the upper part of the nose and through these probably a great many infectious diseases, such as infantile paralysis and meningitis, may make their entrance into the body. This was the basis a few years ago of the preventive treatment of infantile paralysis in which these nerve endings were seared. It did not prove successful but we may have a more successful method, I understand, in the near future.

No classification of odors has ever been satisfactorily made. Henning, the physiologist, attempted to make one which was like the spectrum for sight. His odors were (1) flowery, or violet; (2) fruity, or lemon; (3) spicy, or nutmeg; (4) resinous, as frankincense; (5) putrid, as hydrogen sulphide, and (6) burning, as tar.

The sensation of taste resides in very complicated nerve cells, known as taste buds, in the tongue and in other parts of the oral cavity. Most of the taste buds on the tongue are far back, although in young babies the sense of taste is mostly located on the tip of the tongue. This is probably also true of animals who test all substances so far as taste is concerned, with the tip of the tongue first. Babies, of course, test it on account of their nursing necessities. As time goes on the distribution of taste changes from the tip of the tongue to the back of the tongue.

Primary Tastes

Nobody knows where the taste center in the brain is, but it must have wide connections because taste, like smell, gives rise to innumerable associations.

The primary tastes are sweet, salty, sour and bitter. Chemists have tried to show that there is a relation between the chemical structure of different substances and sweetness. Sugar, of course, is not the only thing that creates the sense of sweetness. For instance, sugar of lead will do it and so will chloroform.

Taste and smell play a very important part in our happiness and our reactions to the world. They are closely connected with each other and the smell alone will arouse a sensation of taste. Both, of course, create a stimuli in the digestive tract, resulting in the pouring out of digestive juices, and thus contributing to our nutrition and the physiology of digestion.

Farmers Protest Baltimore Markets

Baltimore, Dec. 8 (AP)—Farmers of Maryland protested today what they termed inadequate marketing facilities in Baltimore.

Their protest was given by Dr. Thomas B. Symons, addressing the 56th annual convention of the state grange.

"For years our truck growers have complained of the lack of space and facilities at the Marsh market and in the Camden and Light street areas," the acting dean of agriculture and director of extension service of the university of Maryland said.

"Thorough studies of the situation throughout the city have been made but no definite steps have been taken by a responsible party for improving the facilities."

Symons expressed regret that despite what he termed huge expenditures on other types of public improvements no steps had been taken toward improving the markets.

He suggested also in his address to grange members that the "basic and surplus" plan of dairy associations be applied to other farm products. He advocated that system rather than acreage curtailment in controlling surplus production of wheat, corn, cotton and tobacco.

Austrian Official Dropped by Nazis

Vienna, Dec. 8 (Thursday) (AP)—Joseph Buerckel, Adolf Hitler's deputy in Austria, has expelled Franz Winkler, former Austrian vice-chancellor, from the Nazi party, an official communique published in this morning's papers announced.

The communique said the disciplinary action was taken because Winkler was involved in corruption in connection with the "Anker bread factory," Austria's biggest bread manufacturers.

Max Fuehrer, director of the factory, was arrested a few days ago and expelled from the party.

In a modern turbine steam enters at a temperature hot enough to burn wood and 3-100 of a second later it leaves at a temperature too cool for a comfortable bath.

Martin Egan, Former A.P. Writer, Succumbs

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—Martin Egan, 67, former newspaper man, whose negotiations with the Japanese government helped the Associated Press achieve one of the outstanding beats of the Russo-Japanese war, died from a heart attack here.

For the last quarter of a century he had been associated with J. P. Morgan and Co., save for an interlude during the world war when he joined the staff of General John J. Pershing as a civilian adviser.

A distinguished war correspondent, Egan was sent to Manila to cover the Spanish-American war and Philippine insurrection for the San Francisco Chronicle, on which he had his first job. When he joined the Associated Press, he was sent to China to report the Boxer Rebellion and later worked for the AP in New York, London, Tokyo, Peking and Manila. His last newspaper post was as editor and part owner of the Manila Times.

The New York Times on November 5, 1904, described Egan's preparations for the filing and successful cabling of a story from Port Arthur, under siege by the Japanese as "one of the notable achievements in the annals of American journalism."

Traffic laws were in effect in England as early as 1835, long before the invention of the automobile.

Amateur Boxing Show on Tap Here Tonight

Shamrock A.C. To Stage Card At The "G" Club

Somerset A.C. Boxers In Top Bouts With Best Boys in City

EIGHT BOUTS ARE LISTED ON CARD

First Bout Gets Underway At 8:30; Colored Boys On Card

The Shamrock A. C. will present its fifth and final boxing show of the year tonight at the former 'G' club and Belvedere theatre on Baltimore street at 8:30 o'clock.

"Bill" Niland who promotes the shows for the Shamrock club staged three outdoor fistic events at the Community park and an indoor at SS Peter and Paul gym.

Tonight's boxing show will mark the first time such an affair has been held in this spot which was formerly a theatre and later a night club but Niland states it has ample seating space and is ideal for an indoor fistic affair. Niland also says he intends to hold boxing shows once a month in this location.

The opening bout will bring together Garland Hiser, 148 pounder of the Green Ridge C. C. C. camp and formerly of this city, and Ken Haines, 147, of the Mohawk A. C. Gene Kelly manager of Haines says his boy is in the pink of condition and will be angling for his fifth straight win of the year, while Hiser, who gave Bucky Walbert a trouncing in one of the tournaments held by the Boys' Club is bringing a host of rooters from the C. C. C. camp to spur him on to victory.

The second bout is a featherweight affair in which 'Chink' Davis of the Shamrock A. C. will oppose 'Tick' Brant representing the Somerset A. C Both these lads are comparatively new to local ring fans but are said to be willing scrappers.

Niland-Grant Return Go

In the third tussle Ira Brant of the Somerset A. C. who lost a close decision to George Cunningham recently will collide with Harold Twigg of the Rice A. C. stable.

Two flyweights will provide the fireworks in the fourth bout as Joe Niland and Elwood Grant resume their slam-bang battle of the Cumberland Boys' Club's last card. Both will weigh in at bout 107 pounds.

Grant has been clamoring for a return bout ever since Niland won a close decision on the Boys' club card and Young Joe says he'll convince Grant that he shouldn't be in the same ring with him when the bell rings. Grant is also very certain he will even things up by a decisive win, possibly by a knockout.

The fifth bout will be an all-Negro fracas with Joe Hollingsworth tangling with Pete Chamberlain in a bout that should see the fur fly.

Both boys have proven their ability as toe to toe sluggers and a home town rivalry has developed.

The sixth bout is a natural, bringing together a boxer and a slugger. Stony Jackson, 148 pounder of Frostburg is the former, and Patsy Tusconi, the latter. In Jackson's last local start he gained a T. K. O. over Bucky Walbert in the third round of a scheduled five round fight while Tusconi will go in to the ring with a record of 18 wins against four losses. Tusconi is a slugger who rushes out and keeps fighting while Jackson jabs, crosses and gets away.

Heavyweights Clash

The semi-final is probably the most important match on the card to local boxing fans — the much talked of match between Orrie Sensabaugh, heavyweight champion of Western Maryland and George Porter. Sensabaugh is undefeated in the last two years and holds a decision over Herbie Hayes, a winner of a Pittsburgh tournament last year. Sensabaugh also holds decisions over Bill Cover and Jim O'Brein and will be out to keep his slate clean when he faces Porter tonight. Porter shapes up as a good opponent for Sensabaugh, judging from his first round K. O. of Red Miller of the C.B.C last month, and the bout should be packed with plenty of action as both boys come to within 10 pounds of the 200 pound mark.

The main bout brings the ever pleasing Delton Parker against Gene Brant of the Somerset A. C. Brant is a very active amateur having approximately fifty battles in three years while Parker has had close to 100 engagements in about seven years of campaigning. Parker's reputation speaks for itself. He has twice gone to the finals in South Atlantic competition and beaten such boys as Joe McGreevey S. A. champion; Joe M-Kenna, Diamond Belt champion from Pittsburgh; Gil Becker of Cumberland and many others. Brant comes here fresh from a winning fight in Pittsburgh against Joe O'Malley.

The officials will be Referee — Jack Porick. Judges—Chris Charuhas and Buddy Crass, announcer Bill Niland.

Westward Ho—Ellsworth Vines isn't the only crack tennis player who has fallen for the lure of golf. So has Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, the star woman tennis player from the Golden Gate.

I was interested to get Mrs. Moody's slant on golf as opposed to tennis, Mrs. Moody being about as careful a student of things that interest her as any one you might happen to meet.

"I have only taken six lessons in golf," she told me, "so of course I have hardly begun."

This is true of golf. As Walter J. Travis, the sage, once said, "You play golf and study it for five years, then it takes you five more years to unlearn what you have learned —or rather to forget what you have learned."

"From the short time you have been at golf," I asked Mrs. Moody, "what is the main difference between the two games, golf and tennis, as you see them both?"

Mrs. Moody had a smart answer. "The tennis ball is always moving and holds your attention and, therefore, your eye. You almost have to look at it. The golf ball isn't moving—is waiting there for you—so your attention begins to wander away from it to other things.

A Keen Observer

"What would you suggest that I give most attention to at the start?" Mrs. Moody asked.

"At the start and all the way through," I said, "the important thing is this—to concentrate on correct execution and not upon the result. To think in terms of the swing, and not beyond the swing. The ball has to stop somewhere, and if you swing correctly it will stop in the right place."

"That is the idea I have started on," she said. "I have begun to train myself along the lines of concentration, just as I always did in tennis. I have always thought the mental side more important than the physical side in almost every sport. I also want to think in terms of the right way to swing, not in the correction of faults.

"In a tennis match," Mrs. Moody continued, "I always try not to let anything interrupt my concentration on what I have to do. I know that continued concentration isn't any too easy. I believe it is easier in tennis than it is in golf. There is so much more motion in tennis. This means there is much less tension."

This is completely true. As Alex Morrison has always said, "Motion is the greatest enemy tension has." Mrs. Moody caught this point quickly. It is even easier to catch when you watch the average golfer freeze over the ball in his address—feet, legs, body and hands all locked and the key thrown away.

Should Be Good Golfer

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody should soon make a first-class golfer. Why? The answers are simple.

1. She is still in her early thirties and is unusually strong.

2. She knows how to use her hands and wrists.

3. She has the ability to concentrate on what should be done, well above the average.

4. She is ambitious to excel in anything she starts and doesn't mind hard work in this direction.

5 She is a natural athlete and a fine competitor.

6. She is starting the correct way —learning the fundamentals before attempting to score.

7. She understands the matter of co-ordination among feet, body and hands. She has a natural sense of balance.

8. She has already taken a keen liking to golf and is immensely interested in seeing what she can do with it.

What About Tennis?

I asked her just what her tennis future would be, whether she was through with big-time competition.

"I don't know," she said. "If I happen to feel like playing next spring or summer I will come back again. If I don't, I won't. I only like to play tennis when it is fun. When I feel that it isn't fun any longer, I just quit for a while. Why play a game when you are tired of it for the time being, when you are stale, or when you don't want to play?

"I know that I get badly criticized for staying out at times, but I can't help that. I don't feel that it is amateur sport any longer when you feel that you are forced to play when you don't care to play, or don't feel like playing."

It will be interesting to see how Mrs. Moody, looking five years younger than she has looked for some time, will make out in golf. With a few more lessons and more hard practice she has promised to let me see how she is getting along on some San Francisco course.

Sightless Youth Tries for Place On Track Squad

Bill Kelley Surprises With Form Despite His Handicap

Pitt Coach Expresses Belief He'll Prove Point Winner

Pittsburgh, Dec. 8 (AP)—Bill Kelley, sightless but determined University of Pittsburgh freshman, worked out today at Pitt's indoor high jumping pit with the will to win a berth on Pitt's yearling track squad.

Bill averaged leaps of five feet, five inches, which is under varsity collegiate standards but Coach Carl Olson said he expected to bring him along with possibilities of becoming a point winner.

Before many weeks, Olson predicted, Kelley would be one of the best jumpers on the yearling squad.

Injury Cost Sight

"That lad really has determination and is showing remarkable form, despite his handicap," Olson added. "All he needs is a little timing and he'll be there. He has one of the best springs I've ever witnessed in a high jumper. I wish all athletes had that kind of determination."

Olson explained that Kelley memorizes the number of steps he has to take before jumping and always starts his run at the same point.

Bill suffered an eye injury while playing football during his Pittsburgh high school days. Ultimately it resulted in loss of sight in both eyes and he enrolled in the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind.

At the blind school, Kelley participated in the standing broad jump, the standing high jump, hop-step-and-jump and shot put. At Pitt he will continue his shot put efforts but Olson ruled out the running broad jump because of possible injury to Bill in dashing down the runway.

PAIR OF ACES COMPARE HANDS

Two of football's most brilliant forward passers, Davey O'Brien (left), of Texas Christian, and Sid Luckman, of Columbia, compare hands, as the All-America stars met. Davey was in New York to receive the Heisman Trophy, presented to the outstanding college football player in the United States.

Frostburg Gunners 16th In Semi-Finals

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—The Mountaineer 4-H Rifle Club of Frostburg, Md., firing in the semi-finals of the national junior championship tryouts, scored 477 out of a possible 500 for 16th place among the "C" division teams, according to tabulations just announced at headquarters of the National Rifle Association, sponsors of the nation-wide competition. One hundred and seventy-five teams are firing in the series of four preliminary matches, which are warm up bouts to determine each team's handicap position before the opening barrage of January 21 sets off a 12 week's schedule for state honors and the chance to represent the state in the finals for the national title. The current series, however, to be concluded with the firing next week will pay off in trophies and medals for leaders of each division.

Mountaineer Grid Player Left Game To "Swat" a Fan

Didn't Like Remark of Spectator at Michigan State Game

Morgantown, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—A little incident in the Michigan State football game—a player leaving the field after some heckling started in the stands—got itself in the spotlight today because it was picked as the "oddest" gridiron occurrence of the season.

Also came to light the names of the West Virginia University players who figured in it.

As their contribution to the goofiest memory of the season, the Michigan State players contributed this one:

"When a West Virginia backfield player in our game at Morgantown apparently overheard a derogatory remark from the stands, he raced off the field during play, dashed into the stands in search of his critic, swatted him, took a poke at a policeman on his way back, and continued play without remark."

The award caused Tony Constantine, Morgantown Sports Writer, to do some digging and Tony reported the story he heard was the same, although with variations.

Constantine said it started when Albert Baisi, Mountaineer guard, left the game and started for the showers. Someone in the stands started a little booing and Baisi started toward him.

At that moment, Constantine's detectives report, Mike Gussie, a guard, suddenly dashed from the field headed for where Baisi was.

The thing was over in a minute, Tony reports, and it can't be established whether any blows were struck as a handful of policemen made a quick appearance."

Gussie didn't get back in the game because he broke the rules in leaving the field, said Constantine.

Berkeley Hoopmen Open December 21

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., Dec. 8—According to the 16-game schedule announced today for the Berkeley Springs High boys' basketball squad, the Indians, coached by Paul "Moose" Hodges, will open the season Wednesday, December 21, against the Charles Town Purple Panthers in the Jefferson county town.

Ruth Harris, in charge of the girls' team, said her schedule is still incomplete. Both local squads have been practicing for several weeks with each consisting of 22 members.

Coach Hodges believes his boys will be up to par as six lettermen and five other holdovers are seeking places. The Berkeley sextet, strong the past two years, lost heavily through graduation. The boys' schedule follows:

Dec. 21—Charles Town, away
Jan. 5—Paw Paw, home
Jan. 10—Warfordsburg, away
Jan. 13—Hedgesville, away
Jan. 17—St. Mary's, home

Mountaineer Ring Team In Training

Morgantown, W. V., Dec. 8 (AP)—Although faced with the loss of two national intercollegiate champions, Coach Eddie Vacheresse of West Virginia University's boxing team began getting ready tonight for a season which supporters said looks like a good one for the Mountaineer fighters.

West Virginia is a member of the eastern intercollegiate conference which will wind up its season March 17 and 18 with the annual conference tournament in Bucknell's gym at Lewisburg, Pa.

In addition, Mountaineer boxers will engage in six dual meets, Athletic Director Roy M. Hawley announced.

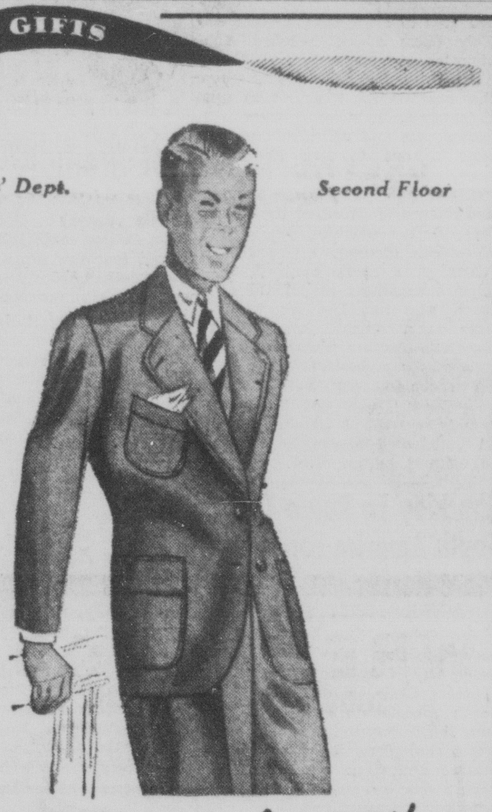

Dr. Vacheresse, who has been running the team for five years, lost Sammy Littlepage of Charleston, 165-pound collegiate champion and Ashby Dickerson, heavyweight from Rhodell, but most of the other regulars will return.

The exception may be Russ Stoner of Morgantown, 135-pounds, who is expected to be declared ineligible under a new ruling that students may not fight outside of college.

Bucknell's Bisons will furnish the opening opposition on January 14 at Lewisburg. City College of New York will be met at Morgantown February 4, Kentucky at Lexington, Ky., February 15, Temple at Morgantown February 18, Wisconsin at Madison, Wis., February 24, and Michigan State at Lansing, Mich., March 3.

C. C. N. Y., and Michigan State replace Army and Pitt on last winter's schedule. Pitt, 1937 conference champion, no longer has a boxing team.

Amateur Boxing Show on Tap Here Tonight

Somerset A.C. Boxers In Top Bouts With Best Boys in City

EIGHT BOUTS ARE LISTED ON CARD

First Bout Gets Underway At 8:30; Colored Boys On Card

The Shamrock A. C. will present its fifth and final boxing show of the year tonight at the former 'G' club and Belvedere theatre on Baltimore street at 8:30 o'clock.

"Bill" Niland who promotes the shows for the Shamrock club staged three outdoor fistic events at the Community park and an indoor at SS Peter and Paul gym.

Tonight's boxing show will mark the first time such an affair has been held in this spot which was formerly a theatre and later a night club but Niland states it has ample seating space and is ideal for an indoor fistic affair. Niland also says he intends to hold boxing shows once a month in this location.

The opening bout will bring together Garland Hiser, 148 pounder of the Green Ridge C. C. C. camp and formerly of this city, and Ken Haines, 147, of the Mohawk A. C. Gene Kelly manager of Haines says his boy is in the pink of condition and will be angling for his fifth straight win of the year, while Hiser, who gave Bucky Walbert a trouncing in one of the tournaments held by the Boys' Club is bringing a host of rooters from the C. C. C. camp to spur him on to victory.

The second bout is a featherweight affair in which 'Chink' Davis of the Shamrock A. C. will oppose 'Tick' Brant representing the Somerset A. C. Both these lads are comparatively new to local ring fans but are said to be willing scrappers.

Niland-Grant Return Go

In the third tussle Ira Brant of the Somerset A. C. who lost a close decision to George Cunningham recently will collide with Harold Twigg of the Rice A. C. stable.

Two flyweights will provide the fireworks in the fourth bout as Joe Niland and Elwood Grant resume their slam-bang battle of the Cumberland Boys' Club's last card. Both will weigh in at bout 107 pounds.

Grant has been clamoring for a return bout ever since Niland won a close decision on the Boys' club card and Young Joe says he'll convince Grant that he shouldn't be in the same ring with him when the bell rings. Grant is also very certain he will even things up by a decisive win, possibly by a knockout.

The fifth bout will be an all-Negro fracas with Joe Hollingsworth tangling with Pete Chamberlain in a bout that should see the fur fly.

Both boys have proven their ability as toe to toe sluggers and a home town rivalry has developed.

The sixth bout is a natural, bringing together a boxer and a slugger. Stony Jackson, 148 pounder of Frostburg is the former, and Patsy Tusconi, the latter. In Jackson's last local start he gained a T. K. O. over Bucky Walbert in the third round of a scheduled five round fight while Tusconi will go in to the ring with a record of 18 wins against four losses. Tusconi is a slugger who rushes out and keeps fighting while Jackson jabs, crosses and gets away.

Heavyweights Clash

The semi-final is probably the most important match on the card to local boxing fans — the much talked of match between Orrie Sensabaugh, heavyweight champion of Western Maryland and George Porter. Sensabaugh is undefeated in the last two years and holds a decision over Herbie Hayes, a winner of a Pittsburgh tournament last year. Sensabaugh also holds decisions over Bill Cover and Jim O'Brein and will be out to keep his slate clean when he faces Porter tonight. Porter shapes up as a good opponent for Sensabaugh, judging from his first round K. O. of Red Miller of the C.B.C last month, and the bout should be packed with plenty of action as both boys come to within 10 pounds of the 200 pound mark.

The main bout brings the ever pleasing Delton Parker against Gene Brant of the Somerset A. C. Brant is a very active amateur having approximately fifty battles in three years while Parker has had close to 100 engagements in about seven years of campaigning. Parker's reputation speaks for itself. He has twice gone to the finals in South Atlantic competition and beaten such boys as Joe McGreevey S. A. champion; Joe M-Kenna, Diamond Belt champion from Pittsburgh; Gil Becker of Cumberland and many others. Brant comes here fresh from a winning fight in Pittsburgh against Joe O'Malley.

The officials will be Referee — Jack Porick. Judges—Chris Charuhas and Buddy Crass, announcer Bill Niland.

Major League Deals Fail to Materialize

Moguls Moving North To Meet In Convention

Three-way Trade by Cubs And Giants Only Transaction

ZEKE BONURA MOST SOUGHT-AFTER STAR

Giants Hot After Him but Other Clubs Would Buy Him

New Orleans, La., Dec. 8 (AP)—Anticipated wholesale swapping of baseball talent at the annual minor league assemblage failed to materialize today.

Rumors were plentiful but lacked confirmation on the second day of the 37th annual session of the National Association of Professional baseball Leagues, the principal scene of winter swapping. The trading moguls began departing tonight, many of them heading for New York for further conferences at the major league convention next week.

The Chicago Cubs, National League champions, and the New York Giants consummated the only major deal of the current winter scene in a transaction that sent three Cubs to the Giants in exchange for a like number of New York players.

Three Clubs Want Bonura

The major deal now pending involves Zeke Bonura, the hard-hitting Washington first baseman who apparently is headed for duty with the New York Giants if a few flaws can be overcome.

Before the Giants can buy Bonura he must be waived out of the American League. New York is faced with the problem of outbidding the Chicago Cubs and the Pittsburgh Pirates before President Clark Griffith of Washington can put him on the block. Three American League clubs earlier had refused to waive on Bonura but latest reports said only the Chicago White Sox, a team on which Bonura once played, were holding up proceedings.

It was understood Gabby Hartnett, Cub manager, wanted Bonura. The Giants need a first baseman badly and will turn to a deal that may involve Buddy Hassett of Brooklyn should they fail to get Bonura. The Pirates, reportedly ready to sell first-sacker Gus Suhr, also have an eye on Zeke.

While major league dealing lagged, the minor league forces made a number of deals and the association of 37 minor leagues, under the dirtction of President William G. Bramham took official action on a majority of submitted amendments.

Principal action was defeat of a proposed amendment that would have repealed a provision of the "Baltimore Agreement" preventing major league clubs signing sandlot players in a manner referred to by organized baseball's commissioner, K. M. Landis, as "subterfuge."

The minor leagues, with little debate, decided to stand pat on the present agreement which permits the practice of major league clubs signing sandlotters. An official said the consensus was that this angle involves a principle of "covering up" that would continue despite legislation to the contrary, "so why not let the bars down."

The minors had before them a proposal to limit affiliations by major league teams to one club in each league classification. This proposal, designed apparently to break up large "chain store" organizations, was refgerred to the major leagues and destined for tabling, sources said.

Frisch Not To Take Job At New Orleans

New Orleans, Dec. 8 (AP)—Frank Frisch, ex-manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, who came here shopping for a job, made it understood he would not come to New Orleans as pilot of the Pelicans.

Frisch said: "It's all right to say I'm not coming down here. I have a couple of propositions up along the line I want to consider. I've been in the big leagues 20 years and I think I owe it to myself to stay there."

Reliable reports said Frisch had been offered the local manager's job at $12,500 a year but now was considering a coaching assignment with a National league club where both the salary and the responsibility would be less than in New Orleans.

Another Passer Earns His Letter

Fort Madison, Ia., (AP)—Add forward passing accomplishments:—

Quarterback Schell of the Iowa State penitentiary football team completed 12 of 116 passes for 1,114 yards this fall. He averaged 15½ yards per pass and had only two tosses intercepted.

His team was undefeated in competition with Iowa semi-pro teams.

THEY FIGURE IN BASEBALL DEAL

First of several expected baseball deals to be completed involves the exchange of three star players by the New York Giants and Chicago Cubs. There was no cash involved, according to Phil Wrigley, owner of the Cubs. The deal sends Catcher Gus Mancuso, Infielder Dick Bartell and Outfielder Hank Lieber of the Giants to the Cubs for Catcher Ken O'Dea, Infielder Bill Jurges and Outfielder Frank Demaree. The details of the deal were worked out at the minor league meeting in New Orleans.

Scotty Riffle Is Kayoed By McVey

Fairmont, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP) — Sunny Jim McVey, 189, veteran Pittsburgh, Pa., negro heavyweight, knocked out Scotty Riffle, 183, of Morgantown, West Virginia heavyweight champion, in the third round of their scheduled 10-round bout here tonight.

Sunny Jim floored the champ twice in the second round and once in the third before sending him down for the count.

Yanks and Red Sox Best Whitewashers

Chicago, Dec. 8 (AP)—The best whitewashers in the American League during the 1938 baseball season turned out to be the New York Yankee and Boston Red Sox pitching staffs.

Records announced today by the league's service bureau showed Yankee hurlers had shut out rivals 11 times during the campaign, while the Red Sox recorded ten "whitewash" jobs. The Yanks were blanked only twice, and the Red Sox were humilated four times.

On the other end of the list were Jimmy Dykes' injury-riddled White Sox, who were shut out nine times during the season. Philadelphia, Washington and Cleveland were blanked seven times each.

The Whitewash "jinxes" of the year were those held by Yankee pitchers over Washington, Red Sox pitchers over Cleveland, Washington hurlers over Athletics and the Indians' staff over Detroit. In each case, these flingers registered three shut-outs over their rivals during the season.

McLeod Shares Lead In Senior Golf Tourney

Augusta, Ga., Dec. 8 (AP)—Otto Hackbarth of Cincinnati, with rounds of 80-74-154 and Fred McLeod of Chevy Chase, Md., with 75-79-154 tied today for first place in the final round of the annual senior's golf tournament.

The 18-hole playoff is scheduled for tomorrow.

Although Hackbarth three-putted the sixteenth and seventeenth he finished with a 74 to register the lowest score in the tourney.

Chicago Cubs Buy Hurler From Cards

St. Louis, Dec. 8 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals tonight announced the sale of pitcher Ray Harrell to the Chicago Cubs. The purchase price was not made public.

Harrell, a tall right hander, won two and lost three games for the Cards in 1938 and won three and lost seven in 1937. He has been in the Cardinal organization since 1933 but prior to 1937 was with "farm" clubs.

Little Things In Football Paid Big Dividends

One, Two and Three-Pointers Figured Prominently in Games

Undefeated Teams Found Safeties and Field Goals Help

Atlanta, Dec. 8 (AP)—The little things paid big dividends in football this season.

The one, two and three-pointers, resulting from points after touchdowns, safeties and field goals, brought victory or prevented defeat 236 times throughout the nation.

Gridmen, great and insignificant alike, can thank extra points for 123 triumphs and field goals for 48. They converted safeties into 22 victories, and turned defeat into 42 ties with points after. Two other safeties accounted for a freakish deadlock.

Accurate Toes

Accurate toes gained a firmer foothold as a scoring weapon. They booted 156 goals from the field, many in dramatic closing minutes, compared with 126 last year. Fifty-nine teams found they were not needed to win and 49 others kicked them in losing causes.

Safeties totaled 145, an increase of 24 over last year. Forty-eight were made by losing elevens and 73 others swelled already winning scores.

Several teams were involved in multiple uses of the three scoring weapons.

Tulane lost one and won one on field goals in addition to kicking two others which made no difference. Texas Tech kept its undefeated and untied status with an extra point once and with a field goal another time.

Oklahoma's unbeaten and untied Sooners trimmed Rice with a point after and kicked a field goal for a lead over Iowa State. Willard Hofer's 20-yarder beat Northwestern and helped keep Notre Dame unconquered until the Southern California game. The Irish also got a safety in defeating Navy.

Safety Caused Upset

Tennessee's unstopped Vols were in three games involving field goals and a safety.

Among nineteen 3-0 victories were those scored by Albama, Oregon, Rice, Louisiana State, Fordham and Manhattan.

A safety produced one of the south's major upsets, giving Florida a 9-7 win over Auburn. Michigan, Iowa State, George Washington and Rutgers also won games on the two-pointers.

Ties decreased to 157, compared with 187 last year and 174 in 1936. One-point victories dropped from 125 last year to 112 this season.

Tony Galento Opens Up a New Howl for Bout With Joe Louis

St. Louis, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Orange (N. J.) gift to boxing, beer-guzzling Tony Galento, set up renewed howls today for a chance at "that bum," Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world.

That was depite "the toughest fight I ever had," last night's knockout victory over Otis Thomas, rising young Chicago negro, in the ninth round of their scheduled 12-rounder.

"Two-ton" Tony almost lost to Thomas on fouls. Three rounds went to the negro on low blows from Tony's sledgelike fists—the first, seventh and eighth.

Referee Walter Heisner Held up a warning finger in the seventh, and halted the bout in the eighth, threatening to award it to Thomas. Tony Tomacci, the negro's trainer, said Thomas would continue, but that a fourth unethical punch would not be forgiven.

Galento weighed 227; Thomas, 208.

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—The heads have started to roll.

Adrian Lindsey of Kansas is the latest football mentor to learn that you apparently can't build character with a losing football team. Naturally you can't build gate receipts either, but that detail doesn't enter the situation . . . or does it?

Lindsey, a stalwart, handsome man and a grand gent, was put on the pan midway in the late season. Although he was permitted to sizzle there until the campaign closed, he was given more consideration than his predecessor, Bill Hargiss, who was ousted midway in a season.

Joins Growing List

Lindsey joins a growing list of mentors who either already are on the outside looking in or on the inside looking worried. A glance at the won and lost records gives a fair hint as to their identies.

For instance, Lindsey's team this fall won three and lost six. Irl Tubbs, late of Iowa, had a team whose record showed one victory, one tie and six defeats. Oklahoma A. & M., under Ted Cox, won two and lost eight, and Cox also is adrift.

Naturally there are exceptions. Dana Bible, whose long, fat contract at Texas attracted national attention, had a season which was a great character builder. Major Lawrence "Biff" Jones, whose first season at Nebraska last year was marked by great success and whose second season was just marked, also was a victim of circumstances.

But both Bible and Jones have shown themselves to be top-notch mentors who can deliver when they have the material. The Biffer has the added advantage of being a member of the faculty. They haven't reached the point of firing the professor because the students flunked.

Material First Requisite

A coach's success usually hinges on material, a factor the late Knute Rockne realized only too well.

"They gave me an automobile after the 1927 season," he remarked. "After the 1928 season they wanted to take it back."

Every time a coach is ousted, it means another school will lose a coach who curently is riding the crest. For instance, Eddie Anderson goes to Iowa after a season at Holy Cross which included eight victories and one one-point defeat.

An exception is Kansas, where the wily Gwinn Henry, who used to patch up a Missouri team with baling wire and adhesive tape and send it out to lick Nebraska's powerhouse elevens when the Missourians were given only an outside chance of finishing the games. He adds the coaching job to that of athletic director.

And as a sharp contrast to a school's eagerness to get rid of a coach who has lost his winning ways is a schools' eagerness to hog-tie a mentor whose season is crowned by a bowl offer.

You couldn't pry Wallace Wade away from Duke, and Tom Stirham is so solid at Oklahoma after an undefeated season he couldn't be chipped by an offer.

Shockley En Route To South America For More Horses

New Orleans, Dec. 8 (AP) — Clarence Shockley, who brought the good racers Caballero II and Sahri II from Chile, is on his way to South America to look for a few more good prospects.

Shockley plans to visit the Argentine and Chile and expects to import four or possibly six South American thoroughbreds.

Ten of the 11 starters in last year's Jefferson Park Handicap at the Fair Grounds are back at the New Orleans track this winter. Several of them may start in the same race Saturday. Missing is the Millsdale Stable's Giant Killer, while E. H. Bartlett's Zevson will not be in condition to run.

Louis Title Bout On West Coast Called Off

San Francisco, Dec. 8—Convinced such a promotion was "too expensive," 1939 Fair officials had abandoned today all hope of a heavyweight title match between Joe Louis and an outstanding challenger, preferably a Californian, next summer.

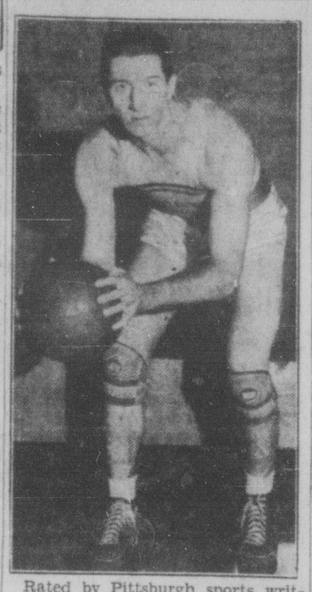

Harris Connick, general manager of the Fair, had negotiated with Mike Jacobs, New York promoter, a few months ago and was told to guarantee $500,000 by December 20.

Yesterday Connick announced the fight was off.

Connick intimated, however, a fight between Max Baer and Lou Nova may be considered or else a middleweight title fight between Solly Kreiger and Fred Apostoli.

PIRATE MAGICIAN PLAYS HERE SUNDAY

Rated by Pittsburgh sports writers as the most clever ball-handler to be developed in the tri-state district in recent years, Walt Miller, above, former Duquesne University cager, will be at one of the forward posts in the Pittsburgh Pirates' starting lineup Sunday afternoon when the National Professional Basketball League crew squares off against the Cumberland Collegians in the SS. Peter & Paul School gym.

Miller closed a spectacular career under "Chick" Davies, who has been turning out remarkable teams at Duquesne for more than a decade, two years ago and has embbellished his bag of basketball tricks during his two seasons with the Pirates. He's been a leading point-getter in addition to astounding fans with his almost-magic dexterity in handling the ball so far this season and will bear close watching on the part of the Collegians during Sunday's engagement.

Morris Harvey Places Four On Conference Team

W. Va. State College Champs Honored by Scribes of Newspaper

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 8. (AP)—Morris Harvey's Golden Eagles, State College conference champions, placed four men on an all-conference football team selected tonight by the Charleston Gazette.

The newspaper, which conducted a poll of coaches of the 12 teams in the conference, said the mythical squad represented the "opinion of all the coaches in the conference."

West Virginia university and Marshall college players were not considered in the poll because the schools are not conference members.

The team:

Ends, Walter Kuhns of Bethany and Hobby Howard of Davis and Elkins; tackles, Speedy Vaught of Morris Harvey (captain) and Paul Kendrach of Potomac State; guards, Bill Cobb of Morris Harvey and Patsy DiPasqualae of West Liberty; Center, Earl Bickel of Glenville; backs, Rex Mace and Bob Starrett of Morris Harvey; Jack Assay of Salem and Russell Porterfield of Glenville.

Fort Hill Five To Open Court Season Tonight

Meet Frostburg Teachers Reserves Here At Eight O'clock

Play Piedmont Tuesday and Petersburg High Next Friday

Coach Bobby Cavanaugh starts the ball rolling with his Fort Hill High School 1938-39 basketball edition tonight at the Sentinel court, and with the opening of the season Fort Hill supporters are hoping an extra bright court campaign will take the spotlight off the dull doings of the late football forces.

Fort Hill's first foe will be the Jayvees or reserves of Frostburg State Teachers College with the tipoff following a preliminary in which the reserves of Fort Hill will show their wares. The starting line-up for the Sentinels will be Frank Montgomery and "Chick" Snider at the forwards; Bill Wisegarver, center, Gerald Smith and Walter "Pooch" Orndorff at guards; Malamphy and Barley forwards; McCoy, center; and Homer Butts and Herman Twigg, guards, will be subject to first call to duty in event Cavanaugh has to resort to reserve help. Others on the squad subject to call are: Jack Cook, Bill Willetts, John Blades, Billy Dean, Jack Cornell, Junior Rice and Robert Butts.

Mel Henry will do the whistle-tooting for the tilt.

Play Two More Games

The Sentinels will see action in three more games before another week has rolled around with Piedmont High scheduled here next Tuesday and Petersburg High here next Friday. In Tuesday's preliminary Coach Leon Dissinger will trot forth his Junior High School quint against an opponent yet to be obtained. Chick Imes will referee the Sentinel-Piedmont game.

Friday's preliminary will see the Fort Hill girls' team in action against a visiting team while the Junior quint will also get in a game prior to the Sentinel clash with Petersburg. The girls' game will get going at 6:15 with the Juniors jumping into the picture at 7 o'clock.

Neil Memorial Is Awarded Dempsey

Ex-Champ Voted as Having Done Most for Boxing in '38

New York, Dec. 8. (AP)—The first Edward J. Neil memorial medal, perpetuating the memory of the grand boxing writer and Associated Press war correspondent who was killed in Spain a year ago, was awarded today to Jack Dempsey as the man who has done most for the fight game in 1938.

The New York Boxing Writers' Association, donor of the medal, made the award to the ex-heavyweight king after deciding it should go annually to the boxer, past or present, who has meant most to the sport in the current year.

Dempsey, as shy as a schoolboy, at first refused nomination for the award, protesting it should go to a fighter active in the game. However, Jack finally accepted after a discussion among the writers during which it was pointed out that such an action would be too confining.

Even when he finally accepted, Dempsey maintained he did not deserve it.

"I still think you're making a mistake, fellows," he told the writers. "Thanks a million, though. It's the finest thing I ever got."

The writers, balloting at their regular meeting, voted Henry Armstrong, only simultaneous three-division champion in fight history, honorable mention for the award.

Central Boys Face 20 More Cage Tilts

Lonaconig, Dec. 8—Twenty more games will be played by Coach John Armstrong's Central High boys' basketball team this season.

Coach Beverley Harrison's Orange and Black girls will figure in 19 more engagements, two less than the boys, as Petersburg, to be played by the boys December 20, do not have girls, teams. Neither does St. Peter's, Westernport, defeter last night 36-10, have a girls' team.

Both local outfits will meet Berlin, Hancock, Grantsville, Barton, Beall, Allegany, Bruce, Fort Hill and Piedmont in home-and-home tussles. Return games with Oakland are scheduled for December 16 at Lonaconing. The local girls humbled the Garrett countians 34-9 while the Central quintet lost to Oakland 22-16. The schedule follows:

Dec. 7—St. Peter's here (boys)
Dec. 13—Berlin, home
Dec. 16—Oakland, home
Dec. 20—Petersburg, away (boys)

Major League Deals Fail to Materialize

Moguls Moving North To Meet In Convention

Three-way Trade by Cubs And Giants Only Transaction

Giants Hot After Him but Other Clubs Would Buy Him

New Orleans, La., Dec. 8 (AP)—Anticipated wholesale swapping of baseball talent at the annual minor league assemblage failed to materialize today.

Rumors were plentiful but lacked confirmation on the second day of the 37th annual session of the National Association of Professional baseball Leagues, the principal scene of winter swapping. The trading moguls began departing tonight, many of them heading for New York for further conferences at the major league convention next week.

The Chicago Cubs, National League champions, and the New York Giants consummated the only major deal of the current winter scene in a transaction that sent three Cubs to the Giants in exchange for a like number of New York players.

Three Clubs Want Bonura

The major deal now pending involves Zeke Bonura, the hard-hitting Washington first baseman who apparently is headed for duty with the New York Giants if a few flaws can be overcome.

Before the Giants can buy Bonura he must be waived out of the American League. New York is faced with the problem of outbidding the Chicago Cubs and the Pittsburgh Pirates before President Clark Griffith of Washington can put him on the block. Three American League clubs earlier had refused to waive on Bonura but latest reports said only the Chicago White Sox, a team on which Bonura once played, were holding up proceedings.

It was understood Gabby Hartnett, Cub manager, wanted Bonura. The Giants need a first baseman badly and will turn to a deal that may involve Buddy Hassett of Brooklyn should they fail to get Bonura. The Pirates, reportedly ready to sell first-sacker Gus Suhr, also have an eye on Zeke.

While major league dealing lagged, the minor league forces made a number of deals and the association of 37 minor leagues, under the dirtction of President William G. Bramham took official action on a majority of submitted amendments.

Principal action was defeat of a proposed amendment that would have repealed a provision of the "Baltimore Agreement" preventing major league clubs signing sandlot players in a manner referred to by organized baseball's commissioner, K. M. Landis, as "subterfuge."

The minor leagues, with little debate, decided to stand pat on the present agreement which permits the practice of major league clubs signing sandlotters. An official said the consensus was that this angle involves a principle of "covering up" that would continue despite legislation to the contrary, "so why not let the bars down."

The minors had before them a proposal to limit affiliations by major league teams to one club in each league classification. This proposal, designed apparently to break up large "chain store" organizations, was refgerred to the major leagues and destined for tabling, sources said.

THEY FIGURE IN BASEBALL DEAL

First of several expected baseball deals to be completed involves the exchange of three star players by the New York Giants and Chicago Cubs. There was no cash involved, according to Phil Wrigley, owner of the Cubs. The deal sends Catcher Gus Mancuso, Infielder Dick Bartell and Outfielder Hank Lieber of the Giants to the Cubs for Catcher Ken O'Dea, Infielder Bill Jurges and Outfielder Frank Demaree. The details of the deal were worked out at the minor league meeting in New Orleans.

Frisch Not To Take Job At New Orleans

New Orleans, Dec. 8 (AP)—Frank Frisch, ex-manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, who came here shopping for a job, made it understood he would not come to New Orleans as pilot of the Pelicans.

Frisch said: "It's all right to say I'm not coming down here. I have a couple of propositions up along the line I want to consider. I've been in the big leagues 20 years and I think I owe it to myself to stay there."

Reliable reports said Frisch had been offered the local manager's job at $12,500 a year but now was considering a coaching assignment with a National league club where both the salary and the responsibility would be less than in New Orleans.

Another Passer Earns His Letter

Fort Madison, Ia., (AP)—Add forward passing accomplishments:—

Quarterback Schell of the Iowa State penitentiary football team completed 72 of 116 passes for 1,114 yards this fall. He averaged 15½ yards per pass and had only two tosses intercepted.

His team was undefeated in competition with Iowa semi-pro teams.

Scotty Riffle Is Kayoed By McVey

Fairmont, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP) — Sunny Jim McVey, 189, veteran Pittsburgh, Pa., negro heavyweight, knocked out Scotty Riffle, 183, of Morgantown, West Virginia heavyweight champion, in the third round of their scheduled 10-round bout here tonight.

Sunny Jim floored the champ twice in the second round and once in the third before sending him down for the count.

Yanks and Red Sox Best Whitewashers

Chicago, Dec. 8 (AP)—The best whitewashers in the American League during the 1938 baseball season turned out to be the New York Yankee and Boston Red Sox pitching staffs.

Records announced today by the league's service bureau showed Yankee hurlers had shut out rivals 11 times during the campaign, while the Red Sox recorded ten "whitewash" jobs. The Yanks were blanked only twice, and the Red Sox were humilated four times.

On the other end of the list were Jimmy Dykes' injury-riddled White Sox, who were shut out nine times during the season. Philadelphia, Washington and Cleveland were blanked seven times each.

The Whitewash "jinxes" of the year were those held by Yankee pitchers over Washington, Red Sox pitchers over Cleveland, Washington hurlers over Athletics and the Indians' staff over Detroit. In each case, these flingers registered three shut-outs over their rivals during the season.

McLeod Shares Lead In Senior Golf Tourney

Augusta, Ga., Dec. 8 (AP)—Otto Hackbarth of Cincinnati, with rounds of 80-74-154 and Fred McLeod of Chevy Chase, Md., with 75-79-154 tied today for first place in the final round of the annual senior's golf tournament.

The 18-hole playoff is scheduled for tomorrow.

Although Hackbarth three-putted the sixteenth and seventeenth he finished with a 74 to register the lowest score in the tourney.

Chicago Cubs Buy Hurler From Cards

St. Louis, Dec. 8 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals tonight announced the sale of pitcher Ray Harrell to the Chicago Cubs. The purchase price was not made public.

Harrell, a tall right hander, won two and lost three games for the Cards in 1938 and won three and lost seven in 1937. He has been in the Cardinal organization since 1933 but prior to 1937 was with "farm" clubs.

Little Things In Football Paid Big Dividends

One, Two and Three-Pointers Figured Prominently in Games

Undefeated Teams Found Safeties and Field Goals Help

Atlanta, Dec. 8 (AP)—The little things paid big dividends in football this season.

The one, two and three-pointers, resulting from points after touchdowns, safeties and field goals, brought victory or prevented defeat 236 times throughout the nation.

Gridmen, great and insignificant alike, can thank extra points for 123 triumphs and field goals for 48. They converted safeties into 22 victories, and turned defeat into 42 ties with points after. Two other safeties accounted for a freakish deadlock.

Accurate Toes

Accurate toes gained a firmer foothold as a scoring weapon. They booted 156 goals from the field, many in dramatic closing minutes, compared with 126 last year. Fifty-nine teams found they were not needed to win and 49 others kicked them in losing causes.

Safeties totaled 145, an increase of 24 over last year. Forty-eight were made by losing elevens and 73 others swelled already winning scores.

Several teams were involved in multiple uses of the three scoring weapons.

Tulane lost one and won one on field goals in addition to kicking two others which made no difference. Texas Tech kept its undefeated and untied status with an extra point once and with a field goal another time.

Oklahoma's unbeaten and untied Sooners trimmed Rice with a point after and kicked a field goal for a lead over Iowa State. Willard Hofer's 20-yarder beat Northwestern and helped keep Notre Dame unconquered until the Southern California game. The Irish also got a safety in defeating Navy.

Safety Caused Upset

Tennessee's unstopped Vols were in three games involving field goals and a safety.

Among nineteen 3-0 victories were those scored by Albama, Oregon, Rice, Louisiana State, Fordham and Manhattan.

A safety produced one of the south's major upsets, giving Florida a 9-7 win over Auburn. Michigan, Iowa State, George Washington and Rutgers also won games on the two-pointers.

Ties decreased to 157, compared with 187 last year and 174 in 1936. One-point victories dropped from 125 last year to 112 this season.

Tony Galento Opens Up a New Howl for Bout With Joe Louis

St. Louis, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Orange (N. J.) gift to boxing, beer-guzzling Tony Galento, set up renewed howls today for a chance at "that bum," Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world.

That was depite "the toughest fight I ever had," last night's knockout victory over Otis Thomas, rising young Chicago negro, in the ninth round of their scheduled 12-rounder.

"Two-ton" Tony almost lost to Thomas on fouls. Three rounds went to the negro on low blows from Tony's sledgelike fists—the first, seventh and eighth.

Referee Walter Heisner held up a warning finger in the seventh, and halted the bout in the eighth, threatening to award it to Thomas. Tony Tomacci, the negro's trainer, said Thomas would continue, but that a fourth unethical punch would not be forgiven.

Galento weighed 227; Thomas, 208.

By WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—The heads have started to roll.

Adrian Lindsey of Kansas is the latest football mentor to learn that you apparently can't build character with a losing football team. Naturally you can't build gate receipts either, but that detail doesn't enter the situation . . . or does it?

Lindsey, a stalwart, handsome man and a grand gent, was put on the pan midway in the late season. Although he was permitted to sizzle there until the campaign closed, he was given more consideration than his predecessor, Bill Hargiss, who was ousted midway in a season.

Joins Growing List

Lindsey joins a growing list of mentors who either already are on the outside looking in or on the inside looking worried. A glance at the won and lost records gives a fair hint as to their identies.

For instance, Lindsey's team this fall won three and lost six. Irl Tubbs, late of Iowa, had a team whose record showed one victory, one tie and six defeats. Oklahoma A. & M., under Ted Cox, won two and lost eight, and Cox also is adrift.

Naturally there are exceptions. Dana Bible, whose long, fat contract at Texas attracted national attention, had a season which was a great character builder. Major Lawrence "Biff" Jones, whose first season at Nebraska last year was marked by great success and whose second season was just marked, also was a victim of circumstances.

But both Bible and Jones have shown themselves to be top-notch mentors who can deliver when they have the material. The Biffer has the added advantage of being a member of the faculty. They haven't reached the point of firing the professor because the students flunked.

Material First Requisite

A coach's success usually hinges on material, a factor the late Knute Rockne realized only too well.

"They gave me an automobile after the 1927 season," he remarked. "After the 1928 season they wanted to take it back."

Every time a coach is ousted, it means another school will lose a coach who curently is riding the crest. For instance, Eddie Anderson goes to Iowa after a season at Holy Cross which included eight victories and one one-point defeat.

An exception is Kansas, where the wily Gwinn Henry, who used to patch up a Missouri team with baling wire and adhesive tape and send it out to lick Nebraska's powerhouse elevens when the Missourians were given only an outside chance of finishing the games. He adds the coaching job to that of athletic director.

And as a sharp contrast to a school's eagerness to get rid of a coach who has lost his winning ways is a schools' eagerness to hog-tie a mentor whose season is crowned by a bowl offer.

You couldn't pry Wallace Wade away from Duke, and Tom Stirham is so solid at Oklahoma after an undefeated season he couldn't be chipped by an offer.

Shockley En Route To South America For More Horses

New Orleans, Dec. 8 (AP) — Clarence Shockley, who brought the good racers Caballero II and Sahri II from Chile, is on his way to South America to look for a few more good prospects.

Shockley plans to visit the Argentine and Chile and expects to import four or possibly six South American thoroughbreds.

Ten of the 11 starters in last year's Jefferson Park Handicap at the Fair Grounds are back at the New Orleans track this winter. Several of them may start in the same race Saturday. Missing is the Millsdale Stable's Giant Killer, while E. H. Bartlett's Zevson will not be in condition to run.

Louis Title Bout On West Coast Called Off

San Francisco, Dec. 8—Convinced such a promotion was "too expensive," 1939 Fair officials had abandoned today all hope of a heavyweight title match between Joe Louis and an outstanding challenger, preferably a Californian, next summer.

Harris Connick, general manager of the Fair, had negotiated with Mike Jacobs, New York promoter, a few months ago and was told to guarantee $500,000 by December 20.

Yesterday Connick announced the fight was off.

Connick intimated, however, a fight between Max Baer and Lou Nova may be considered or else a middleweight title fight between Solly Kreiger and Fred Apostoli.

PIRATE MAGICIAN PLAYS HERE SUNDAY

Rated by Pittsburgh sports writers as the most clever ball-handler to be developed in the tri-state district in recent years, Walt Miller, above, former Duquesne University cager, will be at one of the forward posts in the Pittsburgh Pirates' starting lineup Sunday afternoon when the National Professional Basketball League crew squares off against the Cumberland Collegians in the SS. Peter & Paul School gym.

Miller closed a spectacular career under "Chick" Davies, who has been turning out remarkable teams at Duquesne for more than a decade, two years ago and has embbellished his bag of basketball tricks during his two seasons with the Pirates. He's been a leading point-getter in addition to astounding fans with his almost-magic dexterity in handling the ball so far this season and will bear close watching on the part of the Collegians during Sunday's engagement.

Morris Harvey Places Four On Conference Team

W. Va. State College Champs Honored by Scribes of Newspaper

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 8. (AP)—Morris Harvey's Golden Eagles, State College conference champions, placed four men on an all-conference football team selected tonight by the Charleston Gazette.

The newspaper, which conducted a poll of coaches of the 12 teams in the conference, said the mythical squad represented the "opinion of all the coaches in the conference."

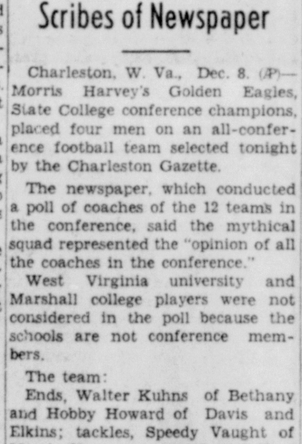

West Virginia university and Marshall college players were not considered in the poll because the schools are not conference members.

The team:

Ends, Walter Kuhns of Bethany and Hobby Howard of Davis and Elkins; tackles, Speedy Vaught of Morris Harvey (captain) and Paul Kendrach of Potomac State; guards, Bill Cobb of Morris Harvey and Patsy DiPasqualae of West Liberty; Center, Earl Bickel of Glenville; backs, Rex Mace and Bob Starrett of Morris Harvey; Jack Assay of Salem and Russell Porterfield of Glenville.

Fort Hill Five To Open Court Season Tonight

Play Piedmont Tuesday and Petersburg High Next Friday

Coach Bobby Cavanaugh starts the ball rolling with his Fort Hill High School 1938-39 basketball edition tonight at the Sentinel court, and with the opening of the season Fort Hill supporters are hoping an extra bright court campaign will take the spotlight off the dull doings of the late football forces.

Fort Hill's first foe will be the Jayvees or reserves of Frostburg State Teachers College with the tip-off following a preliminary in which the reserves of Fort Hill will show their wares. The starting line-up for the Sentinels will be Frank Montgomery and "Chick" Snider at the forwards; Bill Wisegarver, center, Gerald Smith and Walter "Pooch" Orndorff at guards; Malamphy and Barley forwards; McCoy, center; and Homer Butts and Herman Twigg, guards, will be subject to first call to duty in event Cavanaugh has to resort to reserve help. Others on the squad subject to call are: Jack Cook, Bill Willetts, John Blades, Billy Dean, Jack Cornell, Junior Rice and Robert Butts.

Mel Henry will do the whistle-tooting for the tilt.

Play Two More Games

The Sentinels will see action in three more games before another week has rolled around with Piedmont High scheduled here next Tuesday and Petersburg High here next Friday. In Tuesday's preliminary Coach Leon Dissinger will trot forth his Junior High School quint against an opponent yet to be obtained. Chick Imes will referee the Sentinel-Piedmont game.

Friday's preliminary will see the Fort Hill girls' team in action against a visiting team while the Junior quint will also get in a game prior to the Sentinel clash with Petersburg. The girls' game will get going at 6:15 with the Juniors jumping into the picture at 7 o'clock.

Cox Named Captain Of '39 Lehigh Eleven

Bethlehem, Pa., Dec. 8—Today's story of achievement in Lehigh University's gridiron lore deals with Alfred T. Cox, New York city junior, who three years ago was without any football experience and who now has been elected 1939 captain for the Engineers.

Neil Memorial Is Awarded Dempsey

Ex-Champ Voted as Having Done Most for Boxing in '38

New York, Dec. 8. (AP)—The first Edward J. Neil memorial medal, perpetuating the memory of the grand boxing writer and Associated Press war correspondent who was killed in Spain a year ago, was awarded today to Jack Dempsey as the man who has done most for the fight game in 1938.

The New York Boxing Writers' Association, donor of the medal, made the award to the ex-heavyweight king after deciding it should go annually to the boxer, past or present, who has meant most to the sport in the current year.

Dempsey, as shy as a schoolboy, at first refused nomination for the award, protesting it should go to a fighter active in the game. However, Jack finally accepted after a discussion among the writers during which it was pointed out that such an action would be too confining.

Even when he finally accepted, Dempsey maintained he did not deserve it.

"I still think you're making a mistake, fellows," he told the writers. "Thanks a million, though. It's the finest thing I ever got."

The writers, balloting at their regular meeting, voted Henry Armstrong, only simultaneous three-division champion in fight history, honorable mention for the award.

Central Boys Face 20 More Cage Tilts

Lonaconig, Dec. 8—Twenty more games will be played by Coach John Armstrong's Central High boys' basketball team this season.

Coach Beverley Harrison's Orange and Black girls will figure in 19 more engagements, two less than the boys, as Petersburg, to be played by the boys December 20, do not have girls, teams. Neither does St. Peter's, Westernport, defeter last night 36-10, have a girls' team.

Both local outfits will meet Berlin, Hancock, Grantsville, Barton, Beall, Allegany, Bruce, Fort Hill and Piedmont in home-and-home tussles. Return games with Oakland are scheduled for December 16 at Lonaconing. The local girls humbled the Garrett countians 34-9 while the Central quintet lost to Oakland 22-16. The schedule follows:

Dec. 7	St. Peter's here (boys)
Dec. 13	Berlin, home
Dec. 16	Oakland, home
Dec. 20	Petersburg, away (boys)

How much can you spend on him?

$2 up?

This is enough to get him the best-liked shirt in the world—an Arrow. Arrows have the handsomest collars made by man, and are Sanforized, guaranteed not to shrink. White or new patterns, $2 up.

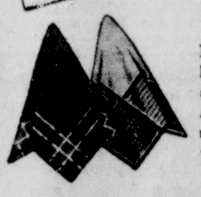

$1.00 up?

This will buy him a really distinguished tie. We mean our Arrow ties. They are not only well-tailored of rich fabrics, but the styles are the very latest out of America and Europe. $1 and $1.50.

65c or 75c?

For this amount we suggest Arrow shorts with their far-more-comfortable seamless seat and crotch. Absence of seam means absence of chafing, twisting and other bad habits. 65c up. (Tops, 50c up.)

25c or 50c?

No man ever has enough handkerchiefs to go with all his shirts and ties. He'll welcome some new Arrows, which come in attractive new designs and plain or initialed white. 25c, 35c, 50c and $1.

GOLFING, NOT TALKING SHOP

Bill Dickey and Grantland Rice

Brilliant Runs By Grid Players In the Northwest

Three Players Take Kick-offs and Run Over 100 Yards

Longest Run of Season Made by Tony Canadeo of Gonzaga

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—There must be something in the northwestern air conducive to long football runs, for three of the most spectacular sprints of the past college season were unreeled by scatter-footed backs of Gonzaga University in Spokane, Wash. They were for 105, 103 and 101 yards and all on the return of kickoffs.

Tony Canadeo, a sophomore back from Chicago, turned in two of these hair-raising sprints, the 105-yarder against Washington State and the 103 against Loyola. His teammate, Jim McGuire, caught the spirit of the thing and stepped off 101 yards against Idaho. Gonzaga, incidentally, lost all three games.

Jimmy Powers of Temple had better luck, his 102-yard kick-off return contributing to a sound beating of the Florida 'Gators. Lou Brock of Purdue gave Indiana a jolt from which it never recovered when he caught the opening kick-off and tore 98 yards for a touchdown.

Others who eluded the field on kick-off plays included Hal Stebbins, Pittsburgh, 97 yards; Spec Kelly, Auburn, 96; Ken Brown, Cornell, 95; and Emmett Wood, Navy, 94.

Lehigh Player Runs 102 Yards

Though the record, naturally, cannot be complete, Steve Smoke of Lehigh appears to have made the longest run from scrimmage. Against Penn State he grabbed a fumble behind his own goal line and didn't stop moving until he was 102 yards away. Jack Dodd, Nebraska halfback, broke up a Minnesota touchdown threat by filching the ball right out of an opposing back's arms and bustling 91 yards for a score.

Tom De Kellis of the Tempe (Ariz.) Teachers got off a 93-yard run from scrimmage against Whittier and Lou Zontini of Notre Dame broke away for 84 yards against Minnesota in one of the year's standout games.

Longest run-back of an intercepted pass has been credited to Dick Kearns of the University of Colorado, who speared a Denver aerial in his end zone and ran it 102 yards to score. The final whistle sounded while he was on his way up the field.

Long and Fancy Passing

Between Sid Luckman, Dave O'Brien, Sidat-Singh and others, there was plenty of long and fancy passing. If you're to believe all the stories of startled observers, some of Luckman's heaves traveled well over 60 yards on the fly. However, his longest attested scoring pass was one against Brown that went 30 yards from the scrimmage line in the air and the final 35 yards on the ground.

They tell about how O'Brien, in Texas Christian's game with Marquette, faded back nearly to midfield, dodging charging linesmen as he sought a receiver. Finally he spotted John Hall, a halfback, off to one side near the goal-line, and waved to Hall to cut to the right. Hall did and the ball floated into his arms in the end zone. My, my, this man O'Brien.

The field goal came back to supply some choice thrills, notably in the southwest. The Arkansas Razorbacks would rather not hear about it. Baylor beat them, 9-6, with a field goal in the last 30 seconds, and Rice repeated the dose, 3-0, with 50 seconds to go.

Rice paid for its sins, however. Guy Milner of Louisiana State place-kicked one from the 43-yard line in the final 25 seconds to pluck the Owls. Joe Pasqua of Southern Methodist, a substitute tackle, kicked one through the bars from 45 yards in subdue the Texas Aggies.

"Dutch" Lentz Sees More Woe For St. John's

Coach, However, Does Not Expect Court Team To Go Scoreless

Won Predicting Championship With "Dope" On His Grid Team

Annapolis, Dec. 8 (AP) — Coach Valentine (Dutch) Lentz of St. John's College, who is currently batting 1.000 in the prophecy league, took a quick gander at the crystal ball today and predicted a no-victory basketball season for the Johnnies.

Lentz won his predicting championship during the football season when he predicted the Johnnies wouldn't win a game, wouldn't score and would be lucky even to make a first down.

His prognostication tallied squarely with the season's outcome. The St. John's gridders didn't win a game. They didn't score. In their first three games they made three first downs, and failed to make a first down in one contest. The Magnificent Midgets, who averaged less than 150 pounds per man, ended the season gallantly by holding a heavily-favored Johns Hopkins squad to a scoreless tie.

Lentz said his trouble in basketball closely parallels his problems in football.

The candidates for the Johnnie hoop team are generally small. The squad lacks experience. Nelson Shawn, a guard, is the only letterman turning out. Many of the loopers never played basketball before, Lentz said.

"We'll probably better our football record," the local gloom merchant guessed, "I don't see how we can go through a basketball season without scoring. But I can't figure us to win any games."

Lardner Picks Packers Over Giants Sunday

60,000 to Watch Eastern, Western Pro-Champs Battle For Title

New York's Polo Grounds to Be Scene of Battle; Lambeau Comments

By JOHN LARDNER

(Copyright, 1938)

New York, Dec. 8—A crowd of close to 60,000 will watch the Green Bay Packers and the New York Giants play for the National Professional Football title Sunday. That's a good house. It ought to be a good ball game.

The best pro football crowd ever assembled in these parts was 70,000, lured to the stalls by the flaming fame of Harold "Red" Grange, the reformed ice-hustler of Wheaton, Ill., when he made his commercial debut. Grange drew the crowd single-duke. Interest in pro football, as such, was well under control. Few people would move more than a block out of their way to watch a Grange-less game.

Now the Packers and the Giants can play to 60,000 without having a single big box-office name on their combined rosters. They have some fine ball players—Herber, Hinkle, Hutson, Isbell, Cuff, Leemans, Danowski, Hein—but the average sports reader has to scratch his scalp a minute before he can remember where even half of those fellows played their college football. It's the kind of ball they play today that sells the tickets. If the ball parks were bigger, the crowd would be bigger than the 60,000 who will watch the Packers and Giants.

President Hutchins Approves

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, was guessing last week that pro football would sooner or later kill college football as a big-time business enterprise and put it back where he says it belongs, in the laps of the boys. The doctor appeared to relish the prospect. He has no use for high-pressure college football. I doubt if he plans to see many pro games himself, but anything that will remove the jingle from college ball has the doctor's warm approval.

Well, there is no immediate likelihood of the cash game killing the college game. The fans seem willing to pay their way into one contest on Saturday and another on Sunday. But, with those who have no fervent college attachments, who like to watch football for its own sake and are capable of loyalty to a home town institution, however commercial, as millions of baseball fans are loyal to the Reds, the Tigers, the Bees, or the Dodgers, pro football is making wide and rapid gains.

A Grange or a Nagurski or a Sammy Baugh will still help at the gate on the strength of his single reputation. So will a Ruth or a Dean or a Di Maggio. But the Packers and Giants prove that the individual star is not absolutely necessary. They are both solid ball clubs. Their players were outstanding in college, but not now. They are merely sound and above the average.

Flying In The Face Of Facts

We will now get down to the business of the meeting, which is to decide whether the Packers will win by one touchdown or two. The Giants are slightly favored, because they beat Green Bay the last time out and because they swamped Mr. George Preston Marshall's wellaundered Washington club last Sunday by 36 to 0. Those are the facts, and we will do some flying in the face of them, in formation.

The Giants beat the Packers three weeks ago by 15 to 3. They were severely outstatisticked, the first down count, as I remember it, being 21 to 6 for Green Bay. When I saw the Packers the week before, mowing down Detroit, I thought they were unbeatable, and I still think so—for blue chips. Those white chips are only a nickel apiece.

That doesn't mean that the Green Bays loafed in the Giant game. But, with the western title practically in their pockets, they could have had the same kind of let-down that the Yankees had lost summer after they clinched the pennant. You remember that, when the world series came around, the Yankees were able to make a stab at playing baseball.

Mr. Curley Lambeau, the Green Bay mastermind, comes out of the west promising to chop the Giants into small pieces and sell them for bait. He has his best catcher, Don Hutson, back in action, to reach for those throws of Herber's and Isbell's. The whole squad is in good shape, and Mr. Lambeau does not believe that Mr. Timothy Mara's Giants are too hot to touch, though Mr. Mara's employes have not been beaten in their last eight starts.

"This is a good, deep Giant team," concedes the Green Bay ringmaster, "with a strong line, or two lines, and a lot of backs who can move the ball by land. Steve Owen has a fine pass defense, too. They were catching everything that Washington threw last week.

"But we will give 'em something a little tougher to handle than Washington. The Giants play for breaks. The thing to do is not give 'em any breaks. What do you think I've got here, a high school team? These boys have been around, and they want the title and what goes with it. They'll take some stopping."

This department casts one docile vote for the Lambeau ticket.

Allegany Given Top Ranking In Gridiron Wars

Keyser High Close Second In Ratings of Teams In Section

BETTER WON-LOST RECORD THAN AHS

But Lost to Campobello Clan--Romney School Is Third

Allegany High School's football team retained sectional honors during the 1938 season according to figures based on comparative scores and calibre of opposition.

Although the Keyser High Tordano had a better won and lost record than the Campers, winning eight of nine as compared with Allegany's eight victories in ten starts, the West Virginians were decisively beaten by the Blue and White 20-6. This win was all that was needed to give Coach Herman Ball's city and Cumberland Valley Athletic League champions additional honors.

The calibre of Allegany's foes was considered higher than that of Keyser, which captured the Potomac Valley Conference title for the second successive year with an unscored on record.

The undefeated West Virginia Deaf School eleven of Romney easily captured third place with four victories and two ties. Again the calibre of the opposition had to be taken into consideration.

The Parsons High Panthers were awarded fourth place. Coach Myrl Kepner's boys won six games and lost three with all their defeats at the hands of top-notch crews—Greenbank 14-6, Elkins 38-6, and Keyser 25-0.

Davis, LaSalle, Fort Hill, Ridgeley and Moorefield appeared to be of the same strength. Davis and Fort Hill each were tied by the North Enders, Ridgeley knotted Moorefield and the Deaf School, while Moorefield was deadlocked by Piedmont in addition to Ridgeley.

Keyser compiled the best offensive record, scoring 204 points in nine tussles or one more than did Allegany in ten battles. The Golden Tornado also had the best defensive record with Piedmont close behind. Coach Homer Fizer's Valley Conference champs yielded 26 points or almost three per game while Piedmont allowed 21 markers or exactly three each contest.

LaSalle yielded the most counters, 237, while Hyndman made the fewest, eight. Season records of teams in this section, arranged according to comparative strength, follow:

	W.	L.	T.	Pts.	Opp. Pts.
Allegany	8	2	0	203	49
Keyser	8	1	0	204	26

Tri-Towns Netmen Form Tennis Club

Westernport, Dec. 8. — Byron Hamer was elected chairman and Edward Layton secretary of the Potomac Tennis Club which was organized this week. The purpose of the organization is to promote tennis in the Tri-Towns and Allegany county.

Two double courts for the club's use are sponsored by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper company. The courts are located at the east end of Memorial Park, Westernport, and were recently completed. The quota of membership, which is limited to thirty, has been filled.

This Press Agent Is Really Accurate

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 8 (AP)—Accuracy plus—that's the motto of Hugh Higgins, Creighton university director of public relations.

Before the 1938 football season started, Higgins wrote that Creighton had a 50-50 chance to beat Drake and Oklahoma A. and M. probably would lose to West Virginia and should beat South Dakota, Wichita, St. Benedict's Loyola of the South and North Dakota State.

The record:

Creighton tied Drake, beat Oklahoma A. and M. with a late rally, lost to West Virginia and beat the other five teams.

THE RUNNER TAKES WINCHESTER PURSE

Beats Star Mint in Feature With Mattapony Third

Charles Town, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—A few lucky spectators won $340 for $2 today in one of the biggest daily doubles of the season.

The winning combination was F. Hrovat's Johnny Bane and E. P. Haslup's Bill Bleiweiss. Bane paid $39.60 in the second and Bleiweiss paid $16.60 in the third.

A. Della Porta's The Runner won the Winchester Purse of $500 in the fourth and feature race before a crowd of 5,000. The favorite paid $4.00.

The Runner led a half dozen sprinters going to the first turn. He started loafing as he turned for home but moved out again when E. K. Hillman's Star Mint joined him. The Runner was three parts of a length ahead at the finish.

Third place went to Mattapony.

Brilliant Runs By Grid Players In the Northwest

Three Players Take Kick-offs and Run Over 100 Yards

Longest Run of Season Made by Tony Canadeo of Gonzaga

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—There must be something in the northwestern air conducive to long football runs, for three of the most spectacular sprints of the past college season were unreeled by scatter-footed backs of Gonzaga University in Spokane, Wash. They were for 105, 103 and 101 yards and all on the return of kickoffs.

Tony Canadeo, a sophomore back from Chicago, turned in two of these hair-raising sprints, the 105-yarder against Washington State and the 103 against Loyola. His teammate, Jim McGuire, caught the spirit of the thing and stepped off 101 yards against Idaho. Gonzaga, incidentally, lost all three games.

Jimmy Powers of Temple had better luck, his 102-yard kick-off return contributing to a sound beating of the Florida 'Gators. Lou Brock of Purdue gave Indiana a jolt from which it never recovered when he caught the opening kick-off and tore 98 yards for a touchdown.

Others who eluded the field on kick-off plays included Hal Stebbins, Pittsburgh, 97 yards; Spec Kelly, Auburn, 96; Ken Brown, Cornell, 95; and Emmett Wood, Navy, 94.

Lehigh Player Runs 102 Yards

Though the record, naturally, cannot be complete, Steve Smoke of Lehigh appears to have made the longest run from scrimmage. Against Penn State he grabbed a fumble behind his own goal line and didn't stop moving until he was 102 yards away. Jack Dodd, Nebraska halfback, broke up a Minnesota touchdown threat by filching the ball right out of an opposing back's arms and bustling 91 yards for a score.

Tom De Kellis of the Tempe (Ariz.) Teachers got off a 93-yard run from scrimmage against Whittier and Lou Zontini of Notre Dame broke away for 84 yards against Minnesota in one of the year's standout games.

Longest run-back of an intercepted pass has been credited to Dick Kearns of the University of Colorado, who speared a Denver aerial in his end zone and ran it 102 yards to score. The final whistle sounded while he was on his way up the field.

Long and Fancy Passing

Between Sid Luckman, Dave O'Brien, Sidat-Singh and others, there was plenty of long and fancy passing. If you're to believe all the stories of startled observers, some of Luckman's heaves traveled well over 60 yards on the fly. However, his longest attested scoring pass was one against Brown that went 30 yards from the scrimmage line in the air and the final 35 yards on the ground.

They tell about how O'Brien, in Texas Christian's game with Marquette, faded back nearly to midfield, dodging charging linesmen as he sought a receiver. Finally he spotted John Hall, a halfback, off to one side near the goal-line, and waved to Hall to cut to the right. Hall did and the ball floated into his arms in the end zone. My, my, this man O'Brien.

The field goal came back to supply some choice thrills, notably in the southwest. The Arkansas Razorbacks would rather not hear about it. Baylor beat them, 9-6, with a field goal in the last 30 seconds, and Rice repeated the dose, 3-0, with 50 seconds to go.

Rice paid for its sins, however. Guy Milner of Louisiana State place-kicked one from the 43-yard line in the final 25 seconds to pluck the Owls. Joe Pasqua of Southern Methodist, a substitute tackle, kicked one through the bars from 45 yards in subdue the Texas Aggies.

"Dutch" Lentz Sees More Woe For St. John's

Coach, However, Does Not Expect Court Team To Go Scoreless

Won Predicting Championship With "Dope" On His Grid Team

Annapolis, Dec. 8 (AP) — Coach Valentine (Dutch) Lentz of St. John's College, who is currently batting 1.000 in the prophecy league, took a quick gander at the crystal ball today and predicted a no-victory basketball season for the Johnnies.

Lentz won his predicting championship during the football season when he predicted the Johnnies wouldn't win a game, wouldn't score and would be lucky even to make a first down.

His prognostication tallied squarely with the season's outcome. The St. John's gridders didn't win a game. They didn't score. In their first three games they made three first downs, and failed to make a first down in one contest. The Magnificent Midgets, who averaged less than 150 pounds per man, ended the season gallantly by holding a heavily-favored Johns Hopkins squad to a scoreless tie.

Lentz said his trouble in basketball closely parallels his problems in football.

The candidates for the Johnnie hoop team are generally small. The squad lacks experience. Nelson Shawn, a guard, is the only letterman turning out. Many of the loopers never played basketball before, Lentz said.

"We'll probably better our football record," the local gloom merchant guessed, "I don't see how we can go through a basketball season without scoring. But I can't figure us to win any games."

Lardner Picks Packers Over Giants Sunday

60,000 to Watch Eastern, Western Pro-Champs Battle For Title

New York's Polo Grounds to Be Scene of Battle; Lambeau Comments

By JOHN LARDNER

(Copyright, 1938)

New York, Dec. 8—A crowd of close to 60,000 will watch the Green Bay Packers and the New York Giants play for the National Professional Football title Sunday. That's a good house. It ought to be a good ball game.

The best pro football crowd ever assembled in these parts was 70,000, lured to the stalls by the flaming fame of Harold "Red" Grange, the reformed ice-hustler of Wheaton, Ill., when he made his commercial debut. Grange drew the crowd single-duke. Interest in pro football, as such, was well under control. Few people would move more than a block out of their way to watch a Grange-less game.

Now the Packers and the Giants can play to 60,000 without having a single big box-office name on their combined rosters. They have some fine ball players—Herber, Hinkle, Hutson, Isbell, Cuff, Leemans, Danowski, Hein—but the average sports reader has to scratch his scalp a minute before he can remember where even half of those fellows played their college football. It's the kind of ball they play today that sells the tickets. If the ball parks were bigger, the crowd would be bigger than the 60,000 who will watch the Packers and Giants.

President Hutchins Approves

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, was guessing last week that pro football would sooner or later kill college football as a big-time business enterprise and put it back where he says it belongs, in the laps of the boys. The doctor appeared to relish the prospect. He has no use for high-pressure college football. I doubt if he plans to see many pro games himself, but anything that will remove the jingle from college ball has the doctor's warm approval.

Well, there is no immediate likelihood of the cash game killing the college game. The fans seem willing to pay their way into one contest on Saturday and another on Sunday. But, with those who have no fervent college attachments, who like to watch football for its own sake and are capable of loyalty to a home town institution, however commercial, as millions of baseball fans are loyal to the Reds, the Tigers, the Bees, or the Dodgers, pro football is making wide and rapid gains.

A Grange or a Nagurski or a Sammy Baugh will still help at the gate on the strength of his single reputation. So will a Ruth or a Dean or a Di Maggio. But the Packers and Giants prove that the individual star is not absolutely necessary. They are both solid ball clubs. Their players were outstanding in college, but not now. They are merely sound and above the average.

Flying In The Face Of Facts

We will now get down to the business of the meeting, which is to decide whether the Packers will win by one touchdown or two. The Giants are slightly favored, because they beat Green Bay the last time out and because they swamped Mr. George Preston Marshall's well-laundered Washington club last Sunday by 36 to 0. Those are the facts, and we will do some flying in the face of them, in formation.

The Giants beat the Packers three weeks ago by 15 to 3. They were severely outstatisticked, the first down count, as I remember it, being 21 to 6 for Green Bay. When I saw the Packers the week before, mowing down Detroit, I thought they were unbeatable, and I still think so—for blue chips. Those white chips are only a nickel apiece.

That doesn't mean that the Green Bays loafed in the Giant game. But, with the western title practically in their pockets, they could have had the same kind of let-down that the Yankees had lost summer after they clinched the pennant. You remember that, when the world series came around, the Yankees were able to make a stab at playing baseball.

Mr. Curley Lambeau, the Green Bay mastermind, comes out of the west promising to chop the Giants into small pieces and sell them for bait. He has his best catcher, Don Hutson, back in action, to reach for those throws of Herber's and Isbell's. The whole squad is in good shape, and Mr. Lambeau does not believe that Mr. Timothy Mara's Giants are too hot to touch, though Mr. Mara's employes have not been beaten in their last eight starts.

"This is a good, deep Giant team," concedes the Green Bay ringmaster, "with a strong line, or two lines, and a lot of backs who can move the ball by land. Steve Owen has a fine pass defense, too. They were catching everything that Washington threw last week.

"But we will give 'em something a little tougher to handle than Washington. The Giants play for breaks. The thing to do is not give 'em any breaks. What do you think I've got here, a high school team? These boys have been around, and they want the title and what goes with it. They'll take some stopping."

This department casts one docile vote for the Lambeau ticket.

Allegany Given Top Ranking In Gridiron Wars

BETTER WON-LOST RECORD THAN AHS

But Lost to Campobello Clan--Romney School Is Third

Allegany High School's football team retained sectional honors during the 1938 season according to figures based on comparative scores and calibre of opposition.

Although the Keyser High Tordano had a better won and lost record than the Campers, winning eight of nine as compared with Allegany's eight victories in ten starts, the West Virginians were decisively beaten by the Blue and White 20-6. This win was all that was needed to give Coach Herman Ball's city and Cumberland Valley Athletic League champions additional honors.

The calibre of Allegany's foes was considered higher than that of Keyser, which captured the Potomac Valley Conference title for the second successive year with an unscored on record.

The undefeated West Virginia Deaf School eleven of Romney easily captured third place with four victories and two ties. Again the calibre of the opposition had to be taken into consideration.

The Parsons High Panthers were awarded fourth place. Coach Myrl Kepner's boys won six games and lost three with all their defeats at the hands of top-notch crews—Greenbank 14-6, Elkins 38-6, and Keyser 25-0.

Davis, LaSalle, Fort Hill, Ridgeley and Moorefield appeared to be of the same strength. Davis and Fort Hill each were tied by the North Enders, Ridgeley knotted Moorefield and the Deaf School, while Moorefield was deadlocked by Piedmont in addition to Ridgeley.

Keyser compiled the best offensive record, scoring 204 points in nine tussles or one more than did Allegany in ten battles. The Golden Tornado also had the best defensive record with Piedmont close behind. Coach Homer Fizer's Valley Conference champs yielded 26 points or almost three per game while Piedmont allowed 21 markers or exactly three each contest.

LaSalle yielded the most counters, 237, while Hyndman made the fewest, eight. Season records of teams in this section, arranged according to comparative strength, follow:

	W.	L.	T.	Pts.	Opp. Pts.
Allegany	8	2	0	203	49

Tri-Towns Netmen Form Tennis Club

Westernport, Dec. 8. — Byron Hamer was elected chairman and Edward Layton secretary of the Potomac Tennis Club which was organized this week. The purpose of the organization is to promote tennis in the Tri-Towns and Allegany county.

Two double courts for the club's use are sponsored by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper company. The courts are located at the east end of Memorial Park, Westernport, and were recently completed. The quota of membership, which is limited to thirty, has been filled.

This Press Agent Is Really Accurate

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 8 (AP)—Accuracy plus—that's the motto of Hugh Higgins, Creighton university director of public relations.

Before the 1938 football season started, Higgins wrote that Creighton had a 50-50 chance to beat Drake and Oklahoma A. and M. probably would lose to West Virginia and should beat South Dakota, Wichita, St. Benedict's Loyola of the South and North Dakota State.

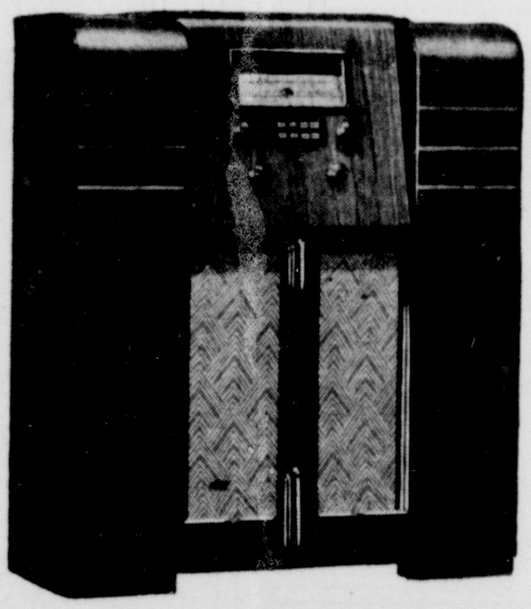

The record:

Creighton tied Drake, beat Oklahoma A. and M. with a late rally, lost to West Virginia and beat the other five teams.

CIO Convention Re-elects Jones As Council Head

Opposition Develops In Naming Official From Celanese Local

DUNDON WINS OUT OVER SCHUSTERMAN

Unions Die From Within, Jones Warns Group, After Election

John T. Jones was re-elected president of the Maryland and District of Columbia Industrial Union Council by acclamation of the convention yesterday afternoon in State armory.

Delegates stood to cheer and pound on the tables as Vice-President Ralph Beard, temporarily in the chair, called for the vote of acclamation.

A similar demonstration was staged when Sidney R. Katz, of Washington, representative of the Federal Workers Union, was re-elected secretary-treasurer of the council, also by acclamation.

Celanese Union Divided

The only indication of lack of harmony in CIO ranks came a few minutes after these demonstrations of unity when Arthur Shusterman and James Dundon were nominated as opposing candidates for one of the 13 vice-president jobs.

According to the council constitution, no one international union can be represented by more than one vice-president.

It was regarded as an indication of a union split into two factions, then, when Schusterman, president of Celanese union, was opposed by friends of Dundon, a past president of the local.

Caucus Splits Even

Schusterman was nominated by Delegate Coleman, who said the caucus of textile workers was split even on their choice for vice-president. He said the policy started when Dundon was elected vice-president of the council while president of his local should be continued with Schusterman's election as vice-president because he is now local president.

Delegate Edward Witt, former Celanese employe, now connected with the labor movement in Baltimore, came forward to urge the retention of Dundon as vice-president.

"There's not one blotch against this man's record," he said. "He stood shoulder to shoulder with me on the Celanese picket line. It would be impossible to replace him with a better man."

Dundon Declines

Immediately after he had been nominated, Dundon took the floor, saying he had just entered the convention hall a few minutes before.

"We deplore and regret that a situation like this has developed upon the convention floor," he said.

"Evidently there is a factional dispute being brought out here that really does not exist.

"Had I been present sooner, this would not have happened. With but one thought in mind, I take this opportunity to decline the nomination.

"I further feel that my action will not remedy the situation. I ask those who have opposed me to be as white as I have been, and that Mr. Shusterman withdraw his candidacy, too. Let our delegation go back and pick someone impartial to represent them on this board."

Schusterman Nominates Dundon

The delegation later withdrew in caucus, and when it returned, Schusterman took the floor to withdraw his candidacy and renominate Dundon.

"This movement is bigger, more important than the individual," he declared. "The caucus has decided this is the way it was to be done—the democratic way."

Dundon was one of the 13 nominated for the 13 vice-president jobs, and all were later elected by acclamation.

Others from Allegany county who were elected vice-presidents are Ralph Beard, of the United Rubber Workers; Lindley Dye, of Barton, United Mine Workers; Norman R. Hast, United Auto Workers; and Mrs. Bernadette Trost, of the laundry workers, first woman to be elected vice-president.

In his acceptance speech, the new president asked for the full support of the rank and file.

"Each member assumes responsibility along with me," he declared. "There is no room for factions, because the labor movement is greater than all factions.

"The history of the labor movement is that when unions have gone by the board, then they have been destroyed from within and not by attacks from without.

"I am not unmindful," he said, "that in this free state of Maryland we will meet great opposition in advocating the rights of the people who toil."

He pledged support of the mine workers, saying that their closed shop gave them strength to help other CIO unions weakened by jurisdictional disputes.

Among the things the council will fight for in the coming year, he said, would be unemployment compensation for domestic servants.

Secretary-Treasurer Katz, called upon for a speech after his re-election, said, "It will require the best kind of CIO we can create to face the problems we must face.

"There are a lot of professional people paid to misinterpret the news, and they have given the opposition courage, and now they are riding high.

"We must make articulate the feelings of the people of this progressive state who want good labor legislatio"

Town Hall Players Open Winter Season Tonight at 8:40

The Town Hall Players first production of the season will be given tonight at 8:40 p. m. in SS. Peter and Paul Hall. Tickets will be sold at the door.

The play is a psychological melodrama, according to Director Carl Low, in which a gangster takes over a professor's home for a hideout, kills the professor's friend, and is eventually destroyed by the professor's psychology.

In the cast are Mr. Low, Anne Frances Whiting, Louise Youngblood Moore, Jack Moore, Margaret Witherup, Salena Sharp, Jack Wentz, Hugh Shires, Joe Calvetto, and Jimmy Barrow. William Kight is stage manager.

Deaths

James Finan

Joseph B. Finan and Bart J. Finan went to Zanesville, Ohio, yesterday, where the former's brother, James Finan, 79, died early Wednesday. The body will be brought to his brother's home, 327 Washington street, this evening, and a requiem high mass will be said at 9 a. m. Saturday in St. Patrick's Church, followed by burial in the church cemetery.

A requiem high mass will be sung today at St. Thomas's Church, Zanesville, by a nephew, the Rev. Joseph Finan, of Monroe county, Ohio.

Mrs. Gilbert Stump Everett

Mrs. Gilbert Stump Everett, Christy road, died yesterday afternoon at her home following a three months illness. She was 29.

Surviving, besides her husband, are four children, Virginia, Helen, Violet and Ray, and a step-daughter, Daisy, all of Cumberland.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Wilt

Mrs. Sarah Ann Wilt, widow of Peter M. Wilt, died Wednesday at Sylvan Retreat, near Cumberland. She was 89.

She was a daughter of the late John and Emily Crowe, of Westernport.

Surviving are four sons, Thomas and Benjamin, both of Westernport! Peter, Jr., of Garrett county; and Floyd, of Eckhart, and one daughter, Mrs. Harvey Warnick, also of Westernport. She was a sister of Silas Crowe, of Cumberland, and Miss Jane Crowe and Miss Heiland Crowe, of Lonaconing.

Mrs. Laura May Browning

Mrs. Laura May Browning, of Flintstone, wife of the late Martin L. Browning, died yesterday evening at her home. She was 70.

A native of Flintstone, Mrs. Browning was a daughter of the late John B. and Mary E. Robinette, one of the first families to settle in Flintstone. She operated the Robinette store which has been in that family for three generations and was a member of the Presbyterian Church of Cumberland.

Surviving are a daughter, Leah B. Twigg, widow of the late Guy T. Twigg; two brothers, Charles Robinette, of Flintstone, and Wade, of Erie, Pa.; a sister, Mrs. B. M. Hinkle, of Cumberland, and two grandchildren.

Free Medical Care Urged At Convention

"The health problems of today must be met collectively," Louis S. Reed, of the Social Security office in Washington, told delegates to the CIO convention yesterday afternoon.

He explained to them the report on health needs of the nation recently made to President Rosevelt, and urged that the CIO unions back up the president in carrying out the following recommendations: More federal money for public health; more federal money for hospitals; and compulsory health insurance, or free medical care for all.

Medical care, he declared, is still a commodity which can be purchased only by those with money.

Many Americans suffer and die, he said, because they still cannot afford proper medical care.

Christmas Toy Led Him to Crime, Says Man, 25, in County Jail

It was an unlucky day for Donald E. Stine, 25-year-old Hagerstown shoemaker, when Santa Claus brought his nephews a toy casting set last Christmas.

Because he liked to play slot machines and because he used his nephews' apparatus — designed to manufacture toy soldiers and the like—to make slugs to go in the slot machines, he was being held in Allegany county jail today for the action of a federal grand jury.

At a hearing yesterday before United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett, he pleaded guilty to a charge of counterfeiting and was ordered held for the grand jury at the May term of United States district court.

He was committed to jail in default of $500 bond.

Specifically, he was accused of manufacturing, possessing, and passing five-cent coins in violation of federal statutes.

The bogus coins were a crude job and could hardly have been used for any purpose except slot machines. The Indian on one side of the nickel was fairly-well defined, but the other side was virtually blank. He had manufactured about a hundred of them, James H. Dickerson, of the U. S. Secret Service said.

He was brought here from Hagerstown by U. S. Deputy Marshal Howard P. Loughrie.

Hagerstown authorities who assisted in the case were William H. Peters, captain of detectives, and Officer Howard R. Maugans.

The case was the first heard by Mr. Avirett since his appointment as commissioner early this week.

The hearing was held here because D. Angle Wolfinger, U. S. commissioner at Hagerstown, was in Washington, where his wife and daughter are recovering from injuries received in a recent automobile accident. Mr. Wolfinger was also in the accident, which was said to have happened near Washington, but was not seriously injured.

Crash in Fog Fatal to Driver

Injuries received early Sunday when his struck left the Uhl highway in a dense fog and overturned proved fatal yesterday to Harry B. Hook Jr., of Paw Paw, W. Va.

Hook, 27-year-old fruit dealer, died yesterday morning in Memorial hospital. He had never regained consciousness.

He had been in Cumberland Saturday and was en route home when his truck left the road near Picardy, crashed into an embankment and overturned. He had apparently been unable to see on account of the fog which blanketed the countryside.

He lay pinioned beneath the truck for several hours before discovered and brought to the hospital by a passing motorist.

Steeplejack Jailed For Christmas Season

Frank L. Lemon, steeple-jack, settled down to spend the next 25 days in jail.

Arrested on charges of being drunk and disorderly, Lemon appeared yesterday in Police Court, minus Rev. Clark batting for him, and was fined $25 and in default was committed to spend the Christmas season in jail.

Spending most of his time in jail, Lemon was apprehended Wednesday by Officers Fred Neus and Frank Zwaski after he engaged in a fight near Front street.

He gave his latest address as Allegany Inn.

29 More Dropped From WPA Rolls

WPA rolls were reduced further during the past week when 29 workers went back to private employment, Henry Tarring, Jr., resident engineer, announced.

The total for the county is now 3,212, with 1,201 of that number employed on city projects.

Welfare officials announced Wednesday that 415 more persons have been certified for WPA in this county to date, but that none of them have been taken on by WPA because of lack of funds.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Crabtree, 346 Central avenue, announce the birth of a daughter yesterday morning at Memorial hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. John Billmeyer, of Ridgeley, announce the birth of a daughter yesterday morning at Allegany hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ren Runion, of Barton, announce the birth of a daughter Wednesday night at Memorial hospital.

Drunk Driver Gets 31 Days

Police continued their holiday campaign against highway accidents yesterday by bringing into court a motorist who was convicted of drunken driving, two speeders, and one driver accused of having faulty brakes.

Thomas C. DeLaney, of Eckhart, Md., was fined $101 in People's Court for reckless and drunken driving and in default was committed to 31 days in the County jail. He was arrested on the Queen City pavement by Officers C. C. Roby and F. O. Daum.

Floyd Biggs, 152 Wineow street, pleaded guilty to charges of operating a car with inadequate brakes and without a license. In default of fines amounting to $15.50, he was sentenced to 15 days in jail. State Trooper Carl G. Storm made the arrest.

Melvin E. Smith, Valley road, arrested on Henderson Blvd. for speeding and failure to stop at stop-signs by Officers Carl Stouffer and R. C. Cassen, was fined $5 in Police Court.

Paul Hendrickson, 3 Hazel road, forfeited a $10 bond in the same court on a charge similar to Smith's.

Community Chest Board Elects Executives

The Board of Directors of the Cumberland Community Chest met last night to elect officers and an executive committee.

Harold W. Smith was named president; Charles L. Kopp, vice-president; Harvey H. Weiss, treasurer; and Roy W. Eves, secretary.

These officers will serve on the executive committee together with Dr. A. H. Hawkins, Dr. A. P. Dixon, Mrs. Robert R. Henderson, William Groves, and William Milne.

Divorce Granted

Catherine Wilson Hinkle has been granted a divorce from John M. Hinkle in Circuit court. The plaintiff, a beauty shop operator, received permission to assume the name of Miss Catherine Hinkle. Edward J. Ryan was attorney for both parties to the suit.

You can't always blame the fatal accident on the car. There were forty-five persons killed in Maryland in November in auto accidents. Although fifty-two autos were involved in these accidents, only five of them were reported defective in any way. As the old joke has it, its the nut behind the wheel that's to blame.

— o —

At that, the death toll in Maryland is down from 518 at this time last year to only 377 this year.

That case of the Pittsburgh man who married his son's widow here Wednesday created considerable discussion around the court house yesterday.

Joe Boden, deputy clerk of the Circuit court, pointed out that Maryland law permits marriage of first cousins, but forbids marriage of persons more remotely related.

Most, if not all, other states forbid marriage of first cousins, it was said.

John Price, another deputy clerk, explained that Maryland statutes limiting the degree of relationship within which persons can marry were based on old Mosaic law.

Legislators back in the old days were avid Bible readers, he said.

Mr. Price, himself a student of the Bible and law, referred reporters to Chapter 18 of Leviticus, which prohibits marriage of various persons.

The prohibition against marriage of a man to his daughter-in-law is found in the fifteenth verse of the chapter.

We'd be glad to quote it for you and save you the trouble of looking it up, but the censor frowned and said it was "risque."

In order to keep any of our readers from finding themselves in the dilemma of our Pittsburgh friends, here's the list of "shall nots" in Article 62 of the Maryland code, which pertains to marriage:

So now you know. . . .

"We couldn't be there when we weren't invited, could we?"

Brave Pioneers Needed Today, Says Professor

Tells Lions Club That America Still Has Many Frontiers

There are still frontiers to meet the demand of America's "Go West complex," Dr. William H. Coleman told members and guests of the Cumberland Lions club last night.

The geographical frontier is gone and the industrial frontier has been circumscribed, he said, but there are still other frontiers to be explored.

Among them he suggested "exploration of the human mind and spirit," a shift from the science of living" to the "art of living."

Charter Night Anniversary

Dr. Coleman, professor of English at Bucknell university, was the principal speaker at the seventh charter night anniversary banquet of the Lions club, held at the new Ali Ghan Shrine Country club.

Back in the days when there was new territory to be developed and our industrial life was keyed to a high pitch, there was ample satisfaction of the "Go West complex," Dr. Coleman declared.

Today, those frontiers are largely gone and Americans are restless, wondering where to turn, he continued.

He took issue, however, with those holding that there are no more frontiers.

Many Frontiers

New frontiers to be conquered are legion, he asserted.

Problems he listed as in need of solving included housing, conservation of national resources and preservation of democracy.

There is a vast deficiency of homes in the United States, he told the Lions. At least 15,000,000 homes are needed.

Preservation and development of our national domain, with emphasis on more recreation areas for the masses, was also urged by the speaker.

Turning to the problem of youth, growing up in a world rife with conflicting "isms," he advocates that principles of American democracy be inculcated into youth by the schools at an early age.

Education Needed

"We must educate the masses in the principles of our government," he declared. "If this is to be 'a government of the people, by the people, and for the people,' we must educate them so that they are capable of governing themselves."

Dr. Coleman took occasion to praise the New Deal for its development of "social consciousness."

"We may differ with its method he said, "but its awakening of emphasis on the common man is a healthy trend."

The speaker was introduced by William Torkington, a former student at Bucknell. Dr. L. E. Daugherty, president, presided, and Thomas L. Richards acted as toastmaster.

Two Men Face Hearing On Disorderly Charge

Howard "Red" Bush, boxer and textile worker, and William R. Sheckler, Central Y.M.C.A. garage employe, were scheduled to be given a hearing in Police court today on charges of disorderly conduct.

They were said to have been in a fight at the Union club, Mechanic street, early yesterday morning.

CIO officials told reporters after the affair that Buch was one of three delegates to the CIO convention attacked on the street by unknown assailants who fled in a car.

Officials and delegates later denied that such an incident had occurred.

Both Buch, 101 Humbird street, and Sheckler were freed under bond of $10.

CIO Convention Re-elects Jones As Council Head

DUNDON WINS OUT OVER SCHUSTERMAN

Unions Die From Within, Jones Warns Group, After Election

John T. Jones was re-elected president of the Maryland and District of Columbia Industrial Union Council by acclamation of the convention yesterday afternoon in State armory.

Delegates stood to cheer and pound on the tables as Vice-President Ralph Beard, temporarily in the chair, called for the vote of acclamation.

A similar demonstration was staged when Sidney R. Katz, of Washington, representative of the Federal Workers Union, was re-elected secretary-treasurer of the council, also by acclamation.

Celanese Union Divided

The only indication of lack of harmony in CIO ranks came a few minutes after these demonstrations of unity when Arthur Schusterman and James Dundon were nominated as opposing candidates for one of the 13 vice-president jobs.

According to the council constitution, no one international union can be represented by more than one vice-president.

It was regarded as an indication of a union split into two factions, then, when Schusterman, president of Celanese union, was opposed by friends of Dundon, a past president of the local.

Caucus Splits Even

Schusterman was nominated by Delegate Coleman, who said the caucus of textile workers was split even on their choice for vice-president. He said the policy started when Dundon was elected vice-president of the council while president of his local should be continued with Schusterman's election as vice-president because he is now local president.

Delegate Edward Witt, former Celanese employe, now connected with the labor movement in Baltimore, came forward to urge the retention of Dundon as vice-president.

"There's not one blotch against this man's record," he said. "He stood shoulder to shoulder with me on the Celanese picket line. It would be impossible to replace him with a better man."

Dundon Declines

Immediately after he had been nominated, Dundon took the floor, saying he had just entered the convention hall a few minutes before.

"We deplore and regret that a situation like this has developed upon the convention floor," he said.

"Evidently there is a factional dispute being brought out here that really does not exist.

"Had I been present sooner, this would not have happened. With but one thought in mind, I take this opportunity to decline the nomination.

"I further feel that my action will not remedy the situation. I ask those who have opposed me to be as white as I have been, and that Mr. Shusterman withdraw his candidacy, too. Let our delegation go back and pick someone impartial to represent them on this board."

Schusterman Nominates Dundon

The delegation later withdrew in caucus, and when it returned, Schusterman took the floor to withdraw his candidacy and renominate Dundon.

"This movement is bigger, more important than the individual," he declared. "The caucus has decided this is the way it was to be done—the democratic way."

Dundon was one of the 13 nominated for the 13 vice-president jobs, and all were later elected by acclamation.

Others from Allegany county who were elected vice-presidents are Ralph Beard, of the United Rubber Workers; Lindley Dye, of Barton, United Mine Workers; Norman R. Hast, United Auto Workers; and Mrs. Bernadette Trost, of the laundry workers, first woman to be elected vice-president.

John T. Jones was re-nominated for the presidency by Robert Gaitens, field representative of the mine workers, who praised Jones for his bull dog tenacity.

In his acceptance speech, the new president asked for the full support of the rank and file.

"Each member assumes responsibility along with me," he declared. "There is no room for factions, because the labor movement is greater than all factions.

"The history of the labor movement is that when unions have gone by the board, then they have been destroyed from within and not by attacks from without.

"I am not unmindful," he said, "that in this free state of Maryland we will meet great opposition in advocating the rights of the people who toil."

He pledged support of the mine workers, saying that their closed shop gave them strength to help other CIO unions weakened by jurisdictional disputes.

Among the things the council will fight for in the coming year, he said, would be unemployment compensation for domestic servants.

Secretary-Treasurer Katz, called upon for a speech after his re-election, said, "It will require the best kind of CIO we can create to face the problems we must face.

"There are a lot of professional people paid to misinterpret the news, and they have given the opposition courage, and now they are riding high.

"We must make articulate the feelings of the people of this progressive state who want good labor legislatio

The Town Hall Players first production of the season will be given tonight at 8:40 p. m. in SS. Peter and Paul Hall. Tickets will be sold at the door.

The play is a psychological melodrama, according to Director Carl Low, in which a gangster takes over a professor's home for a hideout, kills the professor's friend, and is eventually destroyed by the professor's psychology.

In the cast are Mr. Low, Anne Frances Whiting, Louise Youngblood Moore, Jack Moore, Margaret Witherup, Salena Sharp, Jack Wentz, Hugh Shires, Joe Calvetto, and Jimmy Barrow. William Kight is stage manager.

Deaths

James Finan

Joseph B. Finan and Bart J. Finan went to Zanesville, Ohio, yesterday, where the former's brother, James Finan, 79, died early Wednesday. The body will be brought to his brother's home, 327 Washington street, this evening, and a requiem high mass will be said at 9 a. m. Saturday in St. Patrick's Church, followed by burial in the church cemetery.

A requiem high mass will be sung today at St. Thomas's Church, Zanesville, by a nephew, the Rev. Joseph Finan, of Monroe county, Ohio.

Mrs. Gilbert Stump Everett

Mrs. Gilbert Stump Everett, Christy road, died yesterday afternoon at her home following a three months illness. She was 29.

Surviving, besides her husband, are four children, Virginia, Helen, Violet and Ray, and a step-daughter, Daisy, all of Cumberland.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Wilt

Mrs. Sarah Ann Wilt, widow of Peter M. Wilt, died Wednesday at Sylvan Retreat, near Cumberland. She was 89.

She was a daughter of the late John and Emily Crowe, of Westernport.

Surviving are four sons, Thomas and Benjamin, both of Westernport; Peter, Jr., of Garrett county; and Floyd, of Eckhart, and one daughter, Mrs. Harvey Warnick, also of Westernport. She was a sister of Silas Crowe, of Cumberland, and Miss Jane Crowe and Miss Heiland Crowe, of Lonaconing.

Mrs. Laura May Browning

Mrs. Laura May Browning, of Flintstone, wife of the late Martin L. Browning, died yesterday evening at her home. She was 70.

A native of Flintstone, Mrs. Browning was a daughter of the late John B. and Mary E. Robinette, one of the first families to settle in Flintstone. She operated the Robinette store which has been in that family for three generations and was a member of the Presbyterian Church of Cumberland.

Surviving are a daughter, Leah B. Twigg, widow of the late Guy T. Twigg; two brothers, Charles Robinette, of Flintstone, and Wade, of Erie, Pa.; a sister, Mrs. B. M. Hinkle, of Cumberland, and two grandchildren.

Free Medical Care Urged At Convention

"The health problems of today must be met collectively," Louis S. Reed, of the Social Security office in Washington, told delegates to the CIO convention yesterday afternoon.

He explained to them the report on health needs of the nation recently made to President Rosevelt, and urged that the CIO unions back up the president in carrying out the following recommendations: More federal money for public health; more federal money for hospitals; and compulsory health insurance, or free medical care for all.

Medical care, he declared, is still a commodity which can be purchased only by those with money.

Many Americans suffer and die, he said, because they still cannot afford proper medical care.

Christmas Toy Led Him to Crime, Says Man, 25, in County Jail

It was an unlucky day for Donald E. Stine, 25-year-old Hagerstown shoemaker, when Santa Claus brought his nephews a toy casting set last Christmas.

Because he liked to play slot machines and because he used his nephews' apparatus — designed to manufacture toy soldiers and the like—to make slugs to go in the slot machines, he was being held in Allegany county jail today for the action of a federal grand jury.

At a hearing yesterday before United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett, he pleaded guilty to a charge of counterfeiting and was ordered held for the grand jury at the May term of United States district court.

He was committed to jail in default of $500 bond.

Specifically, he was accused of manufacturing, possessing, and passing five-cent coins in violation of federal statutes.

The bogus coins were a crude job and could hardly have been used for any purpose except slot machines. The Indian on one side of the nickel was fairly-well defined, but the other side was virtually blank. He had manufactured about a hundred of them, James H. Dickerson, of the U. S. Secret Service said.

He was brought here from Hagerstown by U. S. Deputy Marshal Howard P. Loughrie.

Hagerstown authorities who assisted in the case were William H. Peters, captain of detectives, and Officer Howard R. Maugans.

The case was the first heard by Mr. Avirett since his appointment as commissioner early this week.

The hearing was held here because D. Angle Wolfinger, U. S. commissioner at Hagerstown, was in Washington, where his wife and daughter are recovering from injuries received in a recent automobile accident. Mr. Wolfinger was also in the accident, which was said to have happened near Washington, but was not seriously injured.

Crash in Fog Fatal to Driver

Injuries received early Sunday when his struck left the Uhl highway in a dense fog and overturned proved fatal yesterday to Harry B. Hook Jr., of Paw Paw, W. Va.

Hook, 27-year-old fruit dealer, died yesterday morning in Memorial hospital. He had never regained consciousness.

He had been in Cumberland Saturday and was en route home when his truck left the road near Picardy, crashed into an embankment and overturned. He had apparently been unable to see on account of the fog which blanketed the countryside.

He lay pinioned beneath the truck for several hours before discovered and brought to the hospital by a passing motorist.

Steeplejack Jailed For Christmas Season

Frank L. Lemon, steeple-jack, settled down to spend the next 25 days in jail.

Arrested on charges of being drunk and disorderly, Lemon appeared yesterday in Police Court, minus Rev. Clark batting for him, and was fined $25 and in default was committed to spend the Christmas season in jail.

Spending most of his time in jail, Lemon was apprehended Wednesday by Officers Fred Neus and Frank Zwaski after he engaged in a fight near Front street.

He gave his latest address as Allegany Inn.

29 More Dropped From WPA Rolls

WPA rolls were reduced further during the past week when 29 workers went back to private employment, Henry Tarring, Jr., resident engineer, announced.

The total for the county is now 3,212, with 1,201 of that number employed on city projects.

Welfare officials announced Wednesday that 415 more persons have been certified for WPA in this county to date, but that none of them have been taken on by WPA because of lack of funds.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Crabtree, 346 Central avenue, announce the birth of a daughter yesterday morning at Memorial hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. John Billmeyer, of Ridgeley, announce the birth of a daughter yesterday morning at Allegany hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ren Runion, of Barton, announce the birth of a daughter Wednesday night at Memorial hospital.

Drunk Driver Gets 31 Days

Police continued their holiday campaign against highway accidents yesterday by bringing into court a motorist who was convicted of drunken driving, two speeders, and one driver accused of having faulty brakes.

Thomas C. DeLaney, of Eckhart, Md., was fined $101 in People's Court for reckless and drunken driving and in default was committed to 31 days in the County jail. He was arrested on the Queen City pavement by Officers C. C. Roby and F. O. Daum.

Floyd Biggs, 152 Wineow street, pleaded guilty to charges of operating a car with inadequate brakes and without a license. In default of fines amounting to $15.50, he was sentenced to 15 days in jail. State Trooper Carl G. Storm made the arrest.

Melvin E. Smith, Valley road, arrested on Henderson Blvd. for speeding and failure to stop at stop-signs by Officers Carl Stouffer and R. C. Cassen, was fined $5 in Police Court.

Paul Hendrickson, 3 Hazel road, forfeited a $10 bond in the same court on a charge similar to Smith's.

Community Chest Board Elects Executives

The Board of Directors of the Cumberland Community Chest met last night to elect officers and an executive committee.

Harold W. Smith was named president; Charles L. Kopp, vice-president; Harvey H. Weiss, treasurer; and Roy W. Eves, secretary.

These officers will serve on the executive committee together with Dr. A. H. Hawkins, Dr. A. P. Dixon, Mrs. Robert R. Henderson, William Groves, and William Milne.

That rumpus which climaxed the first day of the CIO convention was nothing more than something that might have happened at, say, an Acmerican Legion convention or the Country Club.

Some fellows thought some other fellows had insulated their girls. That usually starts something.

The CIO covention is holding no night sessions. The armory is needed at night for roller skating. For which the delegates are probably very happy, even though they don't roller skate.

Under the new marriage law, which goes into effect today, it is unlawful for the clerk to make public names of couples who have applied for a license and are waiting forty-eight hours to get it.

Yesterday the town's No. 1 gossip called up Clerk Robert Jackson and asked if it would be all right for him to stand around and just listen.

You can't always blame the fatal accident on the car. There were forty-five persons killed in Maryland in November in auto accidents. Although fifty-two autos were involved in these accidents, only five of them were reported defective in any way. As the old joke has it, its the nut behind the wheel that's to blame.

— o —

At that, the death toll in Maryland is down from 518 at this time last year to only 377 this year.

— o —

That case of the Pittsburgh man who married his son's widow here Wednesday created considerable discussion around the court house yesterday.

Joe Boden, deputy clerk of the Circuit court, pointed out that Maryland law permits marriage of first cousins, but forbids marriage of persons more remotely related.

Most, if not all, other states forbid marriage of first cousins, it was said.

John Price, another deputy clerk, explained that Maryland statutes limiting the degree of relationship within which persons can marry were based on old Mosaic law.

Legislators back in the old days were avid Bible readers, he said.

Mr. Price, himself a student of the Bible and law, referred reporters to Chapter 18 of Leviticus, which prohibits marriage of various persons.

The prohibition against marriage of a man to his daughter-in-law is found in the fifteenth verse of the chapter.

We'd be glad to quote it for you and save you the trouble of looking it up, but the censor frowned and said it was "risque."

In order to keep any of our readers from finding themselves in the dilemma of our Pittsburgh friends, here's the list of "shall nots" in Article 62 of the Maryland code, which pertains to marriage:

Corresponding prohibitions are listed for women.

So now you know. . . .

Brave Pioneers Needed Today, Says Professor

Tells Lions Club That America Still Has Many Frontiers

There are still frontiers to meet the demand of America's "Go West complex," Dr. William H. Coleman told members and guests of the Cumberland Lions club last night.

The geographical frontier is gone and the industrial frontier has been circumscribed, he said, but there are still other frontiers to be explored.

Among them he suggested "exploration of the human mind and spirit," a shift from the science of living" to the "art of living."

Charter Night Anniversary

Dr. Coleman, professor of English at Bucknell university, was the principal speaker at the seventh charter night anniversary banquet of the Lions club, held at the new Ali Ghan Shrine Country club.

Back in the days when there was new territory to be developed and our industrial life was keyed to a high pitch, there was ample satisfaction of the "Go West complex," Dr. Coleman declared.

Today, those frontiers are largely gone and Americans are restless, wondering where to turn, he continued.

He took issue, however, with those holding that there are no more frontiers.

Many Frontiers

New frontiers to be conquered are legion, he asserted.

Problems he listed as in need of solving included housing, conservation of national resources and preservation of democracy.

There is a vast deficiency of homes in the United States, he told the Lions. At least 15,000,000 homes are needed.

Preservation and development of our national domain, with emphasis on more recreation areas for the masses, was also urged by the speaker.

Turning to the problem of youth, growing up in a world rife with conflicting "isms," he advocates that principles of American democracy be inculcated into youth by the schools at an early age.

Education Needed

"We must educate the masses in the principles of our government," he declared. "If this is to be 'a government of the people, by the people, and for the people,' we must educate them so that they are capable of governing themselves."

Dr. Coleman took occasion to praise the New Deal for its development of "social consciousness."

"We may differ with its method" he said, "but its awakening of emphasis on the common man is a healthy trend."

Two Men Face Hearing On Disorderly Charge

Howard "Red" Bush, boxer and textile worker, and William R. Sheckler, Central Y.M.C.A. garage employe, were scheduled to be given a hearing in Police court today on charges of disorderly conduct.

They were said to have been in a fight at the Union club, Mechanic street, early yesterday morning.

CIO officials told reporters after the affair that Buch was one of three delegates to the CIO convention attacked on the street by unknown assailants who fled in a car.

Officials and delegates later denied that such an incident had occurred.

Both Buch, 101 Humbird street, and Sheckler were freed under bond of $10.
